M'ARDLE REDUCED TO RANKS

Today

The Unimaginable.
Failure, Says Mr. Coolidge.
Low Prices? Not in France.
What Will Mr. Smith Do?

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

THE GIANT British airship R-100, flying over the sea, above the clouds at 60 miles an hour, is expected to land in Canada this afternoon.

A few years ago the average man could not have imagined that. Now that it has happened, not one in a hundred realizes what it means.

Long after steam railroads were operating successfully in England, wise men, in and out of Parliament, said the locomotive could not possibly be a success.

MR. COOLIDGE says the farm board effort to hold up the price of wheat and cotton is a failure.

Europe's cartel couldn't maintain steel prices, our government failed in its effort to stabilize silver, the British couldn't corner rubber, or Brazil, coffee, and Cuba failed with sugar.

It is not possible to repeal the law of supply and demand, cause and effect, action and reaction, says Mr. Coolidge.

AND HE ADDS, which will interest wets and drys, "an act of Congress has small jurisdiction over what men think."

What does Mr. Coolidge, himself a total abstainer, think about the Volstead act?

Can it control "what men think?" Can it really control what men DRINK?

WHILE MR. COOLIDGE was writing his "piece" about the Farm Board failure, for Wednesday's newspapers, wheat was dropping to a new "lowest price," cotton, to the year's lowest price, and raw sugar to the lowest price in 70 years. It is hard to fight the law of supply and demand.

Refined sugar held its price, 4.70 a pound, and will probably drop soon. This is the time to put up preserves.

Seven years ago they sold for $84.

FRANCE, another country that you should not sell short, may well be proud when her minister of commerce, Flandin, can say:

"There is practically no unemployment here in France, while in Germany, Great Britain and the United States more than 7,000,000 persons are out of work. Our purchases of raw materials since the first of this year exceed by more than 2,500,000 tons similar purchases in the same period last year."

FORMER GOVERNOR ALFRED E. SMITH, busy erecting a building 102 stories high, in New York, ever since he erected his tower of 15,000,000 Democratic votes in 1928, will soon dip back into politics.

He will attend the New York state Democratic convention, make some speeches for Gov. Roosevelt, whom he nominated in 1928, and take part in the Democratic congressional campaign.

POLITICIANS ASSUME he will be a candidate again in 1932. That would seem reasonable. Bryan had more than one chance, and his biggest vote was only about half of Smith's.

Friends of Mr. Smith, however, predict that he will not run in 1932, but will support and put in nomination his friend, Owen D. Young.

If that happens it will make Republicans thoughtful.

THE "OUTBOARD Motor" idea used for years on little boats is successfully applied to the air.

Myrlen Johnson, from Oakland's field in a glider with a 30-horsepower engine attached, went up 14,600 feet. Boys and young men will want to experiment with that.

JOHN MacDONALD, years ago, swore that Tom Mooney and Warren Billings were responsible for a bomb that destroyed many lives. Now he swears his original testimony was perjury. If he is telling the truth this time, Mooney and Billings will, of course, be set free.

How are the seven justices of California's Supreme Court to know whether MacDonald was lying then, or lying now? Knowledge of human nature may help. One thing is certain, MacDonald committed perjury, then or now. The governor and the judges might well hesitate to keep men in jail on his testimony.

ATTEMPTS TO expose "the Russian Red conspiracy to overthrow our government" take a comic opera turn.

A political leader among colored men said Russia was very active among his followers and had converted "about 20 of them" to Communism.

Twenty colored Communists would hardly upset our government.

NEW YORK POLICE, thinking they had discovered the "Red nest" from which Russian doctrines were sent broadcast, raided a drug store belonging to a loyal Tammany Hall man who happens to sell goods to the Russian Amtorg Trading Corporation for its hospital. Mr. Shafran, the honest Tammany druggist, isn't a Communist and doesn't want to divide with anybody.

MT. LEBANON TO ASK MINE INJUNCTION

Township Orders Action, As Musmanno Drafts Law To Balk Coal Company

Mt. Lebanon district residents moved today on three fronts to combat the Pittsburgh Coal Company's project to move coal pillars beneath 100 or more properties unless the surface owners purchase the coal rights.

1—Township commissioners instructed their solicitor, E. B. Golfsmith to apply tomorrow for an injunction to prevent the removal of the pillars. He will file a bill in equity, he said, provides for protection of individuals and property.

2—Representative M. A. Musmanno, of that district, announced he would introduce remedial legislation at the next session of the Legislature.

3—Township commissioners and residents will meet tonight to debate means to frustrate the coal company's plans. Civic organizations joined in the fight, with calls for meetings.

RELIEF NEEDED

Musmano branded the action of the coal company as "demanding its pound of flesh" and declared that there is "a crying need for statutory relief to protect community rights from exactions of property rights, evidenced in the attempt of the Pittsburgh Coal Company to sell Mt. Lebanon property owners underlying coal under threats to withdraw the surface protection."

He said:

CHINESE ATTACK U. S. GUNBOAT

SHANGHAI, July 31.—(AP.)—Five American sailors were wounded as the crew of the United States gunboat Palos successfully fought off an attack of Chinese Communists near Changsha yesterday. About 50 Communists were killed and many wounded as the bluejackets returned the fire of the reds, who raked the ship with machine guns and rifles.

The reds attacked from the banks of the Siang River as the Palos was approaching the city to survey the ruins. Opening fire with 100 rifles and 10 machine guns, the Communists showered the Palos with bullets.

Caught in close quarters and unable to turn back, the Palos brought her three-inch rifle and machine guns into action, firing into the attackers at close range.

The battle raged for an hour before the Communists were silenced.

LONDON, July 31.—(INS.)—All foreign residents of Changsha, China, including James Pates, of Washington, Pa., have been rescued, according to Shanghai dispatches to London evening newspapers.

'Expect to Land at 8 O'Clock Tonight,' Airship Radios Throng Awaiting Arrival

BULLETIN.

ST. HUBERT, Que., July 31.—(AP.)—The R-100 passed aFther Point, Que., on its flight up the St. Lawrence River at 1 p. m. today, Pittsburgh time, according to a report from the Signal Service. Father Point is about 175 miles east of Quebec.

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN,
International News Service.

ST. HUBERT AIRPORT, MONTREAL, July 31.—"Expect to land at St. Hubert Airport at 8 o'clock tonight."

This message was received here at noon by radio wireless from the British dirigible R-100, which is speeding toward Montreal on her maiden trans-Atlantic flight from her home port in Cardington, England.

R. S. Booth

The landing will be made at 8 p. m. Pittsburgh daylight time.

On the basis of earlier information it had been expected the airship would arrive several hours sooner.

The R-100 was over Canada, following the St. Lawrence River in a southwesterly direction. A previous message from the ship said she passed over West Point Anticosti, an island in the Gulf of St. Lawrence. However, she was bucking a headwind of 25-horsepower velocity at that time, and the adverse winds may have slowed her up.

At 1 o'clock this afternoon it was announced at the airport here that the signal service reported the position of the R-100 at 11:15 eastern daylight time as over Point Des Monts, on the north shore of the St. Lawrence River. This is approximately 600 miles from Montreal.

FOLLOWING RIVER

The R-100 was apparently following the course of the St. Lawrence River. The communication was the first direct message received from the airship at the airport here. Other messages had come via Louisburg, Nova Scotia. One message said:

"Seven a. m., eastern standard time, 50.00 north, 64.10 west.

B. & O. DEALING FOR ALTON

NEW YORK, July 31.—(AP.)—George M. Shriver, senior vice president of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, said today that negotiations for acquisition of the Chicago and Alton Railroad were being carried on, but no definite conclusions had been reached.

His statement was made in answer to reports current in Wall Street that the Baltimore and Ohio had acquired control of the Midwest carrier through a third party, who had turned a majority of the bonds of the Chicago and Alton over to bankers for the Baltimore and Ohio.

The Chicago and Alton, which is valued at $100,000,000, has been in the hands of a receiver since 1922. It is a 1,000-mile road, serving the territory from Chicago south and southwest to St. Louis and Kansas City.

Alton Seeks Fare Cut Due to Buses

CHICAGO, July 31.—(AP.)—Permission to reduce train fares between this city and St. Louis, to meet bus line competition, will be asked of the Interstate Commerce Commission by the Chicago and Alton Railroad, President W. C. Bierd has announced.

Heir to $800,000 Secretly Divorced

CHICAGO, July 31.—(INS.)—A secret divorce suit brought by Mrs. Abigail Campbell Alton, formerly of New York, against Carol Wilson Alton, beneficiary of an $800,000 trust fund, was revealed today.

The decree, already drawn up, will become final when signed by Circuit Judge Thomas Lynch.

Lady Heath, Daring Flier, To Fight Guardianship

By MARION O. CHENOWETH.
International News Service.

CLEVELAND, July 31.—Lady Heath, British aviatrix, will fight "to the end" to prevent appointment of a guardian, asked by her nurse and companion, Miss Florence Madden, in the suit before the Cuyahoga County Probate Court.

This spirited and emphatic declaration was made by Lady Heath today to International News Service in an exclusive interview at Dellhurst Sanitarium, near here, where she is resting and recuperating.

Much disturbed by the suit, Lady Heath, who now appears and claims to be as fit as the proverbial fiddle, declared she was perfectly able to "take care of her own affairs" despite the allegations in the guardianship petition, filed by Miss Madden and charging the aviatrix is "incompetent by reason of mental disorders." She said:

"I am greatly indebted to Miss Madden for her companionship and I consider her one of my best friends. But I will not stand for anyone to manage my affairs when I am able to take care of myself."

The case has been set for Tuesday. She was expected to leave Dellhurst today, according to her attorney, Gerald J. Pilliod, who is preparing a vigorous defense.

Lady Heath has aged slightly since her last public appearance. But she still is the smiling, trim and active figure she was when she startled the world with her exploits in the air, two years ago.

Three Girl Communists Arrested; Two Won't Pay, Sent to Jail

Three girls who say they are proud to be called Communists seemed happily in trouble with the police today.

Betty Shean, 16, of Concord street, and Ida Ornofsky, 19, of Landis street, both went to jail on 10-day sentences rather than pay $25 fines for distributing Communist literature.

And Nell Amter, 21, who takes after her father, was in the North Side jail in default of bail, having been arrested for a similar offense today.

Police testified in Morals Court that Betty and Ida had passed "Red" pamphlets at the plant of the Pittsburgh Screw and Bolt Company in Woods Run without a permit. The girls agreed with the police.

Nell was arrested outside the Heinz plant on the North Side while she was making a heated speech and distributing handbills announcing Communist meetings.

A crowd of 300 listened to Nell before she was arrested by Patrolman John W. Greene, who complained that Nell had scratched his face.

Nell said she was the daughter of Israel Amter, arrested in "Red" riots in New York with William Z. Foster and Robert Minor. She said her father, to, was in jail.

Dogs to Run Tonight, No Betting

Dog races, apparently only for the sake of the sport, positively will be run tonight at the Guyasuta track, on the Freeport road, near Aspinwall, John Douglas, receiver for the track, announced this afternoon.

Said Mr. Douglas:

"There will be no gambling at the track. I believe there is enough interest in dog races themselves to justify our decision. Children, accompanied by their parents, will be admitted free. And the owners of the winning dogs will receive prizes."

This, then, seems to settle Douglas' joust with District Attorney Park, who has insisted that the track remain closed if the betting windows are to be opened.

Park has announced that he will continue to have the track watched and will arrest anyone attempting to gamble.

Yancey Stops Off At Rio de Janeiro

SUNDAY BAN PUT ON 'BABY GOLF'

Public Safety Director Clarke and Police Supt. Walsh invoked the mighty law today on the miniature golf courses.

The police officials warned their underlings that these courses must close promptly at midnight on week nights and remain closed all day Sunday—the latter in deference to the ancient Blue Laws.

Walsh changed his mind on this last order. He had allowed the courses to be open last Sunday, pending decision on an appeal to the County Courts from the fining of a proprietor, Emanuel Rose, of Squirrel Hill, who has asked the courts also for an injunction to restrain interfering.

Hoover Wishes Luck To Blonde 'Miss U. S.'

WASHINGTON, July 31.—(AP.)—President Hoover found time this afternoon to grant an audience to Miss Beatrice Lee, youthful blonde beauty, who will represent the United States in the forthcoming world beauty contest in Rio de Janeiro, Brazil. She lives in Salt Lake City, Utah.

Mr. Hoover appeared interested in Miss Lee's aspirations to bring the beauty crown to this country and wished her good luck.

Lindy, Guggenheim Fly From Capital

Bird Perils Flight Of Congresswoman

BURLINGTON, Vt., July 31.—(AP.)—Representative Edith Nourse Rogers has had a narrow escape in the air. When she was circling Fort Ethan Allen a bird hit and thrown by the propeller, struck her pilot, Lieut. J. A. Wilson, dazing him. He recovered quickly and made a safe landing.

J. V. THOMPSON FIGHTS JAIL

UNIONTOWN, Pa., July 31.—Josiah V. Thompson, one time millionaire coal baron, was fighting with his back to the wall to keep out of jail here today.

Judge J. W. Dawson, in Orphans Court, signed an order committing Thompson to jail for contempt of court, but his attorneys at once filed a petition for his release on bail under the insolvency act.

This was being argued while the aged defendant sat dejectedly at the counsel table. Across the table sat his niece, the Princess of Thurn and Taxis, daughter of the late John Nicolls, whose estate Thompson is alleged to have used for his own purposes. No sign of recognition passed between them.

Thompson has been given half a dozen extensions of a parole originally granted last December, ostensibly to permit him to recoup his financial losses through a supposed gigantic coal land deal.

Thompson was held in contempt for failure to meet obligations to the Nicolls and Emma Messmore estates, the amount involved being around $300,000.

Counsel for the estates bitterly opposed releasing the former financier to bail today and demanded that the court commit him to jail.

Thompson's counsel asked that he be released pending a hearing in the near future.

Court was not adjourned for lunch as a crowd listened to heated arguments of opposing lawyers.

King George Takes Cruise on Yacht

COWES, Eng., July 31.—(INS.)—For the first time since he was taken seriously ill almost two years ago, King George indulged in yachting, his favorite sport, today. Arriving at Cowes from Portsmouth aboard the royal yacht Victoria and Albert, His Majesty transferred to his sailing yacht Britannia and went for a cruise on the Solent. The King, appearing in splendid health, seemed to enjoy the experience immensely.

INSPECTOR ORDERED TO BEAT

Public Safety Director Clark announced that McArdle had been "broken" for the good of the service.

Inspector Dennis Hennessey, recently promoted and transferred to the new police district in Carrick, was placed in McArdle's South Side territory.

MOORE INSPECTOR

Lieut. Harry Moore was named acting inspector in Hennessey's old position.

Clark announced these changes just a few minutes after he had denied flatly that McArdle was to be demoted.

A Sun-Telegraph reporter, having in mind the alleged feud between McArdle and Goslin, asked Clark whether the inspector's reduction could be blamed on the clearing house lotteries. Clark replied:

"McArdle was demoted for the good of the service. Other than that I have nothing to say."

FOUGHT GOSLIN

McArdle's reduction occurs while he was trying to break up a alleged clearing house lottery operated, so he said, by Thomas (Goose) Goslin on the South Side.

The inspector's enemies contended that he was aiming at Goslin so that "Hunky Joe" Lewandowski might usurp the title of numbers czar.

McArdle's underlings repeatedly had arrested alleged agents of Goslin, just as often as not, they had been discharged in police court by Magistrate John J. Sweeney, who was believed at odds with the inspector.

Surgeons to Remove Nail From Baby's Windpipe

A nail in the bronchial tubes of Milton Strain, 13 months old, of Franklin, Pa., is to be removed by surgeons at the Presbyterian Hospital.

The child was supposed to have been suffering from a severe chest cold when treatment proved of no avail, a bronchoscope revealed the nail in the air passages. Attempts to remove the obstruction in an Oil City hospital were futile and the baby was brought to this city, Saturday.

The operation is said to be one of the most delicate known to medical science.

Washington Hears of Russ Underselling Plan; Fears Harm to Industry, Farms

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON.
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, July 31.—The tremendous campaign of Soviet Russia to undersell the world's leading commercial nations in their home markets developed interest on Capitol Hill today, although legislative relief must be postponed until fall.

The Russian government has entered upon a commercial program, according to word reaching senators, to throw huge quantities of agricultural, mined and manufactured products into the markets of the world at prices far below the local cost of production. Thus far, the program has directed only lumber and manganese ore into American markets, but the legislators fear many other agricultural and industrial products will follow.

FEAR FOR WHEAT MARKET

Concern was also expressed over the plans of Russia for disposing of her huge wheat crop. This crop, it was said, is being produced at ridiculous cost, and will ultimately be thrown into the world wheat market. The Russians, it was said, have imported modern farm machinery and are utilizing American farming methods. Fear was expressed that sale of this crop at low prices would further slash prices in the American market.

The American government already has acted to halt the flow of Russian lumber into the United States.

The flood of cheap Russian manganese ore into American channels drew a protest from Senator Oddie (Rep.), of Nevada, who declared the Russians were "dumping" manganese ore into America at prices far below the American cost of production. He declared American mines were closing and demanded the Treasury Department declare an embargo on Russian ore.

CRITICIZES BETHLEHEM

The Nevada Senator criticized the Bethlehem Steel Company for buying manganese ore from Russia, saying it "would like to continue to set aside the American tariff and obtain its product at the expense of American capital and labor."

When Congress returns, one of its first problems undoubtedly will be to control Russian imports. Whether legislation can be enacted, since President Hoover opposes any discrimination against Russian commerce, remains to be seen.

RIOT QUIZ URGES PENAL REFORM

AUBURN, N. Y., July 31.—(AP.)—Severe condemnation of the pre-riot management of Auburn Prison was contained in the report of the Cayuga County special grand jury, handed up after an investigation into prison conditions that required nearly seven months. No indictments were returned.

The report, made to Supreme Court Justice Benjamin B. Cunningham, contained 63 recommendations for decided changes at the penal institution and in the law. Chief among these was that the law providing that a mandatory life sentence be given on conviction of a fourth felony be amended so that it will apply only to crime of force or violence.

Long-Range Forecaster Says Heat Isn't Ended

WASHINGTON, July 31.—(AP.)—Henry Janvrin Browne, whose long-range weather forecasts have brought him into conflict with the weather bureau from time to time today said the present break in the heat was only temporary and there would be no definite end to the wave until after Labor Day.

Months ago, Browne said, he was convinced a sun-spot cycle coupled with a lunar cycle, had destined that the summer of 1930 be hot and dry.

He said a perusal of weather records, dating back through the centuries, had convinced him unusually hot and dry summers came every 56 years. Similar conditions to those of this summer prevailed in 1874 and in 1818, Browne said.

The forecaster said the moon had traveled so far north it had pulled the waters of the Atlantic westward, dragging with them the heat of the Gulf Stream under which the Mississippi Valley has sweltered.

WOMAN FLIER TO SEE HOOVER

WASHINGTON, July 31.—Mrs. Blanche Wilcox Noyes, a girl aviatrix, will fly here Friday from Chicago bearing a floral invitation to President and Mrs. Hoover to attend the national air races there August 23 to September 1.

The invitation is made of roses named for the President at a recent flower show sponsored by the Department of Agriculture.

President and Mrs. Hoover are to receive the girl flier at the White House shortly after her arrival at Hoover Field, where she will be met by the officers of the Eagle Wings Flying Club, the flying unit of the Women's City Club of Washington.

The Eagle Wings club is composed of eight women and two men who have been studying for several months.

They will receive their diplomas in ground work next month.

Mrs. Noyes is the wife of Dewey Noyes, former Pittsburgh airmail pilot. They live in Ohio.

She was the first woman to obtain a transport pilot's license and is one of 12 women in the United States to hold that rating. With her husband she took an active part in the search for Tom Nelson, mail pilot, who was killed in a crash near Cleveland last winter.

'COZY' DOLAN'S CAFE RAIDED

CHICAGO, July 31.—(INS.)—John (Cozy) Dolan, former coach of the New York Giants, and five employes of his fashionable Club Huron on the Gold Coast were under arrest today following a midnight raid on the society playspot by prohibition agents.

A dozen fashionably dressed couples were dining and dancing in Dolan's establishment when the raiders, armed with search warrants and evidently knowing where to search, descended on the place.

The prohibition agents seized 12 cases of rare liquors, 500 bottles of lager beer and a quantity of wine. They also seized a card index, said to contain names and addresses of 400 prominent business men. Names on the lists, according to the prohibition men, will be investigated.

The patrons and hostesses were allowed to go, but Dolan and Harold Watson, reputed to be his partner, and four waiters and bartenders were taken in custody.

Dolan was barred from baseball in the scandal that preceded the 1924 world series.

LONDON, July 31.—(AP.)—The committee of privileges of the House of Commons, investigating a speech made by E. Sandham, Labor, charging members with bribery and drunkenness, today reported that his statement was a gross breach of privilege, that the bribery charge was a gross libel on the House and that Sandham deserved the censure of the Commons.

'Miniature Golf' Not Golf, Judge Rules in Suit

WASHINGTON, July 31.—(INS.)—That little game called "miniature golf" and sometimes referred to as Tom Thumb and even moron "golf," according to the state of one's mind, is not golf, nor is it a "kindred game," according to a decision of Justice Alfred A. Wheat, in District Supreme Court here.

The decision was on a mandamus action brought by W. L. Koontz and others to compel Superintendent of Licenses Wade H. Combs to issue a permit to operate one of the midget courses that are appearing all over the country.

Justice Wheat decided that the course could be operated on payment of the $100 fee charged annually for commercial enterprises, instead of the $5 a day fee Combs charges the full size regular courses.

COX MAKES DRY REPEAL ISSUE

COLUMBUS, O., July 31.—(AP.)—Repeal of the national prohibition amendment is the dominant issue among Ohio Democrats in the senatorial primary contest, which closes August 12. Lack of Republican contests has failed to bring out any definite issue in that party.

Repeal was brought boldly into the campaign by a declaration favoring it by James M. Cox, former governor and Democratic presidential candidate 10 years ago.

Immediately afterward two senatorial candidates were in the field, seeking nomination on that issue. One is former Congressman Robert J. Bulkley, and George S. Myers, both Cleveland attorneys.

CHICAGO, July 31.—(INS.)—Alleging her husband, Charles J. Fisher, is a bootlegger with an income of $40,000 a year, Mrs. Winifred M. Fisher today had brought suit for divorce.

Coolidge Favors Tariff Protection for Canada

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., July 31.

To the Editor of the Sun-Telegraph:

In Canada the Liberal party has lost control of the government in the recent election and the Conservative party will have a clear working majority in the incoming Parliament.

Calvin Coolidge.

Two elements contributed to this result. The first was business depression, which usually works against the party in power. Many wage earners were out of work. The price of agricultural products was low. Therefore both the laborers and the farmers turned to the opposition party. The second was a resurgence of the national spirit. The Canadians voted to put Canada above the empire. They are for a tariff that will protect their own domestic interests. While their economic ties with the empire are weakened probably their political ties are unimpaired.

Our investments in Canada run into billions of dollars. Whatever will make the Dominion prosperous would be welcomed by us. We have never directed our tariff policy at the Canadians and do not expect they will direct theirs at us, but any general policy of protection to build up the country would in the end make them better customers for our goods. We can best deal with a country that maintains our standards of living.

DRY CHIEFS MAP DRIVE ON BIG VIOLATORS

Policy of 'Steady Pressure' Adopted; Petty Offenders Largely Will Be Ignored

WASHINGTON, July 31.—(AP.)—Supervisors of industrial alcohol permits were summoned to Washington today to consider the problem of effectively combining their efforts with those of the prohibition enforcement unit of the Justice Department in an intensive battle against the traffic in illicit liquor.

While the 12 prohibition administrators, in charge of enforcement in the field, continued their two-day conference, the supervisors were called into a separate meeting with their chief, James M. Doran.

The subject of united action thus was approached in two ways, with Dr. Doran addressing the administrators and Amos W. W. Woodcock, the director of enforcement, speaking to the supervisors.

READY FOR PROBLEMS

In addition to the problem of co-operation, Doran said, the supervisors were ready to tackle the general question of improving the administration of the industrial alcohol laws and also questions of personnel and budget.

An important subject, he added, was the question of preventing violations of the dry laws without interfering with legitimate business in industrial alcohol.

Once co-ordinated in the Treasury Department, the two branches were separated by the transfer of the enforcement unit to the Justice Department. Today's meeting was the first for the supervisors since the reorganization on July 1.

Woodcock late yesterday issued a statement saying the primary object of the present enforcement regime is a reduction in the consumption of intoxicating liquor and not the number of convictions can be obtained for violations of the prohibition statutes.

PLAN STEADY PRESSURE

A policy of "steady pressure" against the larger commercial violators will be followed, he said, and his agents will not be permitted to waste their time in drives against petty, non-commercial violations.

In addition he announced schools would be established for training agents, a system of daily reports from all enforcement districts instituted and an effort made to obtain uniform sentences for violations of an approximately similar extent.

The supervisors summoned to today's meeting were:

Philip Hamlin, Boston; W. D. Moses, New York; S. O. Wynne, Philadelphia; Thomas E. Stone, Richmond; O. D. Jackson, New Orleans; R. E. Joyce, Cincinnati; E. C. Yellowley, Chicago; S. B. Quale, St. Paul; S. S. Haley, Kansas City; G. E. Ellsworth, Denver; William R. Woods, Jr., San Francisco; F. R. McReynolds, Seattle.

PHILADELPHIA, July 31.—(INS.)—Mrs. Anna Van Stan Watkins, blonde, bobbed-haired ex-cabaret entertainer and erstwhile wife of William Watkins, one of the principals in Chicago's puzzling baby mixup, changed her mind today about going to Chicago to press bigamy charges. She declared:

"I hold no pity for my husband—for he is still my husband, so far as I know—but my sympathy has been aroused for the other woman, whom I know only as Margaret, and for their babe.

"There is only one decent thing to do—marry Margaret and give their baby a rightful name.

CHICAGO, July 31.—(INS.)—Mental anguish suffered by a mother who is not sure the child she has is her own was valued today at $100,000 in a suit filed against the Englewood Hospital on behalf of Mrs. William Watkins.

BIG DROUGHT TO CONTINUE

WASHINGTON, July 31.—(AP.)—The searing drought which for weeks and months has baked large areas between the Rocky Mountains and the Appalachians was listed today as the worst the country has experienced since statewide weather records began.

J. B. Kincer, meteorologist for the Department of Agriculture, described it as unparalleled in the records, which reach back 40 or 50 years.

Farmers who have watched their crops wither under almost unprecedented temperature records accompanying moisture deficiencies, particularly corn, pastures and fall truck crops, received no encouragement. The forecast division of the Weather Bureau said no relief was in sight for several days more, at least.

DRY QUIZ PLANS FALL REPORT

WASHINGTON, July 31.—(AP.)—President Hoover's law enforcement commission will issue a second formal report on its work this fall. Arrangements for formulation of the document will be completed at a meeting here early in October.

Chairman Wickersham, meanwhile, is preparing a resume of his views on the commission's accomplishments and aims, which he will voice before the American Bar Association in Chicago August 20.

Scores of experts on prohibition, causes of crime, juvenile delinquency, court procedure and other subjects, among whom the body has divided its task, will begin sending in preliminary reports shortly. These will be before the commissioners at their meeting, October 8, for incorporation in the second formal report.

SCHWAB PAY $150,000 YEARLY

Bethlehem Steel Head Does Not Share in Bonus Plan, Merger Suit Informed

YOUNGSTOWN, O., July 31.—(AP.)—Charles M. Schwab receives a straight salary of $150,000 a year as chairman of the board of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation and does not participate in the bonus system, it was revealed today in the suit to enjoin merger of the Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company with the Bethlehem Corporation.

Defense attorneys brought out testimony to refute an implication that the Youngstown steel firm depressed its 1929 earnings and assets.

M'DONALD TESTIFIES

William N. McDonald, comptroller of the Sheet and Tube Company, testified on direct examination that a large loss in 1929 was charged to a contingent reserve fund, but could have been properly charged to profit and loss.

The loss occurred, he said, in the Continental Supply Company, a subsidiary of the steel firm.

In 1928, he said, Continental loss was charged against the earnings. Asked why the procedure changed, he said the company desired to make a better showing.

Attorneys for the Cyrus S. Eaton interests, which brought the injunction suit as stockholders of the Youngstown company, had attempted to show that the company made extraordinary charges to profit and loss in its financial report preceding the contract to merge with Bethlehem. They have charged that officers of the Youngstown company had interests other than those of their stockholders when they negotiated the merger, and that these other interests caused them to accept a contract, the terms of which were unfair to their own firm.

CHARGE DENIED

An effort also was made to show that the Youngstown company depressed its assets by extraordinary write-off. This was denied.

Information on Schwab's salary was furnished by defense attorneys and introduced by attorneys for the Cyrus S. Eaton interests who are attempting to block the merger on the ground it is unfair to Youngstown company stockholders.

SCRANTON CHIEF BACKS PINCHOT

SCRANTON, Pa., July 31.—(INS.)—The camp of Gifford Pinchot, apparent Republican gubernatorial nominee, had been further strengthened in this district today following the announcement by Fred K. Derby, mayor of Scranton, that he favored the candidacy of the tall forester.

Mrs. Hoover, Baseball F Leads Party in Applau

WASHINGTON, July 31.—(AP.)—President and Mrs. Hoover went to the baseball game, ate peanuts, and rooted for the home team.

It was the second time this year they had seen the Washington team beaten, but they stayed until the last man was out and applauded each threatening rally as the Senators fought to overcome a Philadelphia lead.

The Chief Executive wore white flannel trousers and a blue coat, Mrs. Hoover a brown woven straw hat and a figured chiffon dress. They were accompanied by a large party of guests and all made a circus-day outing of the occasion.

As the Senators filled the bases near the end of the game and victory appeared possible, several of the party arose and cheered.

Mrs. Hoover, who had led the applause from the Presidential party throughout the game, was one of the first to rise in the seventh inning. She and the Chief Executive stood with the thousands until play was resumed.

They had attended the opening game this year, but since the President has been unable to get away from his office.

Besides the President and Mrs. Hoover, in the party were Secretary Davis, Attorney General Mitchell, Postmaster General Brown, Walter Hope, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury; Ernest L. Jahncke, assistant secretary of the Navy; Walter Newton and George Ackerson, White House secretaries; Capt. Russell Train, the President's naval aide; Col. Campbell B. Hodges, the military aide; Capt. John T. Boone, White House physician, and James L. West, of the Republican National Committee.

QUIZ RANGES OVER WIDE FIELD

Chemistry, Physics, Literature Mythology, 'Horse Sense' Covered in Questionnaire

By LAURENCE DUMOND
International News Service.

WEST ORANGE, N. J., July 31.—Forty-nine boys today were toiling over "the toughest examination they ever faced" in the Edison laboratory to determine who is deserving of the title "the brightest boy in the United States," and who will get the Edison scholarship entitling the winner to a college education.

Some of the youngsters were so scared this morning that they ate little or no breakfast. Until noon they are slated to wrestle with questions concerning chemical formulae, mathematics, physics, history, astronomy, literature, mythology, present-day news events and the field of "just plain common horse sense."

Questions they are faced with range from Avogardo's hypothesis to why alcohol is used in an automobile radiator.

They must define an atom and describe a system of education for the whole world.

Among the questions was:

"You are the head of an expedition which has come to grief in a desert. There is enough food and water left to enable three people to get to the nearest outpost of civilization. The rest of them must perish.

"Your companions are a brilliant scientist, 50 years old; two half-breed guides, 58 and 32; the wife of the scientist, 39, who is interested only in society; her 6-year-old son; the girl you are engaged to marry; your best friend, a young man who has shown great promise in the field of science, and yourself.

"Which ones would you choose to live and which to die? Give your reasons for you decisions."

HIGHLY TECHNICAL

Numerous highly technical problems were put to the youths, but among the more general questions asked were these:

"When you look back on your life from your death-bed, by what facts will you determine whether you have succeeded or failed?"

"If you had a brother who wanted to be an artist or a poet, would you encourage him or attempt to dissaude him?"

"Name the planets in the solar system."

"What causes the seasons of the year?"

PYRAMID PUZZLED

"The base of a pyramid is a square, each side of which is 12 inches. Each of the other four edges is 20 inches. Find the altitude and the volume of the pyramid.

"If a church organ is not provided with some sort of heating arrangement it will play out of tune when the church is cold. Why?

"What is the smallest height mirror standing vertically in which a man six feet tall and standing erect can see his entire length?

"In the year 1900 how would you have gotten the first cable of a suspension bridge across an impassible gorge one-half mile wide?"

BUILD SOLIDLY IN QUAKE ZONE

ROME, July 31.—(INS.)—Foundations for shock-proof buildings were laid today by the Italian government in several of the earthquake-stricken cities of South Central Italy, where a huge reconstruction program will soon be under way.

Cautioned by the present disaster, and previous ones, the government ordered that all building must follow the new provisions, which prevent haphazard construction and erection on steep hillsides, near crater rims or fissures.

Financed by a relief fund running into millions, thousands of workers today swung pick and shovel in the Apnenine region, preparing the ground for first building operations.

Residents of Naples still kept a wary eye on Mt. Vesuvius, whose crater belched viciously earlier in the week. It was believed that the eruption was but momentary.

DRIVER HELD IN BOY'S DEATH

James B. Harlan, 30, of 206 Clairmont avenue, West View, was held for the grand jury on a manslaughter charge on recommendation of a coroner's jury today, following an inquest into the death of Leo Vollmer, 14, of 715 Foreland street, North Side.

Vollmer died July 23 in Allegheny General Hospital of a fracture of the skull, suffered when he was struck by an automobile driven, it is said by Harlan. The boy was riding a bicycle.

At the inquest today Harlan testified he struck the bicycle and had removed it from the front of his machine, where it had stuck. He further testified that he did not know he had hit the boy and had continued on his way without a report of the accident.

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., July 31.—The Citizens National Bank failed to open this morning—the third Connellsville bank to close within 30 days.

A notice posted on the doors stated the bank had been closed by the directors and placed in the hands of the comptroller of the currency, who has designated D. J. Bleakley, national bank examiner, to take charge.

Officials of the Second National Bank, the only one remaining, gave assurance they could pay dollar for dollar on all demands.

The Citizens National has been established 25 years. Several years ago, it absorbed the First National Bank. According to its statement of June 30, it had resources of $3,377,507, surplus of $200,000, demand deposits of $805,275 and savings deposits of $1,958,620. It was capitalized at $100,000. F. E. ACCUSED POLICE EXONERATED

Motorcycle Patrolmen Harry Gordon and Henry Kahout, suspended last week on complaint of Mark Epstein, were exonerated today by the police trial board.

Epstein declined to answer any questions by Public Safety Director James M. Clark or Police Superintendent Peter P. Walsh regarding his charges that the two patrolmen had accepted $315 from him for permitting him to proceed with a truck load of liquor.

His refusal to answer, police officials stated after the hearing, was on advice of his attorney, Louis Little.

Clark and Walsh asked City Solicitor Charles A. Waldschmidt for an opinion as to whether a court order could be obtained to compel Epstein to answer questions. Clark asserted that Epstein had previously signed a statement setting forth his version of the alleged "shakedown."

FORD, 67, SEES ROSY FUTURE

WEST ORANGE, N. J., July 31.—(AP.)—The future of opportunity in the machine age is a rosy one in the eyes of Henry Ford.

This optimistic comment was expressed in an informal interview by the automobile magnate on his sixty-seventh birthday here yesterday.

He said hard work is the paramount essential of success; that prohibition is beneficial; that business depression is of negligible gravity, and that the unemployment problem has no perfect solution.

"Industry itself is a part of culture," he said. "The fact that a man knows a lot about industry does not prevent his using good grammar, standing straight and appearing well.

"The day of individual success is not over. There are a thousand chances where there was one in my day."

BLOOMFIELDERS MENACE RAID

Swooping down on a one-story brick garage at 470 Pearl street, adjacent to the padlocked Bloomfield Italian Club, prohibition agents and a Glenfield constable reported confiscating a 300-gallon still and 37 five-gallon cans of moonshine and a barrel of whisky.

No one was in the establishment at the time, but a note, ordering Frank Scanzo, of the same address, alleged owner of the cache, to appear for a hearing August 4, was left on the premises. The hearing will be before Justice of the Peace William S. Edwards, of Glenfield.

WOMAN SOUGHT AS KIDNAPER

HONESDALE, Pa., July 31.—(AP.)—Wayne County authorities asked Pennsylvania and New York police to aid in the search for Irma Clark, 32, wanted in connection with the disappearance of two young sons of Scott Thompson, superintendent of a summer camp at Lake Como, near here.

The boys, Francis, 5, and Norman, 4, were taken from their home on July 22. Miss Clark was housekeeper for Thompson, whose wife is dead. In reporting the disappearance of the children, Thompson told the authorities that relatives of his wife had been trying to obtain custody of the boys, and entered a charge of kidnaping against Miss Clark, whom he charged had taken them away.

Police said they had traced the woman and children as far as Buffalo, N. Y.

Firemen Won't Let Venus Be Clad in Poison Ivy

WINONA LAKE, Ind., July 31.—(AP.)—The fire department has come to the rescue of the Venus de Milo, and a scheme to clothe the goddess' statue in poison ivy has been thwarted.

Mrs. Mary Schell Starr, of Chicago, summering here, holds the opinion that the statue, which has been a figure of artistic pride for 20 years, should wear something. Yesterday the statue was moved to a location near the fire department, and the circumstance gave Mrs. Starr an opportunity to put her idea into action.

Poison ivy was planted around the base of the statue. Mrs. Starr expressed the hope, according to the firemen, that the ivy will grow until finally that "indecent figure shall be all covered up."

The firemen—who are art lovers at heart—decided to foil the scheme. They did not want to touch the ivy with their hands, so they turned the hose on it, rooting it up.

Police Chief Frank C. Edington, upholding the firemen, said Winona Lake is the home town of Billy Sunday, the evangelist, and that Sunday never had become publicly exercised about the statue.

"If it's O. K. with Billy, it's O. K. with me," the chief concluded.

Widow Insists Doyle Sent Messages

CROWBOROUGH, England, July 31.—(AP.)—Lady Conan Doyle today told the Associated Press than since the death of her husband, famous writer and spiritualist leader, July 7, she has received numerous communications from him.

Lady Doyle said her husband's spirit had been seen by several other persons. She produced a "spirit photograph" of him, taken by the Rev. Charles L. Tweedale, vicar of Weston, in Yorkshire. She declared there was no possible doubt regarding its authenticity.

Lady Doyle talked frankly with the correspondent about Sir Arthur's death. She said she herself is mediumistic.

Asked if she had seen her husband's spirit, she replied she had not, perhaps not being psychic enough, or conditions not being right. But she firmly expects the time will arrive when she will see him.

AIRPORT READY FOR ARRIVAL OF R-100

British Dirigible Speeding On Final Stretch of Flight Across Atlantic

Course and speed made good from 1 a. m., 30 knots. Wind 25 miles per hour. Height 1,500 feet. Fine and clear over West Point Anticosti. Headwinds, approximately 550 miles from Montreal."

The message was interpreted here as meaning that the big ship was holding her course nicely in the face of headwinds of 25 miles an hour velocity.

Everything was in tiptop shape to receive the big airship commanded by R. S. Booth. At the mooring tower, a sturdy-looking piece of construction which cost close to a million dollars, final tests were made this morning with the electrically controlled machinery which is required for handling the R-100 and Lieut. Commander A. R. Pressey said no difficulty was anticipated in handling the ship on her arrival. The mooring tower, built of iron and steel with a solid concrete base, is 208 feet high and painted black and yellow. It looks a sentinel on this "greatest airport in the world."

FOLLOWS SHIP LANES

All the way over from Europe the R-100 followed the great circle route and by proceeding along the St. Lawrence she will have followed the regular steamer lane from Europe to Montreal harbor. Late last night she had been flying in fog which, however, was expected to lift as she progressed westward.

The airport was a tented town today. Forty or more new white tents had been put up. These tents last night housed troops and soldiers who have been assigned to handle the huge throngs that are expected to converge on the airport to see the R-100 land and subsequently to view her as she is attached to the mooring mast.

Six hundred soldiers and police have been assigned to duty here. The Canadian Mounted Police, in their bright red jackets, presented a colorful picture as they patrolled the airport and environs, directing traffic and keeping the advance guard of visitors back of the roped-off areas. Detachments of troops came from Quebec, St. John's and other points. A contingent of the famous "Black Watch of Canada" were among the soldiers on duty.

SET FOR BROADCAST

A small army of newspaper men and photographers from all parts of Canada and from the United States were on the ground this morning. Nearly 40 special telegraph wires had been cut into the hangar for the dissemination of newspaper copy. Radio amplifiers were put up at various strategic points around the field. Radio announcers planned to keep the assembled crowd informed of the whereabouts of the R-100 as she neared the airport and subsequently to give a closeup picture report of her arrival.

RECEPTIONS PLANNED

Arrangements have been made for the 44 officers and men of the R-100's crew to sleep in rooms at the hangar tonight. A skeleton crew will remain aboard her during her stay at the airport.

Numerous receptions were being planned for the officers and crew of the incoming dirigible. The official reception, however, will not take place until at least one day after the R-100 arrives in order to give a number of important dignitaries from outlying points in Canada and the United States an opportunity to reach Montreal. Lieut. Com. Pressey of the St. Hubert Airport, who will have charge of the mooring of the R-100 said this morning everything was in shipshape for the handling of the big airship. He will supervise the work of three key men who will operate the electrical controls while the R-100 is being moored.

$1,500,000 IN RUM SEIZED

NEW YORK, July 31.—(INS.)—Two men were to be arraigned today in connection with what prohibition agents described as "the biggest raid in prohibition history."

More than $1,500,000 worth of alleged liquor was found last night in the North American brewery and Palm Garden cafe in Brooklyn, and the two men who called themselves Joe Wolf and George Lutz, were arrested.

The brewery, covering an entire city block, is said to be one of the largest in the country. William C. Nolan, assistant administrator in charge of prohibition in Brooklyn, took charge of the raid.

Maryland Golfer Adopts 'Shorts' On Course

BALTIMORE, July 31.—(INS.)—Golfers will trod around the courses garbed in wee shorts during the summer months if they adopt the style established here by the president of the Maryland State Golf Association.

Those who saw Robert McLean, Jr., stride to the first tee at the Five Farms course yesterday in his abbreviated costume, were still talking about it today.

First the spectators appeared as if they were shocked when they saw McLean's knees and a few inches of flesh upward and below—where the shorts end and the top of the golf stockings begin. The remainder of McLean's outfit consisted of a shirt, tie, belt for his white duck shorts, stockings and golf shoes.

ARCHDUKE MAY SUE FAMILY

VIENNA, July 31.—(AP.)—A letter published in a local Monarchist newspaper today intimates that former Archduke Leopold, now accused in New York of grand larceny in connection with the sale of the famous Napoleon necklace owned by the former Archduchess Maria Theresa, is planning to sue the royal family for damages.

The letter was written by Jacob Gilman, New York attorney for the former archduke, and was addressed to the former Empress Zita. In it a claim for $50,000 is made for the alleged wrongful imprisonment of Leopold.

The lawyer added that if the claim was not satisfied, young Archduke Otto, aspirant to the Hungarian throne, would be held responsible on attaining his majority.

HEAR BAIL PLEA IN CAR DEATH

Habeas corpus proceedings brought in court today to free Frank Kubiszewski, 30, and Frank Novak, 31, both of 28 Niagara street, alleged hit-run drivers, on bond, were continued until later in the day by Judge Samuel H. Gardner.

Both men, District Attorney Andrew Park told the court, had been charged with first degree murder after their automobile crashed into a group of children playing in Lawn street last Friday, killing William Harris, 3, of 96 Lawn street, and injuring four others.

Both are being held pending a coroner's inquest next Monday.

Although Attorney Louis Little, counsel for the two men, admitted both "were intoxicated," he told Judge Gardner this was not sufficient evidence to warrant holding them on first degree murder charges.

Park argued Little should wait until after the inquest to ask habeas corpus proceedings. Little averred that it was not necessary to wait until that time.

Rubiszewski was the driver of the death car, according to police.

JOHNSON OPENS 'DEBUNKING' OF NAVAL TREATY

One-Sided British Approval Shows 'Opposition' Was Sham, Declares Senator

By FRASER EDWARDS,
Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, July 31.—The "debunking" of the London naval treaty has begun, Senator Hiram Johnson, of California, leader of the treaty foes, has declared in a statement commenting upon the prompt avowal of the pact by the British Parliament.

The Californian, who led a two weeks' fight in the Senate for rejection of the pact or at least the adoption of reservations to safeguard American interests, said:

"Immediately after the Senate's action on the London treaty comes the first exposure of part of the bunk used to obtain ratification.

"Only a short time ago the State Department and every little man echoing what he was told to say were harping upon the British opposition, and the internationalist press again and again repeated that a treaty so violently opposed by like parties in Great Britain and America must be an inspired and holy document.

"OPPOSITION YARN MYTH"

"There never was any truth in the statement that like parties in each country were in opposition. The British admiralty, the official British body in charge of naval affairs, always has favored the treaty. The American general board of the Navy, by overwhelming preponderance, has opposed it.

"Our government and our internationalists have embraced the British Admiralty's demand and have repudiated the American naval advice.

"But now the hollowness and sham of the argument concerning the similar opposition in both nations, so elaborately made, has been clearly demonstrated, for the British Parliament practically without opposition has approved the treaty."

KING APPROVES PACT

LONDON, July 31.—(INS.)—King George has affixed his signature to the document ratifying the London naval treaty, Philip Snowden, chancellor of the exchequer, informed the House of Commons today.

This was in response to a question put by former Premier Stanley Baldwin.

The signing apparently took place at Cowes, where King George is attending the yearly regatta. The measure was passed by the House of Lords Tuesday evening. The King departed early the following morning for Cowes from Portsmouth.

FAVOR KEEPING PAY LEVEL UP

NEW YORK, July 31.—(AP.)—The proposition that the best way to restore prosperity is to maintain wage scales is upheld in expressions from a dozen leaders of American industry to Roy Dickinson, associate editor of Printers' Ink.

Dickinson recently telegraphed to 25 business leaders, picked at random, asking their opinion on wage cuts. Here are some of the replies, made public by him today:

George F. Johnson, shoe manufacturer, Endicott, N. Y.:

"Wage cutting or reducing income of labor is not a remedy for business depression. It is a direct and contributing cause."

J. A. Farrell, president United States Steel Corporation:

"I heard a steel man say that wages should come down. I said, oh, no, wages are not coming down in the steel industry. If you are going out to sell your goods and eliminate your profit and expect to get it out of the men in the mills, you are greatly mistaken."

A. R. Erskine, automobile manufacturer, South Bend, Ind.:

"We have a standardized working force which works varying hours daily according to production requirements. Have not even considered reducing wages nor salaries and do not expect to be confronted with such an alternative."

Declares Elk Lodge In Boston Bankrupt

BOSTON, July 31.—(AP.)—The Boston Lodge of Elks, whose charter was suspended several months ago by the National Organization for Liquor Law Violation, is bankrupt, John F. Malley, former grand exalted ruler, admitted in Suffolk County Court.

Malley was appearing as counsel for the lodge in connection with the petition of the First National Bank of Boston, for the appointment of receivers to take over the Elks Hotel property. Judge Lummus appointed three receivers who were authorized to continue the hotel business under some other name.

Atlasburg Mine Begins Production

WASHINGTON, Pa., July 31.—For the first time in many months coal is being run over the tipple of the Atlasburg mine of the Carnegie Coal Company, near Burgettstown.

Employment is being given to about 250 men, with probability, it is announced, of employment for 600 when the mine begins full-time operation. Cedar Grove and Louis mines of the Carnegie Coal Company are also operating.

Aged Pair Parted Years Ago Will Wed Again

LEWISTON, Me., July 31.—(AP.)—John and Mary Demack, both over 70 years old, who were married 52 years ago and divorced 20 years later, have filed notice of intention to marry.

They were reunited a few weeks ago when Demack found his former wife ill in a Lynn, Mass., hospital.

The aged couple decided the cause of their divorce some 30 years ago was "trifling" and determined to renew their marriage vows.

MT. LEBANON TO FIGHT COAL CO.

public interest should be paramount.

"Such a wholesale enforcement to the letter of the law of incidental property rights, affecting a substantial element of a community directly and in effect the entire community, is an invasion of the public interest.

"It is a form of oppression the law should not be allowed to sanction. Not only are the individual property owners involved, through fear of damage to their home and the possibility of personal injury, however remote, but the safety of the public is endangered.

"Moreover, public property and streets and highways are affected by this extraordinary threat to pull the props from under a rapidly developing and populous community."

Musmanno said that the sudden problem thrust upon a substantial section of his constituency had impelled him to make a thorough study of the law, demonstrated to be inadequate on this subject, and prepare a law which would ultimately stand a constitutional test.

Despite legal rights of the coal company, Musmano pointed out, the township, under its police power, for the safety of its inhabitants and protection of its street and highways, might invoke a higher law to prevent carrying out of the threat to remove the coal.

LEGAL INQUIRY ON

Solicitor Goldsmith said last night that the commissioners have directed him to investigate all phases of the matter to legally safeguard public and private property. He said:

"Every legal means will be taken to protect both public and private property and to prevent any removal of coal that might jeopardize the rights of the land owners. The township commissioners have directed me to make a thorough examination of all phases of the matter."

The property involved at this time, according to C. E. Lesher, vice president of the coal company, includes:

"A strip 400 to 600 feet wide, crossing Washington road in Mt. Lebanon at Central square, extending across the town from east to west, with smaller strips projecting off to the north and south at several points."

BUY TO AID SALES

Final approval of the commissioners' decision to purchase the coal under the new municipal building probably will be the subject of discussion at the special commissioners' meeting. The borough engineer was authorized at a meeting Monday night to negotiate with the coal company for purchase of the coal.

Following revelation of the plan by which the coal company has been quietly disposing of the coal to Mt. Lebanon residents it has been learned that in some cases property owners have bought coal while others on the same street have not. How the company could remove coal from under one property and leave it under an adjoining place is a problem in mining that well-informed coal men said would be impracticable.

Real estate men interviewed yesterday deplored the plan by which the coal company is assessing property owners from $200 up for the coal under their homes. Several of them have already bought coal underlying their real estate offices, and did so, they said, because in the event of wishing to dispose of their holdings the fact that the coal has been purchased will help the sale.

PLAN DENOUNCED

Justice of the Peace Ira H. Edmundson, president of the Mt. Lebanon Chamber of Commerce who denounced the company's plan as "a farcical shakedown," said yesterday:

"The exposure of the situation is a good thing. There is no reason for anybody to be alarmed, for the company never will take the remaining coal out. If they can stampede the people into paying this exorbitant price for coal which will stay in the ground whether they pay the company for it or not, naturally they are going to do it."

$23,000 Estate Left Widow in Trust

Walter S. Marlatt, of Sewickley, undertaker, left a $23,000 estate in his will probated today, in trust for his widow Maria L. Marlatt during her lifetime and at her death 60 per cent of the estate is to go to a daughter, Elizabeth W. Marlatt, and 40 per cent to another daughter, Louise M. Waddle. The Sewickley Valley Trust Company is named executor.

2 Die As Bus Dives To River; 36 Saved

BERLIN, July 31.—(AP.)—Two persons were killed and 36 rescued when a motor bus plunged into the Ilme River from a bridge between Erfurt and Weimar. The rescues were made by four members of the Maccabean Sports Club of Tel Aviv, Palestine.

OFFICER DOUBTS MOONEY GUILT

SAN FRANCISCO, July 31.—(AP.)—A recommendation by former Police Capt. Duncan Matheson that pardons be given Warren K. Billings and Thomas J. Mooney, convicted of the Preparedness Day bombings here in 1916, was before the Supreme Court today as it resumed consideration of Billings' application for a pardon.

Matheson, questioned by an associate justice, said he was convinced of Mooney's and Billing's guilt at the time of the bombing, but now had grave doubts about it.

John MacDonald, Baltimore waiter, whose identification of the two men was a factor in their conviction, testified yesterday that an unseen power was exerted over him by Charles M. Fickert, district attorney, during the bombing trials. This, he said, led to his giving perjured testimony.

Cross-examined by Fickert, MacDonald stuck stubbornly to statements that the former prosecutor had promised him a large slice of reward money if he would testify as Fickert directed.

P. C. KNOX HELD FOR BAD CHECK

WASHINGTON, July 31.—(INS.)—Philander C. Knox, better known to his cronies as "Tippy," son of the late Philander C. Knox, one-time Secretary of State and Senator from Pennsylvania, was free today on $500 bail after his arrest on the charge of passing an alleged worthless check for $279.

Knox, who is 40, and reputed to have shared in the millions left by his father, gave his address as Wild Goose Shores, Md.

The complainant, who swore to a warrant, was P. N. Childs, who said Knox gave him the check in payment for a motorboat engine, July 15.

Knox was released after he had been held several hours.

In 1928, he was arrested here on a speeding charge, but walked out of court before his case was called. He forfeited his bond but later was excused by the court after he had been confined in the district jail for a few hours.

CANAL ESCAPES PANAMA QUAKE

PANAMA CITY, July 31.—(INS.)—The Panama Canal escaped damage, although the walls of the administration building cracked in yesterday's two severe earthquake shocks, investigators reported today.

The tremblors, which shook Panama City, Cristobal, Colon, Ancon and Balboa, caused a mild panic, but no extensive damage.

The first shock was felt at 1:53 p. m. This was followed immediately by one more severe.

In Panama City many windows were broken. The natives ran into the streets.

Representative Will R. Wood, of Indiana, was calling on Gov. Burgess when the earthquake started.

About 2,600 members heard the young protege of Mrs. Annie Besant, president of the Theosophical Society, declare "truth to be purely a matter of individual realization."

Ban 17 Magazines In Washington As 'Too Spicy'

WASHINGTON, July 31.—(AP.)—District Attorney Leo A. Rover has been doing some magazine reading in his spare time and has decided that 17 publications now on Washington news stands are too salacious for the public eye.

He has informed Maj. Henry G. Pratt, superintendent of police, to inform the dealers to get rid of the magazines. If they do not, Rover said, they will be prosecuted.

Rover said he personally passed on all the magazines. He said:

"I read all the trash, and I guess I know more spicy jokes, as a result, than any one else in Washington, but I'm not telling them."

CAROL REUNION TOMORROW

BUCHAREST, Rumania, July, 31.—(AP.)—The Rumanian royal family—King Carol II, Queen Helen and their son Michael—will be united tomorrow at Sinaia, the summer capital.

Apparently the king and his divorced wife have not been fully reconciled, however, for an official statement telling of the king's plans said he would occupy a separate apartment in Veles palace.

King Carol will stay at Sinaia for the remainder of the summer. The queen and Michael have been there for some time.

U. S. DEBTORS FACING TAX

BERLIN, July 31.—(AP.)—The Reichstrat approved an order of the government empowering the Reich to impose upon German debtors to the United States an annual tax of 15 per cent of their individual debts, plus 7.5 per cent interest. Germany, according to the decision of the German-American mixed commission, is obliged to pay the United States 40,000,000 marks a year from 1930 to 1981, in satisfaction of claims.

The new levy can be wholly or partly rescinded or increased under conditions favorable for the debtor as restitution is made of his property from the United States.

Negro, 112, Dies; Was Slave 40 Years

CANON CITY, Col.—(INS.)—Jim Kyle, Negro, who lived here since 1865 and claimed to be 112 years old, is dead.

Old Jim told local residents he had been a slave for 40 years. He came here with the late Capt. B. F. Rockafellow as his servant during the Civil War.

The Negro could never tell where he was born or the exact date. But he was certain he had been a slave for 40 years.

In 1903 Capt. Rockafellow made an intensive investigation of Jim's age and established with reasonable accuracy that the man then was 85 years old.

ACCUSES 'DRY' IN LOVE SUIT

NEW YORK, July 31.—(AP.)—Raymond J. Funkhouse, prominent dry leader and formerly of Hagerstown, Md., surrendered here to a deputy sheriff after an order for his arrest had been issued by a Supreme Court justice. He immediately secured his release by posting a bond of $2,500. Funkhouse is defendant in a $250,000 alienation suit brought by Jack L. Bogert, a Baltimore salesman.

Bogert was married in 1923 and has one son. After his marriage he moved to Baltimore, where he went into business and where he alleges Funkhouse met his wife.

Application was made yesterday for a building permit for the new addition to be erected to Historical Hall, Bigelow boulevard and Parkman avenue by the Historical Society of Western Pennsylvania. The building will cost $50,000 and a like sum will be spent in the interior furnishing and equipment.

Ingham & Boyd, architects, who drew the design for the original facade of the building 17 years ago winning first prize in competitive drawing, have drawn the plans for the completed structure. The addition will provide a large auditorium on the first floor with entrance from the present building. On the second floor will be curio rooms, bookstacks and accommodations for offices for research workers, librarians and the museum staff.

The state of Pennsylvania appropriated $40,000 toward the fund and the remained was raised by private subscription from citizens of Pittsburgh. Contracts will be let during August.

J. C. Newcomer, who recently acquired a lot 60 by 110 feet in Rossmore avenue, Nineteenth Ward, from John L. Ward for $2,700, will build two modern dwellings thereon. In the application for the building permit the estimated cost of the houses is $10,000.

James J. Cunningham has sold to Freeman Thomas a dwelling with a lot 40 by 81 feet in Moore street, Fifth Ward, for $4,000.

The county of Allegheny has acquired from Margaret E. Heuther a tract 56 by 62 feet in Western avenue, Twenty-first Ward, for $13,750.

Raymond Aldridge has bought a brick residence on a lot 25 by 90 feet in Flemington street, Fifteenth Ward. The purchase price is not disclosed.

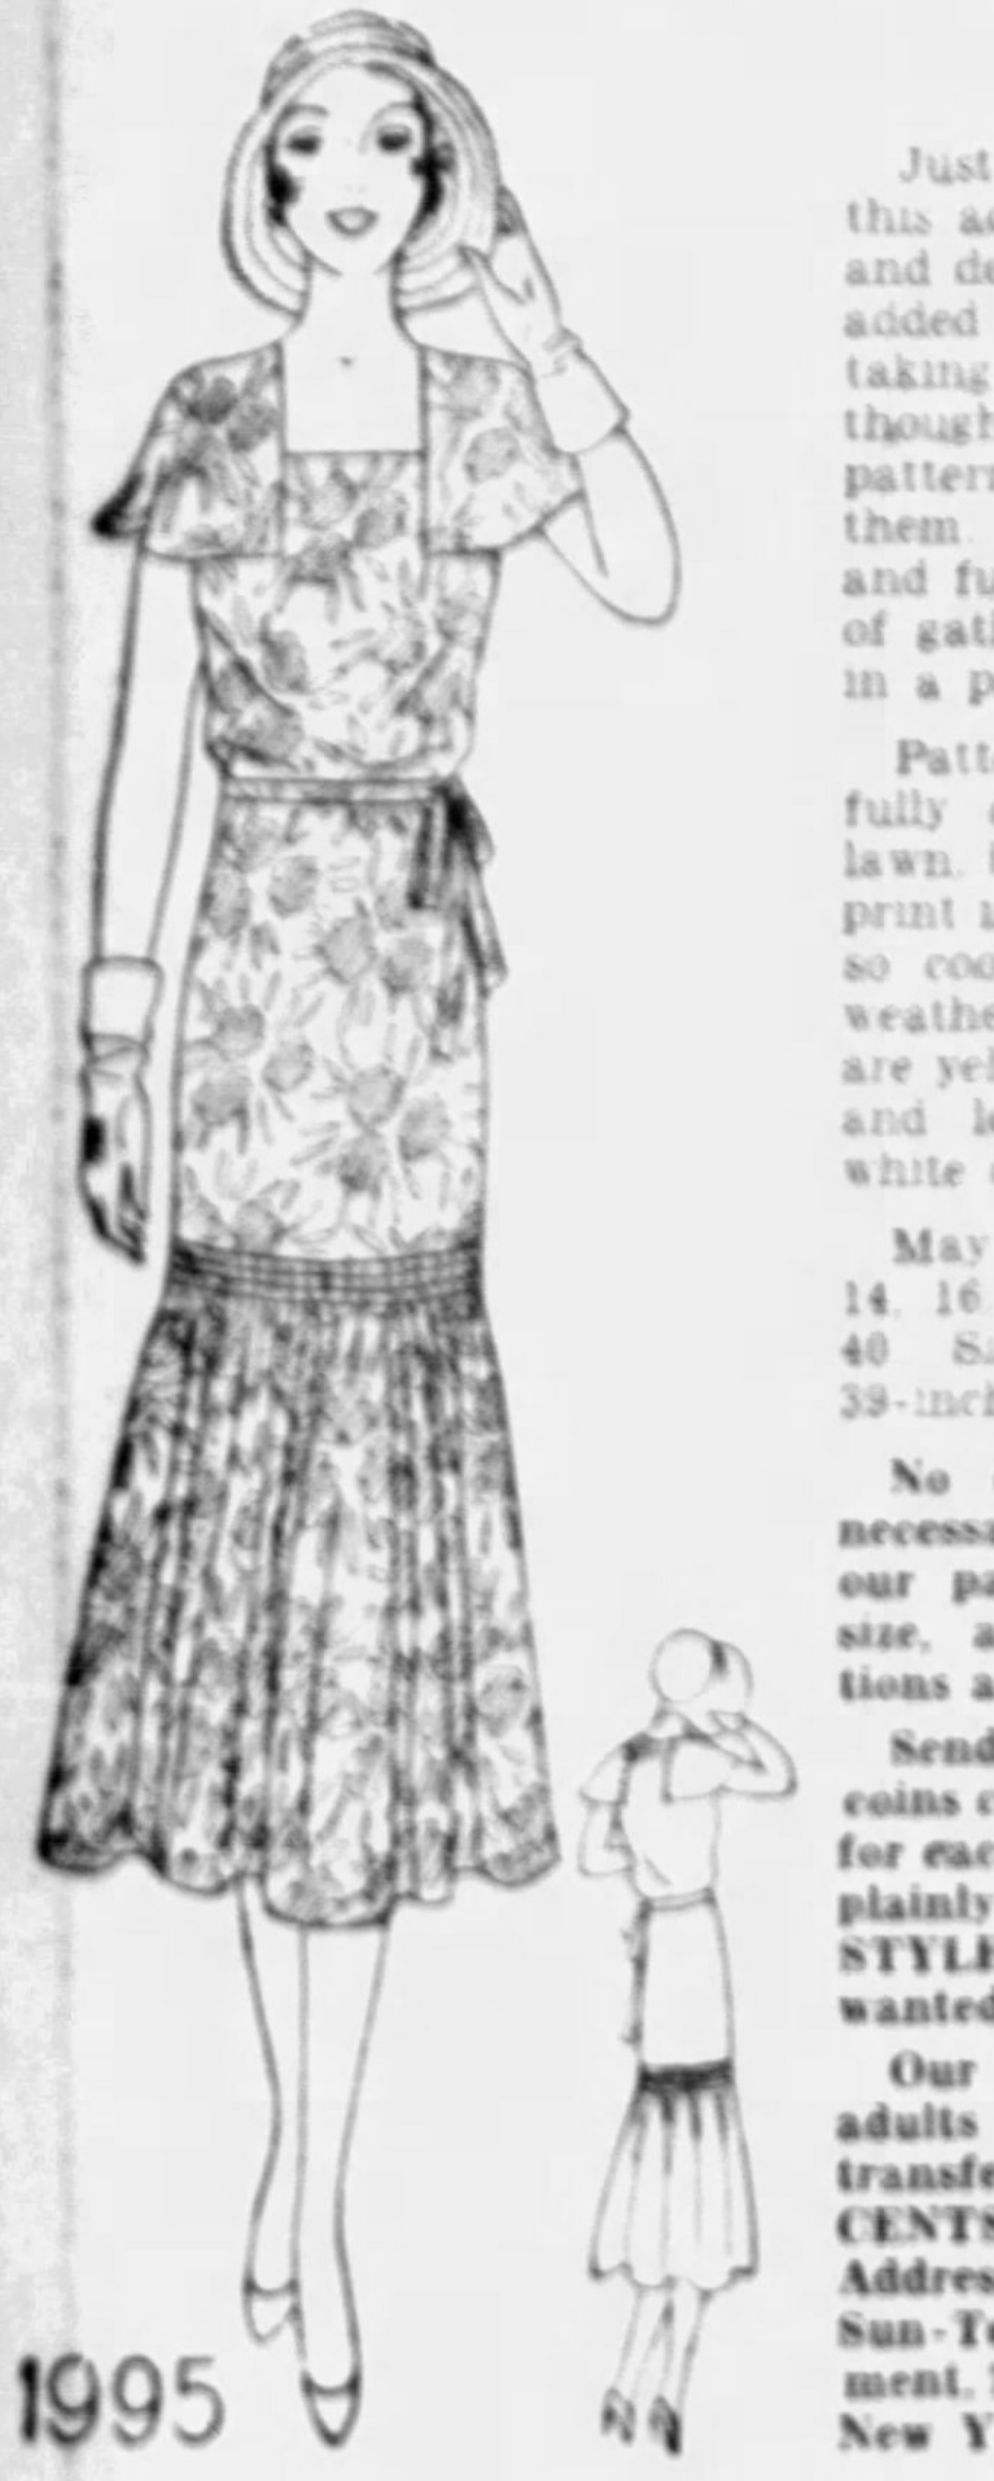
Dainty and Cool for Summer
Pattern 1995
Sun-Telegraph 15c Practical Pattern

By ANNE ADAMS



1995

Just as easy to make as can be, this adorable frock of simple line and detail. Shoulder capelets are added from the square neck line, taking the place of sleeves, although there are sleeves with the pattern in case you want to use them. The skirt flare gains grace and fullness through several rows of gathers. The narrow belt ties in a pert bow at the side.

Pattern 1995 fashions delightfully of voile, dimity, georgette, lawn, batiste or chiffon. A shadow print in blended pastel tones looks so cool and refreshing in warm weather. Other favorite colors are yellow, red, chartreuse, orange and leaf green, combined with white or black.

May be obtained only in sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 32, 34, 36, 38 and 40. Size 16 requires 4⅝ yards of 39-inch material.

No dressmaking experience is necessary to make this model with our pattern. Yardage for every size, and simple, exact instructions are given.

Send FIFTEEN CENTS (15c) in coins carefully wrapped, or stamps, for each pattern. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, STYLE NUMBER and SIZE wanted.

FATHER SLAYER STARTS TERM

WESTMINSTER, Md., July 31.—(AP.)—Convicted here May 28 by a circuit court jury of second degree murder in connection with the poisoning of his foster father, William T. Keefe, Paul W. Edwards was taken to the state penitentiary by Sheriff George C. Fowble to start an 18-year sentence.

Following the overruling of a defense motion to set aside the verdict, Edwards' lawyers carried the case to the Maryland Court of Appeals.

Since this action was taken the defense chief counsel, Edward O. Weant, has died, and an order dismissing the appeal was filed.

Army Private Found Guilty of Murder

LEWISBURG, W. Va., July 31.—(AP.)—Glenn Tyree, young Army private, was convicted of first degree murder with a recommendation of life imprisonment last night for the slaying of Ote Winebrenner, a taxi driver, two years ago.

The state charged that Tyree killed Winebrenner, took his automobile and money and went to the Columbus barracks and enlisted.

POUND SLATED FOR COURT

LONDON, July 31.—(AP.)—Dean Roscoe Pound, of the Harvard Law School, was nominted by the British group for judge of the Permanent Court of Arbitration. Named with him were Sir Cecil Hurst, Jonkhler Van Heysinga and Jelge Klaestad.

The same list was submitted by the Australian group, which also nominated Dean Pound to fill the unexpired term of Charles Evans Hughes, who resigned to become chief justice of the United States.

Other nominations for unexpired terms are Dean I. H. Wigmore, of the Northwestern Law School, by Luxembourg; James Brown Scott, of the Carnegie Foundation for International Peace, by Jugoslavia.

J. T. I. Scott has been nominated for the nine-year term and I. H. Wigmore for the short term by Bulgaria, and George W. Wickersham and Prof. Jessup by Switzerland.

The elections will take place during the League of Nations assembly next September.

'REDS' ACTIVE IN PALESTINE

JERUSALEM, July 31.—(Jewish Telegraphic Agency.)—Details of widespread Communist propaganda in Palestine, its repercussions especially among the Arabs and a description of the organization of the hunger strike among the 88 political prisoners in Palestine, most of whom are Communists, are given in a 24-page pamphlet called "At the Front," and distributed here by the central committee of the Palestine Communist Youth League.

The pamphlet also contains a report of the recent plenary session of the Palestine Communist Youth League and emphasizes that for the first time the Arabs played a part not as guests but as responsible partners. The pamphlet also discussed the "August Revolt" as the disturbances of last year are called.

Special attention was paid at the plenary meeting, the pamphlet said, to the instructions of the Communist International to Arabise, the country for which purpose "Bolshevising is the best guarantee by means of strengthened discipline and devotion among the Arab comrades."

5,000 WOMEN SEEK 200 JOBS

WASHINGTON, July 31.—(AP.)—Five thousand women, many of whom had remained in line all night stormed the office of the Civil Service Commission to apply for 200 positions as charwomen in government buildings.

The line began forming at 8 o'clock and by midnight had increased to several hundred. Most of the early job-hunters stayed awake all night, while the others slept on nearby grassy plots.

Only 1,000 application blanks were distributed and in the scurry for them several hundred women not in line attempted to "crash the gate." Police were forced to struggle with them before restoring order.

There was a silver lining, however, for some of the unsuccessful applicants. A number of Washington matrons, attracted to the scene, took advantage of the opportunity to hire cooks and maids.

Plane Upsets, Two Fliers Escape Injury

BALTIMORE, July 31.—(AP.)—Two aviators flying to New York from Florida had a narrow escape at Logan Field when their four-passenger monoplane upset as they were landing.

The two, Robert Walpole, Saratoga, N. Y., and Edward Colginy, New York City, escaped injury, but the plane was damaged.

GUARDS' FIRING CALLED OFF TO SAVE LIVES

Tobyhanna Gun Practice Ends After Berry Pickers Get Into Danger on Range

TOBYHANNA, Pa., July 31.—The Second Battalion of the One Hundred and Seventy-sixth Field Artillery, firing on the Lone Tree Range, met with a real "enemy." However it turned out that it was only a party of huckleberry pickers. Their presence was discovered just before the officer in charge was ready to fire his battery.

After this incident firing ceased for the day upon orders of the battalion commander, Maj. James W. Marrinan.

The Third Battalion, commanded by Maj. Walter H. Frick, on coming off bivouac proceeded to firing point No. 8, where they fired problems given them by the Regular Army instructors. The firing activities of this camp ended with yesterday's activities on the various ranges.

The annual field inspection of the regiment will be held today on the polo field, preceded by a mounted review of the whole regiment. Among the activities of the day will be the annual field meet, in which the prowess of the various batteries in athletic feats will be tested.

MEET HELD AT GRETNA

MOUNT GRETNA, Pa., July 31.—(AP.)—While the One Hundred and Fourth Cavalry was protecting the camp from an imaginary enemy, other units of the Pennsylvania National Guard competed in their annual track and field meet. About 2,000 of the guardsmen contested.

SHAFT UNVEILED AT BIVOUAC OF 'REBELS'

M'CONNELLSBURG, Pa., July 31.—"The Stars and Bars" of the Confederacy, for the first time in 66 years, waved from a flagstaff today in Southern Pennsylvania.

The crimson banner of the "lost cause," entwined with the Stars and Stripes, was displayed at the unveiling of the state monument erected on the W. C. Patterson farm, south of here to commemorate the last Confederate campfire north of the Mason and Dixon line. The exercises were under the direction of the Pittsburgh Chapter, United Daughters of the Confederacy.

BIVOUAC ANNIVERSARY

A celebration of the sixty-sixth anniversary of the bivouac of Gen. Bradley T. Johnson, Southern cavalry leader, who stopped here July 31, 1864, was sponsored by the Fulton County Historical Society. A throng attended from all adjoining Pennsylvania counties, and from Maryland, West Virginia and Virginia. Descendants of the blue and gray were about equally divided.

Mrs. John P. Cowan, president of the Pittsburgh Chapter, U. D. C., presided at the unveiling in which her daughter, Anne Louise, and Mary Ellen Patterson officiated. Officers and members of the Pittsburgh Chapter assisting in the ceremony were Mrs. Robert F. Metcalfe, vice president; Mrs. A. F. Hoffmann, historian; Mrs. Robert Rawsthorne, registrar and Mrs. Charles C. Bunton.

STEVENSON PRESIDES

William H. Stevenson, president of the Pennsylvania Historical Commission, presided at the historical meeting where addresses were made by Dr. Hiram H. Shenk, of Harrisburg, state archivist; Prof. John L. Finnafrock, of Mercersburg Academy, and W. C. Patterson.

Patterson, who was a small boy in 1864, displayed a Confederate $100 note which remained from $600 which the Confederate general paid Patterson's mother for supper and breakfast for himself and his staff.

Those times when Constipation is so awfully depressing

CONSTIPATION is always a condition to be rid of quickly and thoroughly.

There are times when an intestinal tract clogged up with waste, can be unusually disturbing and distressing. Thousands have found this to be true; any doctor can confirm it.

Women of all ages have found Flaxolyn a pleasant and effective aid to bring about gentle elimination. When Constipation threatens before or during this sensitive period, it will be well worth while to rely on Flaxolyn.

Rich in air-and sun-dried herbs

Flaxolyn's mild action on the intestinal canal is derived from such potent herbs as Spanish Licorice, Aloes from Barbadoes Islands, "Sacred Bark" from California, Dandelion Roots, Senna Leaves from Arabia. Flaxolyn also is a mild diuretic to the kidneys, thanks to its African Buchu and Uva Ursi. This gentle stimulating action holds added benefits to many.

FLAXOLYN

For your own sake, do not delay...get Flaxolyn today. You do not risk a penny. Tear out this clipping. Hand it to your druggist, who makes this offer:

If Flaxolyn does not bring you a satisfactory improvement by the 6th pleasant spoonful, return the partly-used bottle and get your money back! This certainly is an honest offer that shows the great confidence we have in Flaxolyn.

Charge Man Takes Wife's Pay, Uses It for Second

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., July 31.—Detected, it is alleged, when he collected the salary of wife No. 1 and spent it on wife No. 2, Edwin S. Stottlemire, 38, is a prisoner in the Barbour County jail at Philippi, charged with bigamy.

The first wife, Mrs. Laura Norman Bennett Stottlemire, is employed in a Clarksburg store. The second, who filed charges, gives the name of Mrs. Leta Day Stottlemire.

SLIGHT SLUMP IN JOBS SEEN

WASHINGTON, July 31.—(AP.)—William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, said unemployment increased by one per cent in July over June.

A statement issued by Green said reports from trade unions in 24 cities showed 21 per cent out of work as compared with 20 per cent last month.

"An increase in unemployment in July is not unusual," the statement added. "Our figures for 1928 showed more out of work in July than June, but this year the increase is particularly unfortunate, for wage earners already have a long period of lowered income and privation behind them.

"Also, their buying power is important at this time when stimulation of trade and production are especially needed."

Meadowlands Resident, 70, Finds Prompt Relief Through Use of New Medicine.

Age is no barrier to the powers of Konjola. Men and women in the seventies and eighties are eagerly offering their grateful endorsements of the merit of this super-compound. Konjola may also be given to the infant with speedy and thorough results. It is, in fact, a medicine for all the family. Compounded of 32 ingredients, 22 of which are the juices of roots and herbs, Konjola is free from alcohol, nerve-deadening drugs, or heart-depressing chemicals. Its record in the relief of ailments of the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels, and rheumatism, neuritis, and nervousness, has made it the most talked-of medicine in America.

Consider the case of Mr. James Cunningham, Meadowlands, near Pittsburgh. Mr. Cunningham's experience is in common with that of thousands of other sufferers, many of them your friends and neighbors, who have found relief through the use of this great master medicine. See the Konjola Man at the Dow Drug Store, Penn Avenue and Sixth Street, Pittsburgh, and learn all about Konjola. Now read the experience of Mr. Cunningham:

"Konjola is the medicine I should have had long ago. I am seventy years of age, and have lived in this section many years. I read of the good results an old friend was getting from Konjola and I began taking it. I had suffered for about two months with stomach trouble. I took a heavy cold from which I could not rid myself. Solid foods caused nausea and vomiting and I bloated terribly after meals. My system was badly weakened and rundown.

"Just a ten-day treatment of this wonderful medicine has proved that it is just the medicine my system needed. The gas and bloating have passed and now I can eat just about what I want. My health has been generally built up and strengthened. I have been recommending Konjola to many of my friends and customers. I think it is a wonderful tonic and strength-builder after a severe cold."

Although Konjola works more quickly and thoroughly, most cases require a systematic treatment over a period of from four to eight weeks. Ailments that have been months, and even years, in developing cannot be swept away as though by magic, but a few weeks' treatment will surprise you. Try Konjola today.

The Konjola Man is at the Dow Drug Store, Penn Avenue and Sixth Street, Pittsburgh, where he is meeting the public daily, explaining the merits of this new and different medicine. FREE SAMPLES GIVEN by the Konjola Man. Konjola is sold by all Dow Drug Stores in Pittsburgh and vicinity.

PLAN MEETING TO AID SHIPS

WASHINGTON, July 31.—(AP.)—Decreased commerce has led Chairman T. V. O'Connor, of the Shipping Board, to call a "friendly conference" of shippers engaged in the intercoastal trade.

Two lines have suggested that because of fewer cargoes now available each line should withdraw some of its vessels so the remainder could operate at a profit. Other operators have objected to this proposal, and it will be considered at the conference.

Farmer Almost Suffocates as Hay Upsets

WAYNESBURG, Pa., July 31.—David McElroy, 50, a farmer residing near Spraggs, had a narrow escape from suffocation when pinned under a load of hay which upset as he was hauling it through a rough field. Fellow workers extricated him. He suffered a fractured collarbone.

DRAVOS DEPART ON AQUITANIA

NEW YORK, July 31.—With John W. Garrett, United States ambassador to Italy, and others prominent in society and business as fellow passengers, Mr. and Mrs. F. R. Dravo, of Pittsburgh, sailed for Europe late yesterday on the Aquitania. They will remain overseas the remainder of the summer. They plan to spend most of the time motoring through England, France and other continental countries.

ROBBERS STOLE CAB, MAN SAYS

STEUBENVILLE, O., July 31.—After hearing William Dugan, 32, Steubenville taxi driver, relate his experiences with three bandits who failed in an attempt to hold up the Brilliant Bank and Savings Company at Brilliant, O., yesterday, Prosecutor Jesse George ordered his arrest as a material witness.

Dugan's story was that the bandits, after hiring him to drive them to Brilliant Tuesday night, kidnaped him, held him prisoner in a field near Brilliant and left him bound and gagged on the river bank when they departed in his cab for the bank holdup in the morning.

He said he managed, after a struggle, to slip his bonds, reporting to police about three hours after the bandits had been driven from the bank by bullets fired by employes.

Troubled With Pimples and Blackheads. Cuticura Healed.

"I was troubled with large pimples and blackheads. The pimples were hard and red and festered. They were scattered all over my chin and forehead and caused disfigurement. Even when sleeping they bothered me, and I was always picking at them.

"I read an advertisement for Cuticura Soap and Ointment and sent for a free sample. My chin and forehead started to clear up after using it so I purchased more, and after using three cakes of Cuticura Soap and three boxes of Cuticura Ointment I was completely healed." KNOCKED HIM OFF THE ROAD

ALWAYS TELLS HIS STORY FOR THE BENEFIT OF OTHER FOLKS WHO FIND THEMSELVES IN THE SAME FIX.

Last Saturday a fine appearing man of middle age stepped into the drug store and engaged the druggist in conversation. He said he was a traveling man, and that he had gone through an experience last winter that might help other people, but that had him scared for a while.

"I suppose irregular hours, uncertain meals and six different sleeping places a week had to some extent weakened me, so that when I caught a heavy cold in the December cold spell I couldn't throw it off. It lasted about eight weeks before it began to alarm me. Then I lost weight so rapidly and had to cough so much I had to quit the road for a while. When I got home the cold seemed easier, but my stomach didn't act right. I hated the sight of food in the morning, and what I ate at noon and night stayed in my stomach like lead. Severe pains, too, made me uneasy all the time. I doctored for the stomach, and they wanted me to have an X-ray examination. I had about concluded to go to the hospital when an old friend of mine brought me a bottle of medicine.

"The first week improved me. The cold yielded first, though I had had it for twelve weeks. I quit coughing. Then I got the second bottle, and it fixed my stomach trouble, so that after taking two bottles I was able to resume my work on the road.

"That medicine was World's Tonic, and whenever I pass the display of World's Tonic in a drug store I just have to stop in and tell the druggist of my experience, in the hope that some other poor sufferer will thereby be encouraged to take this most valuable of all remedies. I think now that I was full of catarrh, and I shudder to think of what might have happened to me if I had not known of the great benefits of World's Tonic."

World's Tonic is for sale at Dow's, May's & Liggett's, Mayflower, and all other reliable drug stores. (A-43)

Getting your money's worth out of your car?

Every car needs regular care . . .

WHAT'S the use of spending anywhere from $500 to $5000 for a car and then letting it deteriorate for lack of a little work on it you can do yourself?

One of these things you can do yourself, is to keep some "Vaseline" Petroleum Jelly handy and use it every so often. For coating battery terminals (on radios too, incidentally) and priming points. For preventing rust. For keeping nickel parts clean and shining.

This goes for brand new cars too. The largest car manufacturer in the world recommends it. The finest garages use it. You'll want to do the same. Buy some "Vaseline" Jelly now (either tube or jar) and keep it in a handy place in the garage.

DALE SPEAKING — "IS THAT THE FIRST TIME YOU WITHHELD MONEY?"

DALE

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE.

Jonathan Hubbard, last of an old New York family, is found hanged in the attic of his house. The house, an out-of-date mansion, is suspected of being haunted by the ghost of Darrell, a gambler, who was reported to have won the estate from a Hubbard early in the nineteenth century. By observation and deduction Robin Dale gives the police a synthetic description of the culprit. "He is a robust man, at least six feet tall, wears eyeglasses, is left-handed, above average intelligence and probably is fond of water." Ralph Barnes, Hubbard's lawyer, calls with a new will the old man was to sign, disinheriting his nephew, Andrew Eastly. A neighbor tells of two visits made at the Hubbard house the night of the murder. Also of the appearance of a light in the attic about midnight.

Now Go on With the Story.

CHAPTER IV.

"Ever anything particularly call itself to your attention about Hubbard's house—any unusual happenings in the past?" Capt. Blake asked the neighbor.

"Well, now that you speak of it, I do remember about three or four months ago, just during the time that the lights used to come and go up in that attic, there was a stranger hanging around. I'm sure that I saw him going across the grounds once or twice late at night. I spoke to old man Hubbard about it, but the only satisfaction I got was to have him tell me to mind my own business and believe in ghosts if I wanted to, but leave him alone."

"And that hasn't taken place since?"

"No, but about a year or so before, the same thing happened. That was when the newspapers all wrote up stories about the Hubbard ghost. That time, too, I'm sure I saw the shadow of a big, hulking man slinking about the grounds of the Hubbard place late at night."

No further information could be elicited from Stanley, so Capt. Blake and Dale went back to the old mansion. Altogether the result of that day's work was thoroughly unsatisfactory to Capt. Blake. The only bright spot in the proceedings was Robin Dale's synthetic description of the murderer.

It was one thing to know what the culprit looked like and another to find him, and still another to prove that he was guilty. Such reasoning as the reporter had used would hardly be acceptable evidence upon which to accuse anyone of willful murder, even though it might point directly to the guilty man.

The following day Andrew Eastly was called to Capt. Blake's office for questioning. Robin Dale was present during the interrogation. Eastly proved to be a good-looking chap not over 25. He was at least six feet tall and broad of shoulder. A deep tan made him almost swarthy of appearance. From the first he made no effort to hide a deep feeling of hatred he had toward his uncle.

After the first unimportant questions, Capt. Blake got down to business.

"Did you know that Jonathan Hubbard was going to disinherit you?" asked Capt. Blake.

"I did. I told him what he could do with his money before I left the house, too."

"Did you have a quarrel with him?"

"Did we? We were always at it! He was just a mean old skinflint, and I told him so. He was forever wanting people to do things for him for nothing. He owned three or four apartment houses and used to have me collect the rents for him. I never got a penny for it, either. I stood it for a while, for I figured I'd get mine when he kicked in. Well, I needed some money, so I used a little of the rent recently. He found it out and that's what we had our last fight about. He told me I was a thief and that he'd cut me off without a penny."

"Is that the first time you withheld money?" Robin Dale asked the question.

"Yes, that was the first time. I don't look on it as stealing. I had something coming to me for the work I did, and I just took it, that's all. A lot of good it did him, trying to disinherit me . . . he got it before he could sign that paper."

"What time did you leave the Hubbard house on the night your uncle was killed?"

"I went there about 8 and didn't stay more than half an hour. When I left I wasn't ever supposed to go back into that house, so I went out the back way to pick up a few belongings of mine in the garage."

"Where were you about midnight?"

"We've got a bungalow on Fire Island, that is a crowd of us fellows, and after I left Uncle Jonathan's house I set out in that direction. I took the flivver, which I kept parked in the uncle's garage. It was close to 12 when I got to the shack."

"Any one there to vouch for that?"

"Well, no — the boys don't come down until Saturday, usually. That was Friday night."

"You spent the night at the bungalow alone?"

"I did."

"That'll do for the present, Eastly, we'll probably call on you again."

"Any time—I'll be ready."

Capt. Blake had never been entirely satisfied with the progress made on the Hubbard case.

"I'm afraid this is going to develop into one of those cases in which some prowling bandit will turn out to be the guilty party—if we can ever lay our hands on him."

"I wouldn't take it that badly, captain . . . when you finally snap the bracelets on the murderer I think you'll be pretty well satisfied that your job was well done."

"You haven't said much about this affair, Dale, so I've got a sneaking hunch you're holding out some valuable information." Capt. Blake said with a smile.

"To tell you the truth, captain, there is an idea floating around in this poor dome of mine, but I'm not going to give you a chance to tell me I'm nutty. I'll have to get a lot more proof before I dare give you the ramblin' deduction of a balmy scribbler."

"I'm willing to be surprised, Dale, you know that."

"If it was only a surprise I'd chance it . . . It'd be a catastrophe, though, to try my idea out now. Let's wait, at least, until the reading of the will. I think we'll get what we want that day."

STATE, OHIO TIE ON AIRPORTS

WASHINGTON, July 31.—(AP)—Pennsylvania and Ohio tied for third place in the number of airports and landing fields in an airport survey completed July 15, and announced by Clarence M. Young, assistant secretary of commerce for aeronautics.

The Keystone and Buckeye states each had 85 airports or landing fields and were preceded by California with 164 and Texas with 115. There were 96 more airports and landing fields in existence throughout the United States than there were six and one-half months ago, the report disclosed.

Pennsylvania had 24 intermediate landing fields, the second largest number in this classification; California had 27. Ohio had 42 commercial airports, which made her second in this field, while California led with 57.

There were 39 commercial airports in Pennsylvania; 9 municipal, 11 auxiliary, one Army, one Navy and 24 intermediate, for a total of 85.

Ohio had 12 municipal, 42 commercial, 18 intermediate, 9 auxiliary and four Army airports, for a total of 85.

New York had 14 municipal, 39 commercial, 10 intermediate, 6 auxiliary, 3 Army, for a total of 73.

Scout Camp Ends Because of Low Water Supply

WASHINGTON, Pa., July 31.—Because of the drought, which has so depleted the springs and wells in the neighborhood that there is not enough water to wash faces, Camp Talquah, of the Washington-Greene Counties Council, will be closed Saturday, disappointing 100 Boy Scouts who had expected to spend the next two weeks there.

No sickness has developed, and a spring still gives sufficient drinking water, but swimming is already at an end in Ten-Mile Creek.

JUDGE SHOOTS SON OF RIVAL

WILBURTON, Okla., July 31.—(AP)—J. W. Callahan, county judge, was charged with assault with intent to kill, following the probable fatal shooting of Frank Briggs, 18, son of Claude Briggs, who opposed Callahan as a candidate for the State Senate.

Later officers took Callahan out of the city, because of feeling manifest against him. The shooting followed a conversation between Callahan and young Briggs.

The elder Briggs apppears to have won the Democratic senatorial nomination over Callahan. The conversation between Callahan and young Briggs was said to have been about the election.

WARSHIP GIVEN NAVY PRIZE

WASHINGTON, July 31.—(AP)—The Navy's battle efficiency pennant, known to American sailors the world over as the "meat ball," was awarded to the battleship New Mexico.

The "meat ball" was characterized by naval officials as "the highest honor the Navy has to offer" one of its ships, signalizing the highest combined score in the fleet in gunnery, engineering and communications.

The New Mexico now will be privileged to stream a replica of the battle efficiency banner from its fore truck day and night whenever at anchor until June 30, 1931. The original pennant, 15 feet long, and constructed of red silk with a black ball in its field, will be kept in a glass case in the New Mexico's wardroom.

Woman Faces Rum Charge; Horse, Buggy Seized

MIDLAND, Pa., July 31.—Mrs. Ruby Bleich, Hookstown, is held for a hearing on a charge of transporting liquor. Police say they found seven and one-half gallons of moonshine in a buggy the woman was driving about town. They also confiscated the horse and buggy.

$10,000 AWARD AGAINST FORD

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., July 31.—(AP)—The owner of a six-acre estate in Sudbury entirely surrounded by the Wayside Inn property of Henry Ford, is entitled to $10,000 damages because of dams erected on the Ford property which obstructed the natural flow of a brook through the estate, Arthur P. Hardy, master, reported.

The protesting landowner, Joseph L. Sturtevant, of Brookline, claimed that the value of his property was greatly decreased by the dams.

By HARRISON CARROLL

(Copyright, 1930, [illegible] Syndicate.)

HOLLYWOOD, July 30.

Foreign versions are saving many old favorites from being completely lost in the talkie shuffle.

Antonio Moreno, long a silent star, is enjoying a new success as a leading man in pictures destined for Spanish releases. His rejuvenated career has grown beyond the point of occasional assignments. Because of his work in the Spanish version of "The Bad Man," and in other films, he has just been signed to a long-term contract by First National.

Tony's good fortune uncovers the fact that a number of other well-known players are working steadily in these by-products of our American talkies. Barry Norton, who is an Argentinian (real name Alfredo Biraben), likewise has been put under long-term contract for Spanish versions. Paramount signed him.

Antonio Moreno

George Lewis, who was born in Mexico City, and who was seen in numerous college pictures at Universal, has a similar agreement with Fox.

Gilbert Roland has done a Spanish version or two, and Nils Asther, who was stricken from a high pinnacle by the microphone, appeared with Vilma Banky in a German version. Adolphe Menjou was disappointed in his expected comeback in the American talkies, but is steadily employed in French versions.

This is only a partial list. New fame beckons many other ex-stars of the silent screen.

SERVICE INDEED

Diner: "I'll have a young chicken. It must be very young. In fact, extremely young."

Waiter: "Pardon me, sir, but maybe I'd better bring you an egg."

The best known Hollywood casting directory has a new department for players who speak foreign languages. I notice that there are more than 350 people who claim knowledge of French and only 10 who speak Yiddish.

STORY CATCHING

In discussing "The Marriage Circle," one of the first of the sophisticated divorce comedies, Ernst Lubitsch remarked to me that nearly every one connected with the picture was divorced either during or since the filming of the story.

Marie Prevost

Both Monte Blue and Marie Prevost slipped out of the marital harness while the picture was under way.

Not so long afterwards, Adolphe Menjou and his first wife came to a parting of the ways. The cameraman on the film followed suit, then later came the divorce of Mr. and Mrs. Creighton Hale.

And now Herr Lubitsch himself joins the throng. Swiveling the inevitable cigar between his teeth, the stocky little director observed to me:

"Everybody is divorced but Paul Bern, who wrote the script. And he isn't married."

After meeting with rebuffs from several actors, Mack Sennett has devised a plan to acquaint Hollywood with the fact that he has foresworn pies in his new series of comedies. They say that when the producer approached some players, they shied at signing up.

Natalie Moorhead

Now he will have a special review of his five latest comedies for business representatives of the stars. There, he hopes to allay their fears that it is beneath the dignity of a dramatic player to do a Sennett short.

The producer already has signed a group of well known people, including Natalie Moorhead, Nick Stuart, George Barraud and Albert Conti. He aims for sophisticated laughs.

THE OLD DREAM

There never was a comedian who didn't want to do a tragic story. It is told that Harry Green had a terrific fight with Paramount because they would not buy him a story with an unhappy ending.

Mr. Green appears to know his own mind, too. He's bought the story and when he finishes at Paramount on November 15, he'll go to United Artists and finance the production with his own money.

That's been tried, too.

Maurice Chevalier owns but one car—a small coupe of a popular make.

Pittsburgh Officer Ordered to Service

WASHINGTON, July 31.—(AP.)—Second Lieut. John S. Cuppy, Signal Corps Reserve, Pittsburgh, has been ordered to active duty. He will report to Camp Perry, O., August 17.

NEW PHOTOPLAYS HAVE VARIED THEMES AND STARS

Opening Monday in the Pitt and showing in continuous performances, "Unguarded Girls," a photoplay, will be presented to audiences of women only. It has to do with the disappearance of a wealthy society girl. A special feature will be a parade of living models.

Warner's silver jubilee month will be inaugurated in the Stanley today with the presentation of "The Dawn Patrol." The cast includes Richard Barthelmess, supported by Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., and Neil Hamilton.

MISS GISH STAR

Lillian Gish makes her talking screen debut in "One Romantic Night," a love romance in which she is supported by Marie Dressler, and which comes to Loew's Aldine Friday. Others in the cast are Conrad Nagel, Rod LaRocque and O. P. Heggie. The screen play is an adaptation from Ferenc Molnar's play, "The Swan."

Adapted to the screen from the stage play, "Her Unborn Child," opens in the Harris Saturday. It will open Monday in the Regent.

EAST END BILLS

Richard Dix will be seen in "Shooting Straight," beginning tomorrow, in the R-K-O Sheridan Square. His role is that of a gambler. Mary Lawlor is leading woman.

Falls From Swing Into River, Drowns

CHARLESTON, W. Va., July 31.—(AP.)—When she lost her grip on a swing, Erma Haynes, 12, fell into the Elk River here and was drowned. She could not swim. The body was recovered.

Prominent

Warner Jubilee To Open Friday

Warner Brothers silver jubilee month will be officially inaugurated all over the United States by Vice-President Charles Curtis, at 1 o'clock Friday afternoon. Locally, the Enright theater will receive the signal when Vice President Curtis pushes a button. The theater will donate all of the receipts of the first performance tomorrow afternoon to the home of the Good Shepherd.

Building Company Receiver Appointed

MIAMI, Fla., July 31.—(AP.)—Marion I. Schultz was appointed receiver for the American Building Corporation, which during the Florida boom built a large number of residences in Coral Gables. The company was dissolved July 15, but holds property valued at several million dollars.

The petition for a receiver was brought by Richard K. Leblond, Cincinnati capitalist, who named Gov. Myers Y. Cooper of Ohio, and other directors as defendants.

Civic Club Meets At Duquesne Monday

A meeting of the board of the Woman's Civic Club of Duquesne is announced for next Monday in the club rooms, by the president, Mrs. T. J. Tindall. In the meeting the board will give consideration to some of the plans for representation and attendance of delegates at the State Federation meeting to be held in October at Scranton.

Fire Causes $5,000 Damage at Plant

MEADVILLE, Pa., July 31.—(AP.)—Fire yesterday caused $5,000 damage at the plant of the Paige Boiler Works. The property destroyed was a pile of wooden "flats" stacked outside the plant. The boiler works itself was not damaged.

Budget Purchase Plan Arranged

Walter Winchell on Broadway

Query

Well, thank you for your letter, anyway,
I'll overlook its strict formality;
At least you took a little time from play
To pen a few indifferent lines to me;
I rather hoped that you would recollect
That Summer when we captured happiness,
But doubtless that is too much to expect
And you have quite forgotten it, I guess.

New songs to sing this year—the old tunes fade,
New lips to kiss—the old have lost their lure;
But I am slow to learn and I'm afraid
Old songs and memories for me endure;
I wonder if your laugh will be as clear—
When this year's songs are last year's songs, my dear!
—Don Wahn.

Pun-ishment

Sign suggested by J. Q. B. for a columnist's door: "Quip Out!"

Things You Never See

Claudette Colbert with wrinkles in her stockings . . . 15 & 5 taxicabs in front of the Ritz . . . Texas Guinan drinking liquor . . . Mae West in a clean play . . . George White in any other tie but a black bow . . . Morris Gest without a cane . . . Heywood Broun with a flower in his lapel . . . Jimmy Walker with ketchup stains on his vest, and a ship news photo of a show gal with her columns uncrossed.

Wisey

And Benny Holzman says that show business is so terrible, financially, that a certain manager had to send out for people to double for the audience.

In Case You Didn't Know

The reason Jerry Breitigam (Gerald Breckenridge and Keith Russell to you!) writes his books for boys (Radio Boys series, Young Airmen series, etc.), so prolifically is that for years he had to write a chapter daily to read to his own two sons before they went to beddie. They are too big now for that sort of stuff, but the habit persists—hence the steady output and the terrific royalties.

Jerry used to be the city editor of the New York Globe, which blew up just when some of its star writers thought the town couldn't get along without them.

As If We Didn't Know

Any Manny Seff, who writes better verse, says that when an Earl Carroll girl gets home after the show she puts on some clothes and goes to bed.

Oop!

The Presto-Times, a music journal, complains because it was recorded here under a "Things I Never Knew Till Now" col'm that during a certain week recently not one piano had been sold in New York. The defender of the piano trade groans: ". . . and even if New York City didn't sell a single piano for a single week, what of it? How infinitesimal a part of this great nation is New York, although Mr. Winchell may be laboring under the popular delusion of the hoi polloi that civilization of the kind that plays the piano does not exist west of Weehawken, N. J.

And among other things the Presto-Times apparently doesn't know even yet is that you mustn't write it "the hoi polloi," hoi meaning the. Hoi Polloi is Greek for "the masses, the herd.

The Squelch Swelegant

Take it from John Hanratty, a newlywed couple had a small dark apartment in Greenwich Village. The husband, a true Hobohemian, had difficulty shaving in the morning, so he would shave near the window, holding the mirror in one paw. His squaw, annoyed by his "indecency," said that unless he stopped the practice that she would go to the window and cold cream her face.

"And then," she and-then'd, "what do you think the neighbors would say, eh?"

"My dear," he indifferently responded, "they would say I married you for your money."

Hic!

The exact cause of hiccoughs is not known, but everyone has his or her pet way of "curing" them. Some of the choice "cures" are holding the breath, pressing the upper lip, counting to 10, or 100, drinking water through a 'kerchief, or doing anything that might distract the attention. All of which, however, is a lotta malarky, as Joe Laurie, Jr., would say.

You remember the war yarn about the two doughboys in the trenches with cannon exploding all around them. Suddenly one was seized with the hiccups. He turned to his buddy and said: "Do something to scare me."

Add Merciless Truths

One of the popular restaurants catering to the so-called celebrities has a slogan, viz: "From a Sandwich to an Institution!"

One of the wags who was charged $1.50 for two slices of bread with some ham and cheese between them, groaned: "You pay for an institution and you get a sandwich!"

AIRPORT FUND HELD $3,000,000 LOW

Firemen Rescue 12 in Dormont

SIDE WALKS of PITTSBURGH

by WILLIAM PFARR

M'lord:

I was talking to a fellow the other day that had just bought a new car and he said times were terrible. And I was up at Conneaut over the week-end and I met a man who was paying ten bucks a day for his room at the hotel and he said times were worse than they've ever been. I was on a swell party last week that must have cost the host the worst part of a thousand-dollar bill and he said if things kept up he was going to move to Roosia. It's a funny world, kid, and you can write that one in the book. How's your aunt? . . . is that so?

It is a pleasure to report that the relations between journalism and gasoline-station attendants which were strained recently, have been happily restored. The strain has to do with Capt. Tony Block, the policeman, Walton Woods, a reporter, and a North Side gas-station attendant.

The attendant excitedly telephoned North Side police that he had captured the gunman who, on the previous night, had held up the place. The gunman was at that moment locked up in a room in the shop. Capt. Block and a half dozen policemen rushed to the shop, unlocked the door and found the so-called gunman, who happened to be Woods, the reporter.

MA!—I GOT 'IM LOCKED UP!

Woods had gone into the shop to telephone his office a report of a nearby fire. In leaving he forgot his notes. When he returned to make a second call the attendant shoved him into the room and locked him up. The attendant had seen, among Woods' notes, scribbled figures concerning the gas-station hold-up, which Woods had reported the day before. The attendant, a student of Sherlock Holmes, reasoned that here was the gunman, caught with the very goods. There were no hard feelings.

The wives and daughters of a group of Westinghouse engineers are faced by a pretty problem. The engineers are going to Russia for two or three years to fulfill some Westinghouse contracts and their families are going along. But the Soviet government has notified them that in Russia there are fixed sartorial standards and that silks are barred. In other words, our fair wives and daughters will sport cotten, if not wool, hose. Silk dresses, too, are frowned upon. All this so that there shall be no leanings toward class distinction.

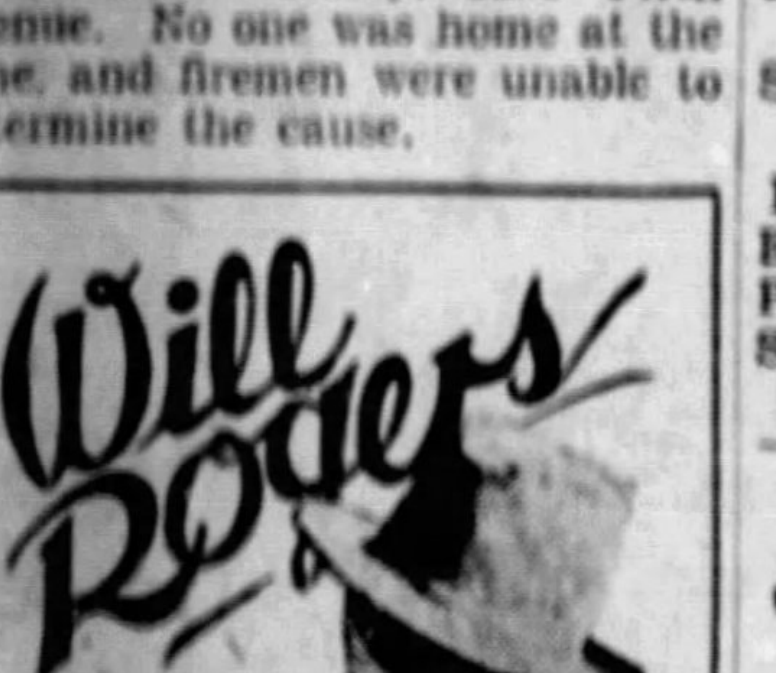
Father to Welcome Runaway Daughter

P. H. Wade, of 517 Flynn avenue, Carnegie, today told authorities that he wanted to drop any threatened prosecution of his daughter, Eva May Wade, 18, who, it is said, ran away from home last week. At the time of her disappearance, Wade is reported to have urged her arrest and the arrest of the man with whom she is believed to have fled. The father announced that he would welcome her return home.

Police Open Inquiry Into Cause of Fire

Police today were attempting to determine the cause of the fire which last night caused $1,000 damage in the dwelling occupied by Nicholas Halsey, 2528 Fifth avenue. No one was home at the time, and firemen were unable to determine the cause.

Will Rogers Says:



To the Editor of the Sun-Telegraph:

BEVERLEY HILLS, Cal., July 31

Oklahoma and Texas have an original primary system. They have so many seeking office that the first primary is only to find out how many are desirous of living off the state. The second primary is to eliminate 50 per cent of these. The third is to get rid of half of what is left. The fourth is to eliminate any good man that might have crept in by mistake. Now you have just politicians, so the fifth one is to leave in the two worst ones, and they run it off.

Yours,
WILL.

CARRY VICTIMS DOWN LADDER AT BLAZE

Twenty Others Driven From Apartments by West Liberty Ave. Fire

A dozen persons were carried down ladders and 20 others were driven from their apartments when fire started in the basement of a three-story brick building at 2908 and 2910 West Liberty avenue, Dormont, shortly after 3 a. m. today. Firemen confined the flames to the basement and first floor, occupied by the Luther Catering Company.

Fire Chief Louis Matter estimated the loss at $12,000.

The fire was discovered by Patrolman Henry Bloom, who turned in an alarm. With Patrolman George Stricker he ran through smoke-filled hallways and aroused occupants of apartments on the second and third floors.

AIDED DOWN LADDERS

Firemen placed ladders against the building from the front and rear, and from the roof of a one-story building next door, and down these the two policemen and Fireman William Elcock aided a dozen occupants to the street.

The second floor was occupied by the families of Charles A. Gutbroad and Victor G. Tilbrook, and Miss Mary and Miss Sue Scott, sisters. The Gutbroad family was absent on their vacation. On the third floor was Mrs. Frank Schia and Mr. and Mrs. W. Lee Frank.

Twenty persons living in apartments in a three-story building at 2912 West Liberty avenue, were forced from their homes by smoke.

HINDERED BY SMOKE

Firemen, playing six lines of hose on the fire, had difficulty in their battle due to smoke which at times drove them from the building. After a battle of more than an hour the fire was under control, but water was pumped into the basement several hours longer before the flames were extinguished.

The building is owned by Fred Becker, of Dormont.

While the fire was in progress a milk wagon two blocks down West Liberty avenue caught fire. Two policemen extinguished the flames by pouring a five-gallon can of milk on the fire.

50 Men Fight Brush Fire At Camp Horne

Brooms, shovels, rakes and other implements were used by more than 50 male campers at Camp Horne, Emsworth, to stamp out a brush fire which damaged the camp and the Hunt property along the Nebo road, late yesterday. Firemen from Bellevue and the North Side were unable to use water owing to the lack of facilities.

J. W. McCreary, manager of the camp, and E. P. Shatz, assistant manager of the Joseph Horne Company, directed the campers fighting the blaze, which was extinguished after a four-hour fight. Girl campers furnished food to the firefighters.

The fire was started by men engaged in cleaning out underbrush, the flames getting beyond their control, according to a report given Emsworth police.

HOW LANDSLIDE FROM BANK ALONG CALIFORNIA AVENUE CRUSHED FORM FOR CONCRETE SHAPE OF OHIO RIVER BOULEVARD UNDERPASS

SLIDE DAMAGES RIVER ROAD

A landslide in California avenue, at Woodlawn avenue, caused $6,000 loss when it warped and moved a huge wooden arch form several feet from its foundation last midnight on the Ohio River boulevard project.

Workmen escaped possible injuries when a last minute postponement delayed the pouring of concrete until today. If the work had proceeded last night, approximately 20 workmen would have been under the form when the timber supports gave way.

According to J. D. Miles, superintendent of the underpath construction for the Vang Construction Company, the archway will form a part of the tunnel for westbound traffic to pass under the relocated California avenue. Three hundred and twenty tons of earth slid from the California avenue level. The archway measured 28 feet wide, 22 feet high and 34 feet long. Reinforcement rods were bent by the pressure. The archway weighed approximately 50,000 pounds.

Raquel Accepts Position With Connoiseur

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Raquel Rojos, half-Spanish, half-American and wholly in revolt against her home life at Hermosa, on the Mexican border, accepts a loan from the man she loves, Jack Farrell, a young engineer, and flees to New York. There she stays at the Hotel Brixton and waits for Farrell to come to marry her. One day she is attracted by a hat in a shop window. The owner of the shop is the famous Alphonse Courbet. He sees Raquel and recognizes her as the type of model he wants for Paris. He offers her the chance to go abroad with two other models. Raquel is to give an answer at dinner the following evening.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XIV.

The offer of Alphonse Courbet, entrepreneur of Beauty, to engage Raquel Rojos as a model was not as fortuitous as on the surface appears.

A connoisseur of women, Alphonse. Especially of beautiful women. Of all beauty, for the matter of that. His house, a veritable reproduction of a French chateau, atop a New York roof overlooking the majestic sweep of the Hudson River and the Palisades, was a citadel of Beauty. Priceless paintings. Jades and porcelains and rugs that had known the tread of kings long since returned to the dust. A garden, glass-enclosed, where orchids bloomed in winter and tropical birds ruffled their brilliant plumage under the swirling snow.

Those who had tasted of the hospitality of Alphonse's apartment in Paris could testify to its lavishness, to its setting in a treasure-trove reclaimed from the reign of the exquisite Louis. A unique personality, Alphonse. A commanding figure by reason of his flair for beauty and his infallible understanding of that which is true Art.

In Raquel, Alphonse saw raw material for a supreme expression of the exotic. Vividness. Spirit. Her daring color. The hint of ripeness in her supple body. Her eyes—they were inexplicable. Alluring, and yet he knew they could repel too—coldly, ruthlessly — when it pleased her to have them do so. What he could do with such beauty! What he could make of it!

A radiant Raquel awaited him when he came that evening to take her to dinner. So sparkling in her dark young beauty that Alphonse forgot the offense cheap ill-fitting clothes always gave him.

Mind Made Up
Decides to Accept Place As Model

"I've already decided, Monsieur Alphonse," Raquel told him almost before he could bend to kiss her hand in his foreign way. "I go to Paris as a model, if you think I'll do."

"That is indeed wise, Mademoiselle Raquel," he said gravely. There is no city in the world like Paris for a lovely woman."

They dined, inconspicuously, in a restaurant of soft hidden music, concealed lights, and exquisite food.

"Good night, Mademoiselle," Alphonse said when he left her at her hotel shortly before 10. "You will report at the shop in the morning for instructions. It must be that you study hard. The time is short. A week, two weeks perhaps, three at the most."

"Good night," murmured Raquel. She wished he would not go——just yet. What if Jack Farrell should be waiting for her in the hotel? What if he should come in the night, before she could get out and over to Alphonse's shop in the morning?

She must not think of these things. Nor of Farrell. Time for that tomorrow, after she had browsed in the beauty that was behind the sliding panels in the shop of Alphonse. Maybe she wouldn't like it there after all. Maybe she could not be a model.

Resolutely, she thrust the specter of lean brown Jack Farrell, no longer laughing, behind her.

Promptly at 9 in the morning she was at the shop. Alphonse, the tawny young saleswoman told her, never came down before 11. Raquel explained to her why she was there. The tawny one eyed her narrowly.

"Model for Paris, eh?" she said making no attempt to conceal her envy. "You're in luck." Then, with a swift glance around them to make sure they were alone. "If Madame Pauline so much as suspects you've got designs on him—well—I

M'GOVERN'S CHARGE HIT BY BROWN

Commissioner 'Malicious,' Official Says, Denying Waste and Extravagance

The city-county airport on Lebanon Church road will cost $5,000,000 to complete, instead of the $2,000,000 already spent, according to County Commissioner C. C. McGovern, who declared the project was "rotten with inefficiency, extravagance and waste." McGovern said:

"The airport project is such a gross error that the people who planned it should set a public hearing to seek a solution."

Director Norman F. Brown, of the Allegheny County Department of Public Works, who has charge of the airport construction, said:

"The county commissioner that made the malicious, distorted statement was not on the job and does not know what he is talking about."

AWARDED FOR SPEED

A contract for the airport was let by the county commissioners in June, 1929, to the Vang Construction Company, whose high bid of $1,470,000 was justified by a majority of the board by the firm's ability to complete the job in the specified 250 days.

The original time limit of the contract expired last March 25, but the contractor was granted extensions permitting the work to continue until last month, minutes of meetings of the county commissioners indicate. No report has been received so far that would indicate the work has been completed.

DENIES EXTENSIONS GIVEN

McGovern has asserted he attended every legal meeting of the county commissioners and no extension of time was ever granted the contractor.

McGovern said the public had been given the impression that the original $2,000,000 was to provide an airport complete with hangars, runways and an improved surface, ready to receive ships this summer.

In contradiction, Brown asserted the $2,000,000 appropriation merely was to acquire land for the airport and pay the cost of grading the site.

LAND BEING CONDEMNED

Brown explained that 108 acres of land had been purchased; that the board of viewers has made awards on 244 acres, and that another 110 acres are in condemnation proceedings. That total of 462 acres would provide an A-1-A class flying field in accordance with United States government requirements.

McGovern said yesterday:

"After I was outvoted on selecting the present location, I got an agreement with Chairman Armstrong that we would not pay more than $200 an acre for the required land. The present site was a slag dump assessed at from $60 to $70 an acre.

PAYING HIGHER PRICES

"It appears now that we are paying nearly $1,000 an acre. Mr. Babcock got beautiful land for the county parks at $300 an acre."

McGovern declared the present site was dotted with hollows that have been filled with earth removed from higher spots within the boundaries of the airport. He pointed out that natural settlement will require replacements that will have to be repeated for many years.

Telephone Co. Buys Site in Ambridge

A new telephone central office building was in prospect for Ambridge today, the Bell Telephone Company of Pennsylvania having announced purchase of a site for the structure at the northeast corner of Merchant and Ninth streets. SHIPPERS WIN RATE VICTORY

Donald O. Moore, traffic manager of the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce, today announced the Interstate Commerce Commission has ruled that carriers in the central district, which includes Pittsburgh, were not justified in proposing an increase from 70 to 80 per cent of sixth-class rates. This classification of rates includes those on shipments of tar and pitch, except crude tar, Moore said.

The decision of the commission is equivalent to a victory for local shippers. The commission held the carriers had not shown the earnings under the 70 per cent scale to be inadequate, or that the tar and pitch traffic did not bear its fair share of the transportation burden.

As example, local shippers on shipments of tar and pitch to Chicago will pay 19½ cents per hundred pounds instead of the 22 cents per hundred pounds as the increase would have provided.

SEE NO BATTLE OF TONGS HERE

Inspector of Detectives Frank Boyd today put at rest fears that Tong war by opposing Chinese factions here might break out in conjunction with two slayings in New York and Boston yesterday.

Officials of the two Chinese tongs here—the On Leong and Hip Sing—have a working agreement with police and detectives, Inspector Boyd said, whereby the authorities are notified days and even weeks in advance of any anticipated trouble.

Boyd talked with officials of the tongs a short time ago, he intimated, and at that time every indication was given that peace reigned in the local Chinatown section of Second avenue.

RIVER SWIMMER DROWNS

L. P. Cult, 25, of 4761 Liberty avenue, drowned while swimming in the Allegheny River, near the Seventh Heaven Camp, Oakmont last night. He was seized by cramps, a report to the coroner's office said.

Other bathers from the camp recovered the body, but efforts of Dr. H. N. Mock, who attempted to revive him, were futile. Deputy Coroners J. R. Dulay and Stanley Gesenuski were detailed to investigate the case for the coroner's office.

Ten Motorists Fined As Traffic Violators

Fines ranging from $5 to $25 were imposed upon 10 motorists appearing for hearings on reckless driving charges to day in Traffic Court. The fines aggregated $120. Ten other motorists were discharged, eight were held for further hearings, three failed to appear and one was held for court. C. H. Lehmann and John N. Houston, members of the Better Traffic Committee, and Assistant Superintendent of Police Ben Marshall sat with the magistrate at the hearings.

'Slow Safety Zone' Signals Given Test

Arrows Indicating One-Way Streets Tried Out at Downtown Intersections

City Traffic Engineer Lewis W. McIntyre today was to put into operation two novel types of traffic signal equipment for test purposes. The first is a "slow safety zone" signal to operate temporarily on the street car safety zones at Fifth avenue and Grant street. The other is an illuminated "one-way-street" arrow sign to be tried out at Grant street and Fourth avenue and at Grant and Diamond streets.

The right of way of pedestrians at intersections over all turning vehicles was emphasized today by C. H. Roth, of the education section of the Better Traffic Committee, in the fourth of a series of educational talks before traffic officers at their roll call this morning. Instruction cards bearing the context of Roth's talk were distributed to the police as they reported at the 16 police stations.

Three members of the traffic committee sat with Magistrate William J. P. Soost in Traffic Court today. They were J. M. Huston, C. H. Lehmann and Benjamin R. Marshall, assistant superintendent of police.

TREE-PERCHERS STILL ALOFT

Sixteen days ago the Gravely brothers, Lawrence, James and Robert, with their cousin, Sam King, took to trees with the intention of remaining aloft until the school bells ring. To date, they have kept to their intention, and the probabilities are they will remain up until the school books are brought out of the dust.

Other contenders for the mythical title in Homestead also are remaining at their posts, despite the warm weather and adverse labor conditions among refuelers. There are 13 such teams in the Homestead district, each with the intention of outlasting the others.

$100,000 ASKED IN GAS BLAST

Damages of $100,000 from the Peoples Gas Company are asked in a damage suit on file in Common Pleas court today, instituted by Frank Salerno, 13, and his parents, Alfonso and Angeline Salerno, Tunnel street, because of injuries suffered by the boy in a gas explosion.

The boy was walking in front of 701 Wylie avenue on June 29 last when a gas explosion occurred in the building. He was struck by brick and stone and hurled a considerable distance, suffering many bruises and burns. His spine and eyesight were injured, he says. The gas company is trustee for the estate of Sara A. Reed, owner of the building, and also supplies gas to it. The suit charges the explosion resulted from a leak in a rusty meter, and blames the gas company with negligence.

Dry Padlock Lifted From Lido Cafe

The padlock on the former Lido Cafe at Wylie and Sixth avenues, closed for violation of the liquor laws, was lifted today by Federal Judge Gibson, when the promise was made in behalf of new managers of the place that there would be no law violations.

Besides Mitchell, those participating were John Wells, Robert Bigler and John Ritchie, of the North Side, and George Stauffer, of McKees Rocks.

THIEVES ENTER CLOAK STORE

Officials of the Nathan Bagran Cloak Shop, 901 Penn avenue, today were checking up on their stock to determine what loss had been suffered through a visit of thieves to the first and second floors of the store early today.

A policeman found a side door open and discovered that both floors had been ransacked. A cash register on the first floor had been opened, but a safe on the second was untouched.

A pile of cloaks near the open door indicated, police said, that the thieves had been frightened away about the time they prepared to leave with their loot.

As Herman Darling, 34, of Sandusky, O., was recovering in the Mercy Hospital today from a beating administered by three men a short time before at Fifth and Wylie avenues, police were seeking a motive for the attack.

Three men, Darling told Patrolman John Casserly, who found him slumped over the steering wheel of his automobile and removed him to the hospital, jumped into the front seat, beat him with blackjacks and then escaped. None of the victim's money was stolen, he told police.

Darling arrived in Pittsburgh yesterday from Sandusky. Hospital attaches reported him suffering from lacerations of the head and face. His condition is not serious.

Final hearings to determine if the injunctions shall be made permanent will be held in September.

The places and their owners are listed as follows: Saloon at 140 Fullerton street, Nathan Gordon and James E. Ford, proprietors; bar at 4212 Penn avenue, John J. Lindenfelser and John Butler, proprietors; club on the first floor of 1109 East street, Frank Diehl, proprietor.

Action was taken on petition of R. J. McDonald, receiver of the company, which operates the Exposition Park at Conneaut Lake, Pa., setting forth that officials of Crawford County had advertised a large portion of the company's holdings for sale August 4. The receiver held this was a violation of the court's receivership decree of September 27, 1929, in which interference with operation of the property is prohibited.

GARBAGE SCOW, RUM SEIZED

NEW YORK, July 31.—(AP.)—A city-owned garbage scow, valued at $100,000, was confiscated by customs authorities here after it had been seized with a $90,000 liquor cargo aboard at a pier on the lower East Side.

Branded as a common rum-runner, the scow was towed off to the government barge office. The collector of the port notified city officials that unless they prove they were ignorant of its contraband cargo, the scow will be sold at auction, as is any other criminal craft.

The scow, with its liquor and 22 men, seven employes of the street cleaning department, was captured just before dawn by a customs patrol boat. Attracted by unusual activity along the water front in the shadow of Brooklyn Bridge, the patrol boat put in and surprised nearly 100 men engaged in unloading the liquor.

There were a few shots, knives flashed and fists flew as the customs officers charged. Those on the pier disappeared in the semi-darkness. Some leaped into the river. Others were subdued and two trucks were seized. A list of suburban residents and night club owners was found aboard the scow

The barge is believed to have made contact with a Rum Row schooner while out on a garbage dumping trip, near the 12-mile limit. The seven city employes involved have been suspended.

Nuisance Problem Easy Multiplication

CHICAGO, July 31.—(AP.)—The charge against Joseph Heinrich, preferred by neighbors, is that he maintained a big crop of nuisances.

The maximum fine for maintaining one nuisance is $200. Mr. Heinrich knows as well as anybody else that $200 multiplied by 268 nuisances is a lot of money.

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH'S SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Society Folk Answer As New Faces, Lands Beckon Them

Travel and new lands, new faces, new settings, always beckon to society folks, but never do they heed the lure so much as in the summer time.

And though I've been talking about the travel plans of folks for weeks and weeks, there's still more news about their pilgrimages.

Eleanor Longenecker, daughter of Mrs. Ralph Longenecker, whose engagement to John Milligan Fisher, son of the Gordon Fishers, was announced some time ago, is in Cape Cod, I've heard. And she'll return to the city early in September.

Of course not everyone is out of town. And some of the folks home for a few weeks are entertaining house guests. Mrs. Charles Babcock, of Philadelphia, is the house guest of Betty McCullough, daughter of the W. T. McCulloughs, of Bennington avenue.

The Robert W. Russells, of Asheville, N. C., who've been the guests of Mr. Russell's father and mother, the Robert Russells, of South Graham street, left Tuesday by motor for their home.

Mrs. Percy E. Donner, of Sewickley, and her son, Frederick Hamilton Donner, have gone to Bar B C ranch at Jackson Hole, Wyo., where they'll stay until September.

Vogue Of West

Capt. and Mrs. Cyrus R. Miller are also in Wyoming. They are the guests of their nephew, Edward S. Moore, Jr., at Sheridan, Wyo.

This week end Dr. and Mrs. Charles K. Shanor will return from the West. They've been traveling through California.

Have you heard that the B. R. B. Townsends, of "Fairway," Sewickley Heights, have as their guests the William Sheaffers, of Wayne, Pa.?

PACKET MAKES FINAL TRIP

MEMPHIS, Tenn., July 31.—(AP.)—Down on the Mississippi River front this morning, they said the Valley Queen was due, and would not leave again.

An epoch will end as the Valley Queen swings around the bend and glides into the shadow of the Memphis skyline. It is the last of the Memphis packets.

The Valley Line Steamers, Inc., goes out of business today, closing the last of the packet lines which have sent boats from Memphis to the ports and landings along the big river for more than a century.

The docking of the Valley Queen leaves no packet on the river between Cape Girardeau, Mo., and Memphis. A few boats run from New Orleans to and beyond Vicksburg, Miss. A few operate far to the north.

Gore, whose campaign was a crusade against big business and the Hoover administration, had 56,668 votes against 54,645 for Wrightsman. Henry S. Johnston, once ousted as governor, trailed with 42,649 votes.

William H. (Alfalfa Bill) Murray, was far in front of his nearest rival in the gubernatorial race.

Paris Bureau, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph,

PARIS, JULY 31.—We are still true to the navy frock, and so of course frocks of this color will have a prominent place in the late Summer and early Autumn wardrobe, for which, clothes that are not too formal, but yet frightfully smart, are so much in demand. The skillfully cut yet simple frock of fine woolen in navy with white is eminently desirable for the so important "little" frock that gives an added zest to the first days in town, after the holiday season, without making us feel too urban and dressed-up. The majority of the couturiers give as much attention to this type of frock as to the lavish affairs for which they are noted, for nearly all of their clients are as particular about such simple little daytime frocks as they are about their formal day and evening gowns. For it is an added test of chic to don a simple frock and yet appear to be sartorially at home should one find oneself in a more formally attired gathering. And the little frock created by the great designers are eminently blessed with this desirable quality.

THOSE OF YOU who may be planning a simple little frock in navy blue for general every day wear should find much of interest in the sketch here, of a new Irene Dana model. It is of navy blue wool veiling with a tiny white dot, while the yoke is draped in soft folds and cut in one with knotted scarf, ends behind, is of white georgette. A knot of the georgette is drawn through slits in each cuff, and white georgette piping edges the belt. The flat, pleated panels at the front of the skirt are cut separately and appliqued on at the top beneath stitching and button trimming. Irene Dana is having much success with models of this type, which she is making for some of her smartest clients.

TELL IT TO SALLY

By SALLY MARTIN

Best Husbands Sometimes Make Mistakes

Suppose you had loved your husband serenely for 10 trusting years—

Loved him with that confident, complacent adoration of the happy wife and mother—

And then suddenly—like a thunderbolt crashing into a sweet, walled garden came disillusionment. For reaching in his pocket, she found another woman's love letter!

How would you feel if that had happened to you?

Could you forgive and forget? Could you, on the ruins of your happiness, build new confidence and comradeship? Or would you feel bankrupt for life, as Katherine feels today?

"Dear Sally:

"Since you've given out valuable advice to other people, I am going to ask you to tell me what to do about the terrible problem that has come to me. It means everything to my own future and the future of my three little children.

"I am a married woman of 35, and my husband is 36. We've been married 10 years. I have always been a devoted mother to my children, but I have never allowed myself to go to seed either. I keep myself looking neat and well dressed, and most folks take me for about 25. I am not beautiful, but am considered good-looking.

HUSBAND SUCCESSFUL

"My husband is good-looking, and is a very successful business man. He has very likeable ways, and has always been a good daddy to our babies. He has a traveling position, and is sometimes away from home for long periods of time. When he is gone I have stayed at home and taken full charge of home and children, and waited patiently for him. I loved him with all my heart and soul, and believed in him implicitly . . . until I found a letter in his coat . . . a love letter! It was from a girl in a town he had been working in for several months. I couldn't resist the temptation to read it, and it was a real love letter.

"Now, he says he doesn't love this girl, but made the mistake of telling her he was a single man. He says she still loves me only and wants to forget her, and wants me to forgive him. Yet he told her to send all her letters to a certain hotel, so of course I wouldn't know he was getting them, and he has written several letters to her and taken her out, while he was back there, to shows and things . . . while I stayed at home to save every cent for our little home and our babies.

CAN SHE TRUST HIM?

"The question is, Miss Martin, can I ever trust him again, and should I forgive him as he asks? Or would I be a fool to try to do that?

"I want to be first with him, or nothing at all, and yet when I think of our babies . . . I don't know what to do. Ralph says this girl is very beautiful and is only 28, which makes me feel all the more heartbroken and unsure.

"He says he loves me, and not her, and yet when we talk about it all, he gets very angry and cross. What shall I do? I am just broken-hearted now. Should I forgive him? It seems so unfair! KATHERINE."

Seems unfair? Of course it does, my dear. And yet you'll have to get over that feeling before you can see this thing straight.

As long as you feel that it's unfair, you will feel that he had deliberately committeed a crime against you. He hasn't, Katherine. He has committed a very great crime against himself, and you have been incidently involved, but it wasn't a deliberate personal offense against you.

That's one of the hardest things to learn about those we love—that we mustn't take their mistakes too personally.

Mistakes are queer things. For some mysterious reason, we all seem to need to make them to learn sense. And we've no right to ride hard on all the other fellows' errors—even though those errors may hurt us terribly.

TRYING TO JUDGE HIM

At present, instead of trying to understand this foolish man of yours, you're trying to judge him—trying to decide whether you'll forgive or punish him. But you've no right to judge him! And as long as you continue to judge him, the bitterness will grow between you.

Did you ever commit some darn fool mistake, Katherine . . . some idiot act you'd never have dreamed of doing in saner moments? And afterwards, when you were swallowing in the shame and remorse, didn't you resent it if people kept talking about their wounded feelings. For weren't your feelings a thousand times more wounded than theirs—and weren't you suffering enough without their criticism.

I suspect that is how your husband is feeling today. He has made a mistake. I admit, it was a very miserable mistake. He wasn't honest with himself or with you or the girl.

But the chances are that his escapade was nothing more than a sudden, unthinking yielding to an impulse. A belated snatch at the old, gay freedom he knew before he married and "settled down" and took on the heavy, man-sized responsibility of caring for a family. And that is why he lied to the girl about not being married. Or he was having one of those "unmarried moments" that come to the best of husbands—and wives, too, if the truth were known.

And now he's sorry and ashamed and needs you more desperately than he has ever needed you before. Won't you try to understand that, my dear? Won't you put aside your personal pique and jealousy and be the good sport you've been through all these happy years? For what's love worth if it can't give the other fellow a hand when he skids?

MISS HARD-BOILED

By JANE DIXON

wouldn't want to be in your shoes, that's all."

Raquel's shoulders lifted.

"Thanks," she said. "I have no—what you call 'designs'—on Monsieur Alphonse. I work for him. Nothing more. As for this Madame Pauline, I do not know who she is. But I do not fear her. It would be better for her that she leave me alone."

Raquel's smile had menace in it.

"My!" gasped the tawny one, "you're a cool one."

Raquel settled herself on a none too comfortable, if highly decorative, chair. She would await the coming of Alphonse.

Would she ever really get to Paris, wear beautiful clothes, go to beautiful places, be herself, beautiful as she now knew beauty to be? First there was Jack Farrell and now—this Madame Pauline.

What was she going to do about Farrell? He would never consent to her leaving him again, once he had her close to him. That night she rode out into the desert—it was all she could do to tear herself away from his arms, his clinging lips.

If she wrote to Farrell, confessed that which she contemplated, he would toss discretion to the wind. Let Hermosa say what it would, he would come to her, headlong. He might even find a way to prevent her from getting on the ship that would take her to Paris.

There was that loan he made her, too. She could not pay it back. Not until she earned enough money. She was going to be paid for wearing beautiful clothes, for being beautiful. Was ever human being so fortunate? Farrell ought to be willing to wait until she came back, until she had her fling with beauty. He must wait. He . . .

"Who it that girl?"

Raquel heard the question distinctly. Unnoticed by her, someone had entered the shop; was behind the screen near the window talking with the tawny saleswoman.

"The one on the chair?" Hesitatingly. "I believe . . . that is, she says . . . she is the new model for Paris."

A pause. Then, "When was she engaged?" The voice cut through the tasseled and brocaded room like a whip.

"I—I don't know, Madame Pauline."

Raquel sat erect. The owner of the whip-like voice had come out from behind the screen, was advancing toward her. She did not turn her head.

"You are the new model?" Now she raised her eyes. A tall woman with ample breast and ridiculously narrow hips, her blonde hair slicked so tightly against her head it seemed to be lacquered there, was studying Raquel with contemptuous brows.

"Yes, I am the new model." Raquel refused to wither under the other's scorn.

"You need not wait for Monsieur Alphonse. I do not like your type. It is stark, offensive to one's delicacy. For the stage perhaps. But here, we must have finesse."

"I take orders from Monsieur Alphonse," said Raquel.

The woman with the ample breast glared.

"You take orders from me," she said. "I will not have you here—understand? Monsieur Alphone has changed his mind. He cannot use you."

Raquel rose.

"When Monsieur Alphonse tells me so, I go," she said quietly. "Until then, I wait."

"You hear that?" cried the woman, looking wildly about the shop for confirmation of what her ears told her could not be true. "She defies me, this hussy! She flaunts me! Get out, I tell you! I'll teach you and your Alphonse!"

Her red fingers with the rose-tinted nails dug into Raquel's shoulder.

"Stop!" Another voice cut the air. Stern, uncompromising. "You shall pay for this, madame. Dearly you shall pay. Brawling in the shop of Alphonse, like a common creature of the street. Canaille!"

The woman's hand dropped. She drew back. The mottles on her cheeks were livid purplish splotches.

Fay King Contrasts Charm and Personality of Jazz and Home Girls

NOT SO MUCH IN A MOB, BUT A BRIGHT HAPPY PERSONALITY IN THE HOME!
THE GAYEST OF THE GAY WITH A GANG BUT WHAT A FLOP WITH THE FAMILY!
FAY KING

Some girls are all pep and personality in a crowd.

Doll them up and dance them around and they never grow tired. They never run out of smiles or jolly chat when kidding along a good spender.

But meet them away from saxophone circles and you'd be surprised.

The least duty becomes drudgery. If dinner dishes have to be polished they get a sinking spell.

On the other hand, some girls do not shine at all when out with a bunch of ankle wits.

Necking and wise-cracks bore them.

But meet them in the home.

And in it they shine bright, unchanging and true!

Love's Reawakening

Harry Declines to Open Mysterious Package

How much did Harry Underwood know of the chapter in Lillian's life which had Robert Savarin for its heading? This was the query which ran like an undercurrent through the memories which had come thronging upon me as I read the famous artist's name upon the express receipt as the shipper of the wooden box to Lillian.

That he knew enough to cherish a most lively jealousy of the artist I was sure, for I had once seen his contorted face when he spoke of Marion's affection for Savarin as contrasted with her aversion to himself. That aversion was now happily transformed into genuine liking, but I was sure even that welcome knowledge had not changed Mr. Underwood's feeling toward the man who had given Lillian a wonderful devotion in the years of his own expatriation.

There had been too many years of callous neglect upon the husband's part, of bitter resentment upon the wife's, to make shock perfect their reunion, even though Harry Underwood had royally expiated that neglect in the government work, which nearly cost him the life which he had laid at her feet with the plea, "Will it do, Lil?" That both were now real lovers, I knew, but I also guessed Harry Underwood's jealousy born of that belated love, and I feared the reaction which Lillian's pride—and memories—might present to any exhibition of resentment upon her husband's part.

My memories and fears had covered a dozen years — and more—of life, yet there was but the space of a second or two between my taking of the express receipt into my hand, and Lillian's reaching out for it.

"Let me see it, Madge," she said quietly, and there was no change whatever in her face as she read it. When she had finished, she looked over at her husband.

"Will you see that the box is opened, please, Harry?" She made the request as casually as though the big case had indeed contained the greens of which I had talked. But—was it my imagination, or was there the faintest note of tolerance as for a spoiled child's vagaries, in that quiet voice?

Whether I was right or not, something in her tone or suggestion patently flicked her husband upon the raw. He threw up his head, jerked out an explosive, "No! I'll be——," stopped short and made her a most courtly bow.

"My dear," he said, and only one who knew him intimately could detect the irony and reined-in anger in his voice— "I am sure you would much prefer having such impersonal companionship as Jim's when this interesting box is opened. With your kind permission I'll send him in to you at once."

He bent from the waist in another bow, straightened himself, wheeled with a touch of military precision and stalked out of the door. From the corner of my eye I saw Lillian stretch out her hand to him and then draw it back so quickly that I knew the first movement had been an involuntary one. But her husband's eyes had been carefully averted from her, and I knew he had not seen the placatory little movement.

But I had seen her eyes, and as the door closed behind him, I took her by the arm and marched her into the nearest room, the library, and put her into an easy chair.

"Shut your eyes and pull yourself together," I commanded. "Would you like to have me oversee Jim's opening of that box?"

She looked up at me gratefully.

"If you only would," she breathed, then, as I nodded, she gripped my hand and threw up her head.

"No," she said, explosively. "I'm not quite a coward yet. But this is so unexpected that it has unnerved me. I thought that chapter was closed—forever. What do you suppose Robert means by this?"

I hesitated, then put a direct question.

"Does Robert know that you and Harry are reconciled?"

"I don't know," she said, after a troubled little pause. "Everything was finally settled between us when he went to Europe the last time. Robert understood at last—after a great deal of difficulty—that I never meant to see him again or write to him. It was terribly—hard—for me—how hard nobody will ever know—but his own attitude toward my work—and Marion—though he loved her dearly,—made it imposible for me to take any other course."

There were little beads of water upon her forehead now, and I realized that though she no longer cared for Robert Savarin, the memory of that torturing conflict still had power to shake her. I put down my hand and grasped hers firmly.

"No good going over it," I said.

She gripped my hand until I winced.

"I know that," she said, "but I've got to get this straightened out in my own mind. I've never written to Robert anything about—Harry—and—me—for I didn't think it wise. But I heard that he had returned to his home in the Catskills, and, of course, he may have heard of it through a dozen sources."

"Do you think—" I put the question hesitantly, but I felt that it was one which I ought to ask—"that his mind may have given way again, and that this may be—"

I did not finish, for she had risen with a little cry, her face ashen, and putting me aside, rushed toward the box and began to tug it toward the door.

CORRECT MANNERS

By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman

A Wedding Reception Unnecessary

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

Will you kindly tell me if it is absolutely necessary to have a reception after a wedding when the bride wears a veil? M. C.

No, it is not necessary to have a reception after the ceremony, whether or not the bride wears a veil. Many brides feel that they wish only the sacredness of the ceremony, and do not wish to have the social element to follow the ceremony. And this is quite correct, if they wish to plan their wedding like this.

Order of Processional

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

I am going to be a bride and intend to have a big wedding. I am having four ushers, four bridesmaids, maid of honor, matron of honor, best man, bride and groom's parents, flower girl and ring bearer.

The family cannot agree on how the wedding processional should be arranged, so would you kindly tell me the correct way. I read it in your column several days ago but I cannot convince the family, as I did not save the column for them to read. BRIDE-TO-BE.

This is the order of your processional: First, the ushers, walking together, two by two; next, the bridesmaids, walking together, two by two; next, the ring-bearer, walking alone; next, the matron of honor, walking alone; next, the flower girls; and last, you, the bride, with your father.

If you prefer, you may have the maid of honor and the matron of honor walk together, but this is not customary. Or, you may have the maid of honor walk first, and then the matron of honor. But the way I have outlined in the first paragraph is the usual way.

The groom and the best man wait in the vestry room or some other room in the front of the church for the first notes of the wedding march, and then they come to the front of the church, and wait there for the arrival of the bridal party. They do not take part in the processional.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Friday, August 1

The lunar transits for this day must be read as somewhat conflicting, the luminari being in malefic aspect while other powerful planets are under most benignant sway. While the general trend of events is most favorable, with all situations moving toward desired ends, accompanied by increase of money, favors and advancement, yet employment may be a matter of concern or disappointment.

Those whose birthday it is may look for a year of growth, with success and gain in many directions, with advancement toward desired ambitions and returns for hard work and industry, but there may be some moments of anxiety or dissatisfaction in the employment of others. New projects and finances should flourish.

A child born on this day may be genial, popular, talented and industrious and should be generally fortunate and happy in life.

What to Do in Case of Snake Bites

DR. COPELAND

Comparatively few persons are bitten by snakes in North America for the reason that most people avoid their haunts. The regions in the United States where dangerous snakes are known to the public, and in such places the public is generally informed as to how to combat the poison, if bitten.

It is in tropical countries that the most dangerous snakes are found.

In our country the rattlesnake is a deadly enemy to man. But how seldom is this snake met with these days. It is in the late summer and early fall that we are apt to run across the snake that is dangerous. When the water dries in the hills and mountains they come down into the lowlands for water and food.

Recent researches made at Washington University, in St. Louis, seem to show that snake venom is the only poison in the world known to kill by affecting all the body at once. It seems to attack every living cell of the body like a poison gas.

In cases of snake bite, the purpose of any sort of local treatment which may be applied is to prevent the poison from getting into the general blood supply. If not prevented from doing so the poison is carried to every part of the body by the blood stream.

If the foot or hand has been bitten, a ligature of some sort should be tied tightly around the limb, being careful to have it above the wound, or between the wound and the heart. A torn strip of a shirt or handkerchief may be used. Or a string, shoe lace, necktie, a piece of rope, a wire, a piece of grapevine or a flexible switch, is good for the purpose. Whatever you use, tie is firmly, after which a stick should be inserted under the ligature and tightly twisted. This stops the circulation of the blood from the wounded limb.

Then suck out the poison and wash the wound with soap and water if available. No harm will come from sucking the wound if the mouth is healthy and without broken tissues. If access can be had to permanganate of potash crystals, these should be rubbed into the wound.

Keep the patient warm and administer small quantities of coffee to drink until the doctor arrives.

Various serums are used for snake bite, but these should only be used by a doctor. They may be had by telegraphing the New York Zoological Garden, or possibly gotten through your local board of health.

In the northern and eastern portions of the United States, snake bites are rarely fatal. If you should happen to be bitten by a snake, do not worry yourself into a fever of fear. Quick action with the local treatment immediately on being bitten, together with the use of a serum, make it probable you will have little trouble.

Oh, These Women

By LEOLA ALLARD

A lady writes me that a married man in her town is cheating. He plays golf and has lunch with a married woman, and he is forever "staying late at the office." She wonders if she hadn't better tell his wife, she being her best friend, and "not let him get away with such hypocrisy."

Now if that isn't a happy little job she has picked out for herself?

She asks me in answering, not to tell what town she writes from. You see, she herself doesn't enjoy being found out. The wife reads my column and she might suspect her, or worse yet, she might guess the truth and deprive this "best friend" of the joy of telling her.

What an idea! And what do you think you will accomplish by this gossip that you know will break your friend's heart, break up her home, ruin the other woman's home, crush her husband, and if there are any children in the picture, smash their ideals? Now isn't that something to wonder about? If you do all these things to all these people, somebody ought to do something to you. I can't think just what.

Robert Louis Stevenson wrote: "There was never anything made better by meddling." And you sound like a first class meddler. I don't think you mean it that way. I believe you must be a reformer, who wants the whole world to go straight and who thinks it's your duty to see that it does. You don't want any sins undiscovered. But did you ever sit down and think over your own sins? Would you want everybody to know everything about you? If you would, then you should be sitting on a cloud in a white robe and sandals, playing a harp.

Did it ever occur to you that perhaps in the homes of these people involved in this scandal, there is something very terrible that you don't know about? Something that has destroyed their happiness together? Perhaps if you don't mow them all down, they will change and their home happiness come back to them. Are you afraid they might get by without anybody finding out their sins? Did you ever get by with anything? Are you very strong in temptation, or are you so hard and cruel that people were never tempted to tempt you?

If you ever make the business of these people your business, and ruin them, I'd like to have you write me what happens. If there is a number or maybe two because of it, I take it you won't be one of those to be harmed.

STORIES OF SOUTH SEA ISLANDS TO FEATURE BIRTHDAY PARTY ON AIR

We Now Present

By ROY JANSEN

For Darrell V. Martin, Resting

There will be two birthday parties on the air tonight—not at the same time—so that all who wish can listen in to a great variety of enthusiastic entertainment. The Arco birthday party will be broadcast over WCAE at 9 o'clock, re-incarnating Herman Melville, author of "Moby Dick" and other thrilling tales of the South Sea Islands. Melville's adventures among the cannibals will be dramatized for radio audiences and John Moncrieff, distinguished basso, will also be heard. KQV plans to broadcast a two-and-a-half hour program, commencing at midnight, featuring Larry Drake and his 16-piece orchestra, with harmony singers, crooners, funny folks and other forms of entertainment.

A composer's impressions of his sojourn in Spain will comprise one of the numbers to be played tonight by Toscha Seidel, violinist, over WJAS from 10 to 10:30 o'clock. The Lalo Symphony, of which Seidel will play the first and second of the five movements, contains many tuneful sections and a number of quite brilliant bravura passages for the solo instrument.

Aunt Sammy, known to her friends as Marcella Deverson, left no forwarding address when she started on her vacation from the WJAS studio, and she intimated in no uncertain tones that she wanted to obtain absolute rest from microphones and dictaphones and telephones. "Forty Fathom" Owen, however, is very much about the studio, pinch-hitting here and doubling there, and doing whatever there seems to be needed during these vacation days.

Who ever heard of turtle-baiting?

And yet R. P. Griffith, market editor of KDKA station, returns from somewhere in the wooded section of Rhode Island with a brave tale about turtle-baiting, its thrills and dangers, its satisfactions and sorrows, its value as a study of reptile life and its healthful results (healthful for the baiter, not for the baited).

Some fine talent will be heard during the Maxwell House concert tonight, broadcast through KDKA at 9:30 o'clock on a nationwide network. Guest artists will include Elizabeth Sheridan, mezzo-soprano, whose husband, Frank Sheridan, is a distinguished concert pianist; Joe Venuti, violinist, and Eddie Lang, guitarist. Willard Robinson, youthful composer and singer, will direct the ensemble and present some interesting songs.

During the National Radio Forum from Washington, D. C., and broadcast through station WJAS at 10:30 o'clock, Seymour Lowman, assistant secretary of the treasury, will give an illuminating talk on "How America Guards Her Borders." Mr. Lowman is in charge of the United States Coast Guard and the Bureau of Customs and he has some vital facts on the business of protecting the far-flung borders of this country.

Darrell V. "Radio Rex" Martin has been heard from up around Emporium, which is about 20 miles east of Daguscahonda, and not very near Instanter. (It's on the map, folks). Darrell says he is having a fine vacation talking radio with Ben D. Erskine, vice president of the Radio Manufacturers' Association.

EAT AND DRINK WHAT YOU WANT WITHOUT FEAR OF ACID STOMACH

Excess Acid That Results From Overeating, Overindulging Easily Overcome By This New Scientific Formula

Super-Acidity (too much acid) in the stomach is the reason a large percentage of people suffer from stomach trouble. Depression, nervousness and sleeplessness are also usually caused by excess acidity and gas.

Nearly everything you do, everything you eat, everything you drink makes acid, which often results in sour stomach, gas, heavy lumps pressing above your stomach, nervousness, sleeplessness, colds and mental depression. Without the normal "alkaline reserve" you are almost sure to suffer from these troubles. If you do suffer, there is nothing which will help you like Acidine. Nothing that will make excess acid neutral so quickly, and keep it neutral so long, even far down into the intestines, where acid often causes pain and inflammation.

A well known physician says: "I am convinced that Acidine is an anti-acid of first rank. For those who are troubled with gas on the stomach, heaviness after eating, heartburn, belching, bloating, usually due to excess acidity, I generally prescribe Acidine."

CAPT. L. T. PEACOCKE,
133 W. 84th St., N. Y. C.

"I've suffered my last spell of sour stomach," says Captain Peacocke. "I found out that by taking Acidine three or four nights a week, I never have that uncertain feeling whether my meals are going to sit right, or make me miserable from the indigestion and gas I used to have so regularly."

If any readers of this paper have had or are having similar troubles, they can purchase Acidine at any drug store. No formula for overacidity surpasses Acidine. Its instantaneous action in clearing up the troubles that commonly lead to stomach distress are more pleasing than you ever dreamed possible. If it fails to clear up your distress, you should see your physician at once. Acidine is safe, harmless and pleasant. Used by millions of people. It is sold under a money-back guarantee that if it fails to help you, it costs you nothing.

"Dreams Do come true!"

"Boys and Girls, This Offers You a lifetime opportunity"

EARN A TOUR OF EUROPE OR A COLLEGE SCHOLARSHIP

For thirty years I have wanted to make this offer. From my own boyhood there remain vivid memories of bitter struggles for the advantages of education and travel. I have looked forward to the time when I might help worthy young people over the same rough spots, and this offer is the realization of that dream.

I hope every boy and girl in this land between the ages of 12 and 19 will learn about this plan. I believe it to be the most extensive educational and travel opportunity ever offered.

Next summer a happy crowd of boys and girls will receive from The Sparks-Withington Co., either a $750 College Scholarship or a tour of Europe with all expenses paid from the time they leave home until their return. My friends have prevailed upon me to conduct the tour personally. But this is not all. Every boy or girl who works for one of these awards will be paid for whatever success they have, regardless of whether or not they win a Scholarship or Tour.

The work will be interesting and easy. You will not be expected to sell anything. You will be under the personal guidance of a responsible business man in your own community, who will help you succeed. Throughout America hundreds of other boys and girls are doing the same simple work and enjoying it thoroughly. Your parents will be delighted to have you turn spare time into profit.

It costs you nothing to take advantage of this offer. It isn't a game where only a few win and others receive nothing. It is an opportunity for you ALL to work, to produce results, to earn money and to be rewarded in exact proportion to what you accomplish. In addition to the boys and girls from every section of the United States and Canada who win the Grand Awards of a College Scholarship or European Tour—every successful boy and girl will win cash. No effort will go unrepaid.

This offer ends April 15, 1931. Time is precious, so don't delay. The Sparton dealers listed below will give you full and complete information about this lifetime opportunity that I am offering you. Get in touch with them at once. Simply tell them that you want to know more about the Sparton Scholarship Award. They are expecting you and will furnish everything you need to start at once. Decide to enter right now.

W. E. Sparks

To the Parents of Young America

In making this offer I am gratifying an ambition I have held in my heart for many years. I only wish there could be no limit to the number of winners.

If my own two sons were between the ages of 12 and 19 years I would be proud to have them work for such a reward. The work itself, which promises immediate financial returns, will also help to develop character. Perhaps you, like myself, were denied the privilege of a college training or education by travel, so you can realize the fine advantages of my plan. Have your boy or girl send for the details, talk it over, and let's work together to teach them self-reliance, independence, and the power that lies within themselves to secure the best things the world has to offer.

WHY HITTING DIFFERS IN TWO LOOPS

THE FACT THAT American League games, as a rule, were being decided by smaller scores than those in the National brought from adherents of the younger loop recently the claim that the difference was due to superior pitching. They contended that the larger scores in the senior body were not to be blamed on the lively ball, but were an indication that the quality of the hurling in the National was below American League standards.

E. S. Barnhard

These claims, of course, received little attention from experienced baseball followers, who know that the pitchers of the two big girdles, taken on the whole, are practically on an equal footing. That they were taking the right attitude is indicated now by the development that the more effective pitching and the smaller scores in the American League have been due to nothing more than the fact that the umpires, on orders from President E. S. Barnard, are keeping old baseballs in play longer than is the policy in the National.

TOMMY CONNOLLY and George Moriarty, veterans of the American League staff, admitted this to be true when the opinion was expressed to them that they were using fewer balls daily than in previous seasons. They said that President Barnard had ordered the league arbiters to be less hasty than in the past in taking out an old ball and throwing in a new one.

A ball is no longer thrown out on account of a mere discoloration, as formerly. No change is made unless a sphere has become so scuffed on one side as to enable the pitchers to throw "sailers." If it is scuffed on both sides, thus killing the "sailer" possibilities, it is allowed to stay in. With roughened balls kept in play, the pitchers can get a better grip on the pills and are consequently able to do more effective work than is possible when they are compelled to hurl new smooth balls almost constantly. All of which partly explains the so-called "superior" pitching in the American and the higher batting averages of clubs and individuals in the Natonal.

IN THESE DAYS of pampered ball players, when many a big leaguer hastens to seek a rest on account of a trifling injury which old-timers would have scorned to notice, it is refreshing to find a diamond athlete as willing to work under a handicap as is Al Bool, Pirate catcher.

Though six stitches were required to close a gash that was opened in his head when he was struck with a bat in Tuesday's game, Bool insisted on catching yesterday and declares he will be in there every day while Ralston Hemsley is incapacitated, saving Manager Ens from the necessity of pressing Coach Oscar Stanage into ser ce behind the bat.

Al Bool

BOOL'S CATCHING, TOO, is in keeping with his fine spirit. He is turning n a mighty good job of backstopping as well as doing his share on the offensive under difficulties, and his all-around work and constant hustling played a big part in the Buccaneers' victories over the Cardinals Tuesday and yesterday. The Baltimore recruit has been a valuable man to the Rovers. He is always hustling and giving his best, and in addition to his defensive service contributes an offensive punch that has helped to win a number of ball games.

THINGS / E GOING from bad to worse for the poor old Phils. Far from showing any signs of getting out, they are only sinking deeper into the cellar. They set a new major league defeat record for the season when they dropped two games to the Robins yesterday, as the double defeat stretched their losing streak to 11 straight, beating the previous mark of 10 in a row, charged against the Reds.

It all goes to show that itting power alone will never get a club anywhere. Here are the Phils with the lofty club hitting average of .328, the highest in either of t major leagues, yet they have lost more than twice as many games as they have won, and are in a fair way to lose more than 100 souts for the season. It takes pitching, as well as base hits, to win games, and the Phils haven't got it.

SHOWING THAT THEY are serious in their announced plan to

MATHIESON, BROIDA WIN NET TITLES

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN.

Frank Broida, slim Harvard star and Pittsburgh Public Park champion, yesterday afternoon added the Pittsburgh Center Junior title to his list of laurels by virtue of final victory over Jack Redmond, City High School and Highland Park premier, in a hotly contested four-set fray on the Carnegie Tech gallery court. The engagement was a battle of southpaws in which the victor was forced to forage to the limit for his 8-10, 6-3, 6-1, 7-5 triumph.

In the Boys' division, Harold Mathieson, husky Koppel youngster, captured ultimate laurels at the expense of Robert Entwistle, East End lad, in a nicely played 6-2, 6-1 affair. By virtue of their wins, Broida and Mathieson merit trips to the National Junior and Boys' championships at Culver Military Academy, Culver, Ind., the week of August 11.

GO TO CULVER

It is the annual custom of the Pittsburgh Tennis Association to send the local Center Junior and Boys' champs to the Nationals and this year, with the racquet sport so strongly on the boom here, will be no exception. The triumphant youths thus join a lengthy line of illustrious predecessors, including Chuck Garland, who copped the National Junior crown in 1918; Dave O'Loughlin, who la ded the National Boys' flag in 1922; John O'Loughlin, Billy Ramsay, Byron Baur, Billy O'Loughlin and Wally Arensberg.

The Broida-Redmond fracas opened with Broida stepping off to an apparently commanding 1 1 as Redmond, forsaking his usually effective net attack, elected to remain on the baseline and exchange drives with the har'-hitting Crimson kid. Bot.i seemed EXPLANATIONS OF RIPLEY'S CARTOONS OF YESTERDAY: THE TOMB OF LORD BYRON'S DOG "BOATSWAIN"—Lord Byron is buried at Hucknall Forkard, near the Newstead Abbey. His final resting place is marked by a plain Grecian tablet, while "Boatswain," his Newfoundland dog, is buried in the Garden of the Abbey and the spot is marked by an elaborate monument and very affectionate epitaph from the pen of the great poet. THE STARFISH EATS OYSTERS—The starfish are very destructive to oysters. They accomplish the apparently impossible by attaching their "arms" to the valves of the oyster, and, by relentless and continuous strain, force them open. The soft body is then enwrapped by the starfish and slowly sucked through.

Victors in their last four battles, the Pirates today were slated to wind up their series with the Redbirds, than whom there is no "softer" foemen in the league for the Ensmen. The Freebooters will leave tonight for Chicago, where they will try to make things miserable for the National League champions in three diamond fights, beginning tomorrow.

Manager Ens stated this morning that Larry French would be on the mound this afternoon in the finale with the Cardinals. It is altogether probable that the Buccos will be called upon to face the spitball served by their old bunkmate, Burleigh Grimes. Either Burleigh or Southpaw Bill Hallahan will grace Fogarty Knoll for the St. Louis team.

GRIMES MAY HURL

Grimes turned the Pirates back when he faced them in St. Louis several weeks ago. At that time he showed much of his typical skill and cleverness. However, the Pirates are a different club with Lloyd Waner in the lineup and Burleigh, therefore, will have to step on the gas if he is to register another success.

The Oaklanders duplicated their feat of the previous afternoon when they trimmed the Cardinals, 6 to 5, yesterday. On both occasions it was up to the home players to come from behind at the

HITTING ACES ADD TO HOME RUN CROP

Associated Press.

In 1919 Babe Ruth opened the era of lively baseball by hitting 29 home runs.

Five players, still led by the Babe, already have reached that mark of 29 homers this year, with only about two-thirds of the season past. Ruth is even ahead of his greatest year, 1927, when he raised the home run record to 60, while Lou Gehrig and Hack Wilson are only a game or two behind that pace. Where only six major leaguers hit 10 homers in 1919, 30 have done that well so far, while eight four-baggers in a dull day yesterday, brought the major league total up to 1,050, more than double the number hit by the two leagues in the whole of the 1919 season.

LOU HITS ANOTHER

Gehrig was the only leader in the slugging brigade to hit a homer yesterday, and he picked a highly appropriate moment to connect. The homer came in the tenth inning of the Yankees' first game against the Boston Red Sox and turned a 2-2 pitching battle between Herb Pennock and Milton Gaston into a rout. Lou's clout accounted for three runs, and with the aid of a homer by Harry Rice, the Yankees made six runs in that inning for an 8 to 2 victory. They continued their slugging through the second game, while George Pipgras held the Sox in check to win by a 10 to 1 count.

The double victory gave the Yankees a bit of an edge on their leading rivals, as the Philadelphia Athletics defeated Washington, 7 to 4. The Yanks now are only 2½ games behind the second place Senators, who in turn are seven games back of the A's. Pitching figured largely in this game, as in the other American League contests.

GROVE HOLDS NATS

Bob Grove held the Senators in check, while four Washington hurlers proved ineffective, although the teams got the same number of hits, 10. At Cleveland, Earl Whitehill's relief hurling kept the Indians from overcoming an early Detroit lead, although they had a 14-9 margin in the hitting, and the Tigers won, 6 to 5.

Wally Stewart and George Blaeholder each pitched a nice game for St. Louis against Chicago, and the Browns won the first by means of unearned runs, 3 to 2, in 10 innings, and the second, 6 to 1. The Sox made seven errors in the first contest.

The Brooklyn Robins showed the way to National League in home run hitting as well as in the standings yesterday as they improved their position with a double victory over Philadelphia. Glenn Wright and Harvey Hendrick hit four-baggers in the second game, which Brooklyn won, 9 to 5, while Frank O'Doul, another of the many who have clouted more than 10 homers this season, hit his thirteenth in the first game.

FITZSIMMONS STARS

Fred Fitzsimmons also hit a home run and it made a hero of him despite the frequency with which pitchers have been clouting homers this season. The homer clinched a rather doubtful dispute between the New York Giants and Boston Braves, giving New York a 5-to-2 victory.

A timely single was all that was needed to give Pittsburgh its second 6 to 5 victory over St. Louis. Dick Bartell made the hit in the eighth inning to complete the Pirates' late rush which brought five runs in the seventh and eighth frames.

Fight Results

At Newark, N. J.—Mickey Walker, world middleweight champion, knocked out Willie Oster, 2 rounds; [illegible] and Howard Bell bout declared no-contest, 3 rounds; *Bert Eisner defeated Carmen Faith, 6 rounds.

At New York—Tuffy Griffiths won by a technical knockout over Tom Heeney, 6 rounds; Jack Webb knocked out [illegible], 4 rounds; Chester Matan defeated Frank DeAngelo, 4 rounds; Milton Hunter knocked out Joe Johnson, 4 rounds; Abe Lipschitz defeated Wilbur Robinson, 3 rounds; Buster Maitlan defeated Eric Holberg, 3 rounds; Nelson Gaunce defeated Joe Mack, 3 rounds; Mike Gelb defeated Frankie MacGuire, 6 rounds; Norman Tomasulo defeated Patsy Corti, 6 rounds.

At Newark, O.—Nandi Smith defeated [illegible] Ballenger, 10 rounds; Homer Ronan and Fred Hill drew, 6 rounds; Joe Barnes defeated Ray Ganshaw, 8 rounds; Joe McNamara knocked out Jack Majors, one round; Young Dodson and Kid Payne drew, 4 rounds.

Nick Altrock Says:

WASHINGTON, July 31.—To protect unfortified umpires and visiting players, they will hereafter serve soda pop in paper cups at the Brooklyn ball park. Brooklyn is the only town in the circuit where an umpire is liable to be killed from jerking his thumb the wrong way. If those Robins don't win the pennant, I wouldn't be surprised to see Flatbush secede from the union and join Soviet Russia. They sure take their baseball seriously in a town where sarsaparilla bottles are sold for shrapnel and hard-boiled eggs are hand grenades. Personally, I don't mind umpires being knocked off, but I like to kill 'em with dirty looks."

cautious, but it was not long ere the superior pace of Broida began to tell, for he edged into a 3-0 lead. Redmond dropping service in the second game.

Games then followed service to the 5-3 stage, when Broida faltered to permit the Highlander to deadlock the going at 5-all. Then again service prevailed, this time till 8-8 had been reached, at which juncture Redmond broke through on Broida's game and bagged his own to annex the set, 10-8.

BROIDA RALLIES

Broida cracked enemy service in the fourth game of the second set. The two next games also went against delivery till Broida led at 4-2, after which service was sustained by both parties through the remainder of the set, which Broida grabbed off, 6-3. The initial pair of games of the third set saw service reversed for 1-1, whereupon Redmond lapsed to let five games in a row get away from him as Broida took a 6-1 margin.

Three sparkling placements by Redmond crushed Broida's service at love to start stanza four. Jack likewise nailed his own game and led at 2-1 as service held in the third and fourth. Here, however, Broida spurted to a tie at 3-3 and service further prevailed to 5-5, Broida gobbling game nine at love and Redmond slashing off three dazzling smashes to nab number 10 at 4-30. Broida snatched service after one deuce for 6-5 and then, accelerating the pace to hustle home, tore off two placements to romp out at 7-5.

MATHIESON STRONG

Mathieson carried too many guns for the slow-driving Entwistle in the Boys' event. Getting away over-safely and consequently being guilty of falling into the enemy's style, the Koppel boy soon sped up, and thence onward there was little question of the outcome.

Broida was a bit below par in the Junior semi-finals, in which he had difficulty with Jack Herrmann, rangy Shady Sider, who had earlier eliminated Maurice Saperstein, Bridgeville entrant, in a tough three-setter. Herrmann's ground strokes were unusually good against Broida and he made his powerful service and overhead count heavily. Redmond had a hectic time of it disposing of Harry Wald, Pitt netman, 4-6, 6-3, 6-2, in the lower penultimate contest. Wald's steadiness off the ground disconcerted the barrier-seeking Redmond.

The summary:

JUNIOR SINGLES.

Final round: Frank Broida defeated Jack Redmond, 8-10, 6-3, 6-1, 7-5.

Victor Volo, Symbol Rose and John Drew were other victors. All three lost their first heats, but came back to win in extra sessions.

I suppose you have seen cartoons that must have pictured us faithfully . . . . There was a small, gaudy horse on rollers that I would have sold my life to get. It was dapple gray and had a yellow saddle on it, I remember . . . . I guess we were looking pretty longingly at the things, because a man came along and took pity on us and asked us if we'd like to have some of the things in the window . . . . Did we? Well, the thought was so overpowering that we couldn't speak, so he took us inside and loaded us down with candy and toys and sent us galloping home in joy. And I got the horse! . . . . When I grew older, it used to almost break my heart to see other poor kids standing in front of toy store windows that way. I knew how they felt, so when I got to making money I tried to do my bit toward making the world a little brighter place for them . . . . The man who saw to it that I got that dapple gray horse with the rollers and a yellow saddle was my first real Santa Claus, and the least I can do now is to be one of Sana Claus' helpers."—HARRY KECK.

COACH NAMED

WELLSBURG, W. Va., July 31.—(AP.)—Louis J. Kolopus, former football player at West Virginia Wesleyan, yesterday was named coach of athletics at Wellsburg High School. He succeeds Fred Weihl, who will go to Weston High School.

FORMER RACER DEAD

DOUBLE WINDUP AT MILLVALE TONIGHT

Battling Gizzy, of Donora, and Ray Collins, of Erie, favorites with the fans, are in the top 10-rounder, and Young Saylor, welterweight veteran, of Charleroi, meets Billy Brent, young Negro, of the Hill, and formerly of Chicago, in the other 10-rounder.

U. S. Carpentier, of New Kensington, and Billy Scholes, of the North Side, box the second bout of six rounds, and Don Frazier, of the Hill, and Joey Angelo, of Braddock, open the show at 8:45 p. m.

Between Rounds

The card has been completed for next Monday night's show in the Meyers Bowl, North Braddock, with the signing of Frankie Challerton, of Cleveland, and Eddie Brannon, of the Hill, for the eight-round semi-final. Joe Lauder, of the South Hills, and Jerry Kucera, of Brentwood, are in the second bout, and Georgie Tomosky, of Turtle Creek, and Billy Campbell, of the South Side, in the opener. Tony Herrera, of Chicago, and Jackie Pilkington, of New York, are in the main event.

Babe (Young) Amos, formerly of New Kensington, now of Syracuse, N. Y., where he is a stablemate of Jackie Brady, is back home in New Kensington visiting with friends and plans to stay around here if he can get enough work to keep him busy. He is a 138-40-pounder and recently beat Johnny Smackey at Johnstown. Jock McDonald, who looks after Amos' business in these parts, may be reached by calling New Kensington 9818.

All seats will go at 50 cents for the final night of milling in the Golden Gloves amateur tournament at the Meyers Bowl tomorrow night. All of the champions will be crowned on this occasion. The tournament preliminaries were staged last Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights. The American Legion Post No. 99, of Braddock, North Braddock and Rankin, is behind the show.

The Ernie Schaaf-Johnny Risko bout, postponed from last Monday night and rescheduled for next Monday at the Sesqui Stadium in Philadelphia, has been canceled because of lack of interest. The promoters claim they faced a loss of $15,000 if they were to go through with the show.

Primo Carnera and Bombo Chevalier will meet in a return bout in Chicago August 14—if the Primo still is allowed in this country at that time.

FOWNES' 71 TOPS FIELD

By VERN SWARTSFAGER.

Old Man Par escaped with a single walloping yesterday as a record field of 372 amateur golfers competed in the one-day tournament of the Pennsylvania Golf Association over the Oakmont Country Club layout. The single par besting was recorded by the veteran W. C. Fownes, Jr., who topped the field with a card of 71-1—70 to cop the low gross laurels.

Maurice LeBosquet, of Highland, finished in second place with a 72-3—69, his gross score equalling par figures. Three were tied for third position, H. C. Fownes II, Greer McIlvain and Jim Ramsay turning in cards of 75.

The low net honor was won by Bert Cunningham, of South Hills, who had a 91-28—63. B. J. Jarrett, of the Feld Club, was second with 79-11—68.

In the match play contest against par, under seven-eighths handicaps, Jarrett and his partner, W. L. McQuillan, finished 10 up. D. E. McGraw and C. L. Jones, of Oakmont, were second, 9 up.

Today the members of the Valley Heights Country Club are celebrating Boosters' Day, and a red and blue match is marking the golf activity. A dinner this evening will follow the links play. Ben Loeffler is in charge d'affairs.

Last night a big crowd gathered at the Bob-O-Link driving range, in the Freeport Road, Aspinwall, to see the opening of the course for night play. Twenty-six high powered lights have been installed, and one could follow the flight of the ball better at night than in the day-time.

SUMMA SOLD

PORTLAND, ORE., July 31—Outfielder Homer Summa has been sold to the Philadelphia Athletics.

Cards Drop Nine Games on Trip By Run

If nearly winning games counted anything in the National League standings, the St. Louis Cardinals would be nearer the top of the heap than fourth.

Of 13 defeats suffered by the St. Louis club on its present road trip nine of the games have been lost by one run. The Cards dropped 13 while winning 7 of the first 20 games since leaving the home field July 11.

Boston and Pittsburgh each have beaten the Cardinals three times by one run margins. Brooklyn has won two from Gabby Street's men by single tallies, while the Giants took the other game.

FAIRIES GET M.-A. LEAD

Fairmont pounded its way to the top in the second half race in the Mid-Atlantic League yesterday, defeating Scottdale, 9 to 1, and shoving the Scotties from first to third place. Spencer kept Scottdale's seven hits well scattered.

At Clarksburg the Generals made it three in a row over Wheeling, defeating the Stogies, 11 to 4.

Cumberland rallied in the fourth and fifth innings to defeat Johnstown, 6 to 5, at Cumberland. Pritchard, Byard and Clancy hit homers.

Brown Jack Wins Goodwood Cup Race

T. Richard's Jugo was second, and F. Dennis' Fairy Prince was third.

Brown Jack won by a length, while there were five lengths between second and third. Five ran.

The betting was 4 to 9, 13 to 2 and 33 to 1. The stakes were a sweep of £20 each, with £1,000 added. The distance was 2 miles 5 furlongs.

Former Grid Star Sues for Injuries

SCRANTON, Pa., July 31.—(AP.)—Claiming that injuries he suffered in an automobile accident here in April 1929, caused him permanent body and facial wounds and caused him to give up his college career, Walter Opekun, former football star at the University of Pennsylvania, has filed suit for $10,000 damages against Louis Weiss, of Jessup.

Opekun avers that while a passenger in Weiss' automobile the car collided with another car and seriously injured him. Opekun's home is in Jessup.

Three big games in the Central League feature this evening's sandlot program. The Jimmy Cosletts, headed by Jock Colette, will invade Arlington Park to do battle with the Beckman Motors. Manager Lutton expects to cop this game.

A real fight will be staged at Hartman Park, Paulson avenue, when Pickles sends the Fintex nine against the Lincoln Civics. The Fintex aggregation is out in front in the second half with good fielding and powerful hitting. The Civics have a snappy fighting team that will give the Clothes boys quite a battle. The third game finds Johnny Hornyak taking the Soho Traders to Magee Field to meet Y. M. H. A.

WHITAKER AT VERONA

In the West Penn League, Whitaker goes to Verona to meet Bill Bright's outfit. Whitaker is playing a great brand of baseball and should extend the Community nine.

Two games are listed in the Commercial and Industrial circuit. Dravo is scheduled to travel to Camp Horne, and the other game finds the B. & O. Railroad nine hooking up with Reick-McJunkins.

Only one game is carded in the Steel City loop. The Doelfels will meet the Hale Club at Turtle Creek. This game will be played at the Union High School grounds.

Three games will be played in the City League. Pleasant Valley does its stuff at Stowe Field, opposing the Civics. Homewood goes to the North Side to meet the Civics at the Salt Works, and Book Shoe will strut its stuff at Dean Field, opposing the J. L. Thomas nine.

CUMMINGS AT W. O. W.

Manager Jedinak of the W. O. W. team admitted last evening that Jack Cummings had come down from Altoona to sign a contract to play with the Wows in the City League.

Bunts

Many pitchers are complaining bitterly regarding the pitching mounds on the local sandlots. Mosholi could not locate the plate last evening against the Book Shoe Bosemen, and stated after Schmidt had relieved him that it was impossible to pitch off that rubber. That one and the one at Dean field certainly look bad.

Mike Jedinak was complaining about the poor collection. The W. O. W. manager estimated the crowd at 3,000 and was about right and when the collectors turned in the evening's work it was around $25. It might as well be stated right now, the Ross fans are not going to see City League baseball very long, if they don't kick in better.

The Dom Mazzie Club of the Western division of the Steel City League has changed its name to the Hill Top Triangles. The club stands in first place in the loop and wants to book games with first class clubs in the district. Managers wishing to book this attraction should call Joe Renner at Lafayette 6900-J.

One game will be staged in the Greater Pittsburgh Eliminations this evening. This will find the Sewickley Y. M. C. A. clashing with the Wilmerding club at the Commons Field at 6:30. Sewickley has a good club and a real battle should be waged.

GREENE COUNTIANS WIN

WAYNESBURG, Pa., July 31.—Golfers of the Greene County Country Club defeated those from the Washington Country Club yesterday, 47½ to 42½, in a match played over the local links.

Long's Sport Comment

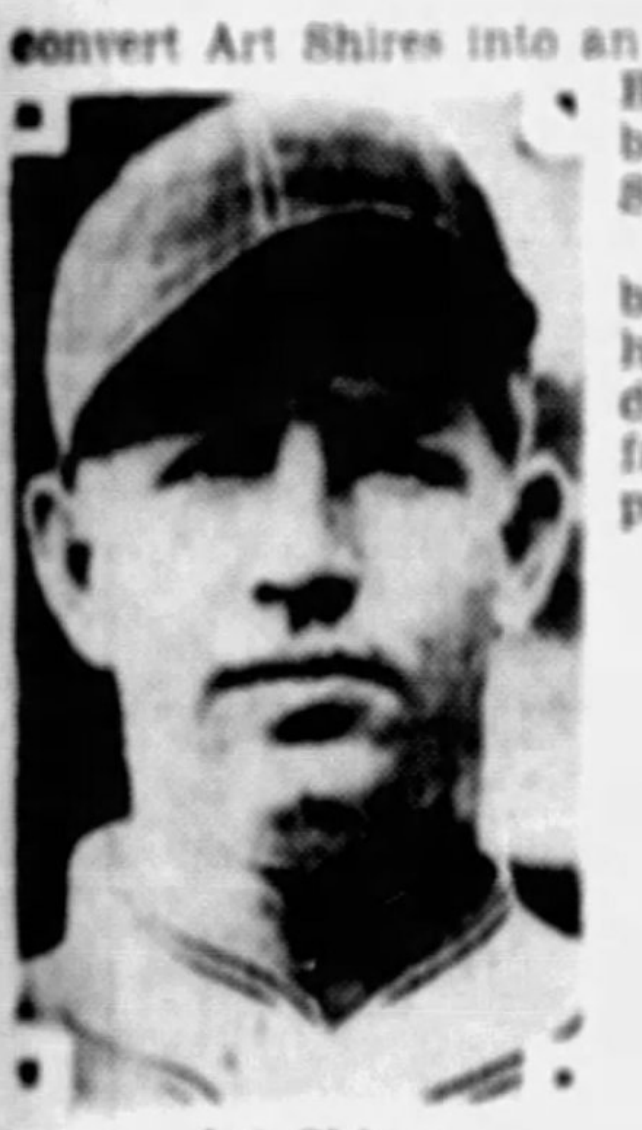
convert Art Shires into an outfielder, following the purchase of First Baseman Joe Kuhel from Kansas City, the bosses of the Washington club have started Shires at daily practice in the gardens.



Art Shires

Success for Shires in his new role is not beyond the bounds of possibility. He can hit, run and throw, has loads of fight and determination, and in a general sense is a far better ball player than he has been popularly rated as being.

HOWEVER, IT ISN'T likely that any changes the Washington management may make will be of much help to the Senators as far as this year's pennant is concerned. The A's already are pretty close to being in. They took another step flagward by defeating their closest rivals yesterday, and if the White Elephants only break even in their remaining 52 games the Senators will be required to win 36 of their remaining 56 contests, or .643 ball, to beat them out. Yesterday's win, by the way, put the A's on even terms with the Senators for the season in their hand-to-hand conflicts, each club having beaten the other seven times. In their first eight meetings, the Senators beat the Macks seven times in a row after losing the opening clash, but since then the world champions have trounced them six times in succession.

THE PLACE OF Gallant Fox in racing is the subject of many discussions and arguments among turfmen, and in spite of the sensational success of William Woodward's star horse this season some of the veterans refuse to rank him with Man o' War, Sysonby and others of the past. One declares that Roamer at his best would lose him, and another asserts that last year Distraction had a better "figure."

Comparing horses of different years and different racing eras, under changing conditions, is futile. Comparative time records do not tell everything, as one horse may have been pressed hard in a certain race while another was not in a later year. The fact that Gallant Fox has been good enough to win six big races in a row should be enough to entitle him to a place among the best. Nobody knows the limit of his possibilities.

NOT IN A long time have fight followers found it harder to pick a probable winner than in the case of the coming bout between Kid Chocolate and Jack (Kid) Berg, which is scheduled for one week from tonight at the Polo Grounds in New York.

Chocolate has never been defeated, and probably the majority of fans will lean to the belief that he will keep his record clean on this occasion by reason of the possibility that Berg may be weakened in making 134½ pounds.

Jack (Kid) Berg

ONE VETERAN WHO takes the opposite view and picks Berg to win is Billy McCarney. "Berg will punch the ears off Chocolate," McCarney predicts. "The Kid will never get started. I've looked at a lot of fighters in my time, but I've never seen another as busy as Berg while in the ring, never have seen a fellow who made it so hard for the other bird to get going. Clever boxers have no luck with him. Look what he did to Tony Canzoneri. Berg is not much of a puncher, but he can hit an opponent with more different blows than any other fighter I ever saw. I never knew of any one who could go at the pace he sets. Fellows like Harry Greb and Ace Hudkins could step, but they had to slow down and coast a little every now and then. Berg never lets down for a second. Chocolate is a sweet boxer, but he'll never get started against the Englishman. Chocolate has made other fellows fight his way. In this bout he'll have to fight Berg's way. And he won't like it."

ERIE LEGION NINE WINS

Nerve Exhaustion Undermines Health

I aim to restore the health and vigor to weak, sick, unbalanced nerves. To regenerate lost nerve energy, to build up strong, sound nerves, requires an understanding of the action and abuses of nerves. It needs a knowledge of the natural laws of nerve fatigue, of mental and physical relaxation, and nerve metabolism. And it is only through application of these laws that stubborn cases of Nerve Exhaustion can be overcome. These signs of nerve exhaustion are produced as a result of worries, intense concentration, loss of sleep and other causes. The mad pace at which we are traveling is wrecking the entire Nervous Organization of people.

EDITH CROSS BEATEN IN NET EVENT

SEABRIGHT, N. J., July 31.—(INS.)—Another startling upset disturbed the calm of the Seabright Lawn Tennis and Cricket Club's invitation tennis tournament here today as the women's singles progressed into the final round.

Edith Cross, the San Francisco girl who ranks No. 3 in the national listing, and who was a member of the Wightman cup squad which lost to England last month, lost in straight sets to Josephine Cruickshank, of Los Angeles, No. 10 ranking player, in the upper semi-final. The scores were: 6-2, 6-3.

In the other semi-final match Mrs. Lawrence Harper, of San Francisco, No. 5 in the national ranking, defeated Virginia Hilleary, Philadelphia champion, 6-0, 6-2.

finish and this they were able to do.

Dick Bartell was the real hero of yesterday's scrap, for it was Richard the Lionhearted who drove in the tieing and winning tallies in the eighth a moment after he had kissed the dirt in order to get out of the way of one of Jess Haines' fast pitches.

RALLY IN EIGHTH

The Buccos rode into the eighth with a two-run deficit. With one out, Grantham singled, Comorosky walked and Traynor singled. One run was over and two others were on third and second when Bartell came up. Haines was letting fly with both barrels to try to hold back the home attack. His first pitch to Bartell was a foul tip, and the next one was close to Dick's head. As the shortstop fell to get out of the way of the pitch, the ball tipped his bat and he was in the two-strikes-and-nothing predicament.

Haines' next pitch apparently was meant to be a third strike on the outside corner, but Bartell had his bat cocked. Instead of being unnerved, the spunky little infielder slapped a little hit out over second and Comorosky and Traynor rode over with the important runs.

Ervin Brame and Haines worked the entire battle and what a fight it was! A rare game, sure enough, in many ways. If you look at the box score you will note that the same nine men who started for each side were a part of the fight when the curtain fell on the scrap.

FISHER HITS HOMER

The Pirates had the bases loaded with one out in the second, but could score only one run. Brame worked five shutout rounds before the Cardinals broke through his clever defense. The Redbirds made three tallies in the sixth, a homer into the rightfield stands by George Fisher being the best belt of the contest.

The Redbirds came back with two more in the seventh and were four in front of the Oaklanders. The Buccos were helpless before Haines from the second to the seventh, but they started to step out in the seventh. This round brought two runs and they put the game away by their rally of the eighth.

TUFFY STOPS TOM HEENEY IN TENTH

Heeney, nearing the end of a career that reached its height two years ago in an unsuccessful duel with Gene Tunney for the heavyweight title, fought gallantly to stave off the rush of the husky youngster and did fairly well until the ninth. A right to the chin that almost drove Griffiths through the ropes in the first round gave Heeney an edge in that session and a fierce rally gave old Tom the eighth round.

ARMOUR WINS CANUCK OPEN

ANCASTER, Ontario, July 31.—(AP.)—Tommy Armour, great Scotch stylist, yesterday won the open golf championship of Canada by defeating Leo Diegel, unorthodox American pro, 138 strokes to 141, in a 36-hole playoff for the title.

In the championship proper at 72 holes, last week, the two pros tied with scores of 277, Armour turning in a sensational 64 on his last round to 67 for Diegel.

The scoring yesterday was higher, Armour making the two rounds in 69 each, a stroke under par for each 18, while Diegel, after keeping pace with his friend in the morning, slumped to 72, two over par, in the afternoon.

Diegel won the championship last year with a great 274, and Armour was the runner-up, two strokes behind.

Tacoma, Capital of Lumber, Busy as Furniture Making Center

By B. C. FORBES

IN THE WEST, July 31.—Is business stagnant everywhere? Read this: Industrial power demands in Tacoma have increased 25 per cent within the last year.

"THE LUMBER capital of the world," as Tacoma is called, has become an important furniture manufacturing center, a very natural development. Recently a local plant completely equipped a New York hotel with home-made furniture. Manager Stevenson, of the Tacoma Chamber of Commerce, told me:

Mr. Forbes

"Fifteen hundred retail furniture dealers have just been in Tacoma attending the Pacific Northwest Furniture Exposition to make purchases in anticipation of healthy fall business. Fifty-two furniture manufacturers are displaying in the huge exposition everything from lamp shades to gorgeous overstuffed furniture, all Coast manufactured.

"Some of America's finest furniture is manufactured on Puget Sound. One Tacoma plant imports hardwood from Australia, fauxsatine zebra wood from the Trader Horn district of Africa, Ceylano wood from South Sea Islands, redwood burl from California, decorative wood from Germany and Switzerland, and at the same time is using alder and maple, grown locally. Tacoma furniture is a world-wide business. Nineteen plants give us prestige as the furniture capital of the Northwest.

"Eastern industries have invested over six million dollars in Tacoma within two years. The Stregis Paper Company of New York has a $2,500,000 plant, the Hooker Electro Chemical Company of New York has just completed a $2,000,000 plant, the Pennsylvania Salt Company of Philadelphia recently finished a $1,000,000 plant."

IT ISN'T OFTEN one sees or hears of a novel species of enterprise. Three have just been brought to my notice. One is a rabbit-raising farm, maintained, not to produce food for the table, but fur for milady's adornment. With a little imagination, what "literature" an enterprising press agent could turn out picturing the growth of this venture.

Next: Vegetable-Skinning Processes Company, Inc., is a corporation that owns and controls a patented process and chemical formula that removes the outside skin of fruits and vegetables quickly and at very small cost. This process preserves the original flavor and the mineral values just under the outside skin. A sample shows they skin thin, all right.

Leading capitalists along the Pacific have furnished several millions to build and equip the first big mill, near Portland, and the intention is to expand indefinitely. The directors include Herbert Fleishhacker, leading San Francisco banker; E. B. King, San Francisco; Lee A. Phillips, Los Angeles; Charles E. Dant, Kenneth Dawson, Franklin T. Griffith, Charles A. Shea, A. E. Millington, F. A. Nitchy, A. J. Lewthwaite, of Portland; H. F. McCormick, C. A. Millington, St. Helen; John S. Baker, Tacoma; Stanley S. Anderson, Beverly Hills, and William B. Dean, Chico.

What is the product? What is the process?

Briefly: Waste from lumber mills, chopped up, goes in at one end of the factory, is reduced to a pulp, goes through gigantic machines similar to paper-making machines, is processed into thick sheets, rolled in such a way that it acquires the strength of lumber, cut into any size desired—and forms a building material possessing amazing insulation qualities. The claims made for its multifarious merits sound incredible, but they are sponsored by men of the highest reputation.

THE SUPPLY of lumber mill waste, heretofore worse than useless, inasmuch as it cost money to destroy it, is practically unlimited in Oregon, Washington, British Columbia. It can be transported cheaply, the manufacturing process (apart from the very machinery) is extremely inexpensive, the product is extraordinarily light, its potential uses are described as virtually countless, and a price is being fixed to make it easy to sell on a large scale.

After one visits the first hundred thousand plants North, South, East and West, the second hundred thousand yield little thrill, but here was a unique creation of real interest, a new-born industrial baby that promises to develop into a national giant, international in its reach.

YOUNG SCORES BANKS' FAILURE TO CO-OPERATE

Federal Reserve Head Criticizes Members in Market Crash Inactivity

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER.

NEW YORK, July 31.—Roy A. Young, governor of the Federal Reserve Board, has emerged as the most significant and most colorful personality now in the system. His latest move is to criticize member bankers for failing to cooperate before the crash of the bull markets in putting down the brakes on excessive speculation.

Mr. Rukeyser

Gov. Young insists that bankers should look beyond the safety of individual collateral loans to broader questions of national economic policy. If bankers were to take a broader view of their responsibilities, Mr. Young, who learned the banking business in Minneapolis, believes that business and finance could be stabilized.

In setting forth his viewpoint, Gov. Young pointed out, in the Whitney Banks Observer, New Orleans:

"A bank may know that its security loans are perfectly safe and can be liquidated at any time, yet it may recognize that too rapid growth in these loans endangers the stability of the nation's business. The bank itself may not be extending loans to the market for its own account, but may be the agent for correspondents, banks and others who may be pouring funds in dangerous volume into the market. A bank may not be indebted to reserve bank except occasionally and for short periods, but it may be a purchaser of federal funds from other banks, and may be aware that in the aggregate there is a diversion of reserve bank credit to speculative uses.

WARNS OF LOANS

"Brokers' loans, and security loans in general, are safe only because there is an instant market for the collateral; large sales of the collateral, though they may not impair the solvency of a particular bank, result in a drop in value of the collateral back of more than one-half of the bank credit outstanding in this country; and there is no telling when such a drop may terminate and remember also that resources of the Federal Reserve System are not inexhaustible; that another three weeks like those last autumn may come when these resources will be more nearly used up, and that absolute security and confidence can be obtained only by so conducting financial affairs of the nation as to prevent violent expansions and contractions rather than merely to alleviate their consequences.

"We bankers have a responsibility beyond our own balance sheets for the general course of events; we must look beyond the safety of collateral offered us for a loan to the safety of the aggregate volume of collateral we know is being offered for loans at all banks; when we see an unhealthy development getting under way we must not only protect our own immediate situation, but must take a broader view and act with reference to the interest of the entire community.

SHARE IN LOSSES

"When a collapse occurs we all suffer in loss of business, even though we may not have to write off large losses on account of bad loans. The banker profits from general prosperity and suffers from general depression, and can, therefore, reconcile a course of action taken with a view to preservation of general business stability with the utmost hard-boiled attitude toward life that some of us like to boast of in public."

Gov. Young is in a good position to draw a moral concerning the collapse, for he and his associates on the Federal Reserve Board warned the public many months before the panic of the danger of current speculative excesses. Mr. Young now points to the dangers of selfish, particularistic banking, as opposed to banking in the interest of the broader community. Of course, the failure of the Federal Reserve restrictive policy resulted not so much from the lack of co-operation of bankers, especially of large city bankers, as from the loans made by non-banking bootleg lenders who rushed into the market to take advantage of high interest rates. Mr. Young indicated that the banks should not have acted as agents for such bootleg loans in unlimited amounts.

The largest bank in the world, the Chase National Bank of New York, has five bank presidents in its employ. It acquired the surplus as a series of mergers. In officially ranking these men, the Chase house organ says:

"The enlarged Chase National Bank continues under the leadership of Albert H. Wiggin as chairman of the governing board. John McHugh continues as chairman of the executive committee. Charles S. McCain, formerly president of the bank, is chairman of the board of directors, and Robert L. Clarkson remains vice chairman of the board of directors. Our new president is Winthrop W. Aldrich, formerly president of the Equitable Trust Company."

NEW YORK BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, July 31.—(AP.)—In contrast with the wide irregularity of bonds yesterday, today's trading brought some improvement in the trend, particularly in the domestic department.

Small gains were registered by an assorted list of railroad, utility and industrial bonds. Foreign issues were generally steady, with large sales of the Austrian 7 per cent international loan, which dropped nearly three points yesterday following withdrawal of support by the offering syndicate. Stock privilege issues were quiet and easier.

The foreign bond market was quiet, the new Austrian loan held fairly steady around yesterday's close at 93½. Standard European governments were steady. Activity in French governments slackened, and changes in the 7s and 7½s were of small consequence. Argentine issues were a soft spot in South Americans. Treasury issues were steady to firm, Liberty 1st 4¼s appreciating ⅛ of a point.

NEW YORK, July 31.—(AP.)—Transactions in the most active bonds on the New York Stock Exchange today were as follows, 000 omitted in sales column (United States bonds in dollars and thirty-seconds of dollars):

Bank of Belgium Cuts Discount Rate

BRUSSELS, July 31.—The Bank of Belgium has reduced its discount rate to 2½ per cent from 3 per cent.

STATE BANKING BUSINESS UP

HARRISBURG, July 31.—An upward trend in banking business in Pennsylvania was indicated in the quarterly report of Peter G. Cameron, secretary of banking, showing the condition of state banking institutions on June 30.

The report, compiled from information furnished the banking department by banks and trust companies, showed increases of more than $50,000,000 in resources and more than $16,000,000 in deposits, as well as the number of depositors, over a year ago. The last report, issued three months ago, contained decreases in all three.

Resources of $3,731,512,285 were shown for the 696 banking institutions under the jurisdiction of the department, compared with $3,680,069,328 for 728 banks on June 29, 1929. Total deposits on June 30 were $2,662,328,544, including $1,010,857,764 in checking accounts and $1,507,854,692 in saving deposits. The deposits a year ago amounted to $2,646,065,277. Depositors increased from 5,881,330 to 5,916,332.

Loans dropped from $1,543,932,980 in 1929 to $1,481,763,867, and investments went up from $1,606,319,123 to $1,668,371,682. Cash on hand on June 30 was $48,069,197, as against $46,316,148 a year ago.

Nat. Supply June Quarter Earnings

CHICAGO, July 31.—National Supply Company June quarter net income was $947,200, against $671,770 in the second quarter of 1929. For six months ended June 30 the report shows net profit of $1,347,071 after charges, federal taxes, etc., compared with $1,637,315 in the first half of 1929.

June quarter net income was equal to $2.98 a share on 300,000 common shares against $2.11 in the June, 1929, quarter. Six months net equalled $3.38 a common share against $4.91 in 1929.

Superior Oil Corp. Receiver Appointed

NEW YORK, July 31.—John R. Rogers has been appointed receiver for Superior Oil Corporation, on the petition of the Exchange National Bank of Tulsa, which alleges the company is unable to pay its debts and $500,000 notes due the bank.

Spang, Chalfant Earns $1.97 a Share

By GEORGE H. SNYDER.

SPANG, CHALFANT & CO., INC., maintained its earnings at a high rate during the first half of the present year in spite of the condition of general business. Orders for a large amount of line pipe compensated for dullness in demand for some of the smaller sizes and kept the company's plant working at a fairly satisfactory rate.

Net profit for the six months ended June 30, 1930, was $1,881,980 after taxes, depreciation and interest. This was equivalent to $1.97 a share on 750,000 shares of common stock after deducting preferred dividends. Earnings were only slightly below those of the corresponding period of last year when net profit of $2,046,275 or $2.17 a share was reported. They exceeded the first half of 1927 when net amounted to $1,077,275 or 96 cents a share.

Dividend requirements on $13,572,700 of 6 per cent cumulative preferred stock for an entire year were earned over 2¼ times in the first six months of 1930.

Quarterly Profits Steady

EARNINGS FOR THE FIRST quarter of the year amounted to $951,769 or $1 a share on the common stock. Second quarter profits of $930,211 or 97 cents a share showed only a minor change.

Operations during July were at a satisfactory rate and indicate the continuance of earnings at approximately the same level as in the first half of the year. Large orders are on hand for line pipe which will keep a portion of the plants busy for the remainder of the year. There is little unfilled tonnage in the smaller sizes, which are distributed through plumbing and heating supply houses.

Shipping to National

SHIPMENTS OF PIPE have been started to the National Supply Company which is the largest distributor of oil field equipment in the world. The contract for supplying the requirements of this company was closed following the completion of an agreement whereby principal stockholders sold a controlling interest in Spang, Chalfant & Co., to National.

An offer was recently made for an exchange of one-half share of preferred and one-half share of common stock of National Supply Company for every 3¼ shares of Spang, Chalfant common. Since Spang does not pay dividends on its common stock and National Supply common is on a $5 basis, it is expected that substantially all the Spang stock will be exchanged. Spang will sever its connection with the Oil Well Supply Company within a short time if the United States Steel Corporation exercises the purchase option recently given to it. Spang owns 100,000 shares of Oil Well common.

Pennsy Freight Loadings Decline

Pennsylvania Railroad handled 141,910 carloads of freight in the week ended July 26, comparing with 143,749 in the preceding week and 176,148 in the like 1929 week. Loadings from January 1 to July 26 totaled 4,252,776 cars, against 4,842,922 in the 1929 period.

CANADA GRAIN GLUT LOOMS

As the 1929-30 crop year came on an end, stores are piled higher in grain bins than they were a year ago, and a far greater crop is in the offing, but grain men believe wheat prices, lowest in 17 years, may induce overseas buyers into action.

Unless greater export demand comes soon and is sustained, a repetition of last year's grain tie up in the west is threatened.

Last fall both the Canadian National and the Canadian Pacific Railways put into effect an embargo against grain movement to packed lake head bins.

Today the best cash wheat is selling for less than 90c per bushel. Grain men believe the new low marks may start the buyers.

Pennsylvania Oil Activities Decline

OIL CITY, Pa., July 31.—The Derrick says oil producers in the Allegany and Bradford fields are greatly curtailing drilling operations in addition to restricting present production.

In the entire district producing Pennsylvania grade crude oil, the Derrick points out, there were 286 completions in July, as compared with 403 in June, and the new July production was 1,545 barrels, as compared with 2,155 in June. Fewer rigs are being erected and fewer wells drilled in the eastern territory. Curtailment of the drilling program is in line with the present low price of Pennsylvania grade crude oil.

MARKET RALLY WIPES OUT LOSSES

Auto Plant Reopenings Inspire New Confidence; Rails Show Weakness

NEW YORK, July 31.—(AP.)—The bull group, feeling that it had gone too far to give up at this juncture, struggled to regain control of the price movement in today's stock market, and managed to win back a substantial portion of the losses of the previous session.

Yesterday's severe setback proved a keen disappointment to speculative quarters, but with reports that several industrial plants which have been closed for regular July shutdowns will resume operations within the next fortnight, many traders felt that for the moment at least, the seasonal trend of business was more favorable to the bull than the bear cause.

Further flurries of selling had to be absorbed during the morning, but the fact that yesterday's break caused no heavy accumulation of selling orders at the opening was interpreted as indicating that stocks in the main are lodged with interests not easily stampeded. A firmer tone in the wheat market also helped stocks. Shorts with substantial paper profits were inclined to cover.

NEWS NOT PLEASING

The day's news was not wholly pleasing. Studebaker's second quarter statement showed net of only 41 cents, compared to $3.02 in the like period last year. Although the dividend was reduced from $5 to $4 annually on April 30, it is obvious that a further substantial reduction must be made unless directors wish to dip further into surplus. Buffalo, Rochester and Pittsburgh passed its $2 semi-annual payment due at this time, the first class one railroad to take such action this year.

Call money remained fairly plentiful, despite the approach of the August 1 settlements. During the next day or so payments for the new American Telephone stock, as well as interest and dividend payment, will result in a turnover of about $600,000,000. Despite recent loss of more than $40,000,000 in gold, however, the money market fails to show strain. Call loans renewed at 2 per cent and there were some outside offerings at 1½.

Commission house sentiments was diverse and non-commital. The fact that the operators who have engineered the rally from the June lows have failed to attract a public following, and that they have failed to make notable progress since July 18, inspired considerable caution.

RAILS ARE WEAK

During the morning selling, losses of 1 to 3 points or more in several of the leading shares were numerous, but most of these were recorded before midday, as the list developed a firm tone. Rails, however, were decidedly heavy, reflecting the B. R. & P. dividend omission. Missouri Pacific broke 6 points, and New York Central, Chesapeake and Ohio, and Baltimore and Ohio sagged 2 or more. The Chicago and Alto issues sold up a little in response to announcement that Baltimore and Ohio was negotiating for the road, and Atchison and Southern Railway reflected short covering.

Gillette and Autostrop were again strong, the last named reaching another new high. Gillette gained several points, as gossip regarding dissolution of a bear pool, and possible acquisition of Autostrop, was again heard. Such issues as Du Pont, Byers, Worthington, Allied Chemical and Eastman gained 3 to 6 points or more. American Can, Westinghouse Electric, Air Reduction, Vanadium, U. S. Steel and American Telephone gained a point or two. Radio and General Motors moved narrowly.

Rails and Few Specialties Lead Heavy Selling on Current Downtrend

As happened on the spring declines, selling on the current downswing again started with the rails and a few bear targets like Safeway Stores and Gillette Safety Razor. Sniping away at these vulnerable spots, bears were able to undermine the rest of the list and bring out considerable liquidation. One school of market theorists clings tenaciously to the belief that a major uptrend in the industrial stocks must be confirmed by the rails. Consequently when the rails are weak, this school is skeptical of a contrary trend in the rest of the market. Drought and crop deterioration in the agricultural districts are advanced as a bearish argument against prospects of improvement in rail earnings later in the year.

In spite of the increasing demands for funds, incidental to greater month-end requirements, money remained abundant for demand loans at 2 per cent, the renewal charge yesterday. Banks called $15,000,000, it was estimated, but elsewhere the demand was light. Time rates held steady. Bankers and money brokers looked for little sign of an early stiffening in rates, even though inferior demands were expected to increase with the growth of the grain crop movement in the next few weeks.

Looking over bank and business reviews which are issued periodically, it appears that most of them base their hopes for business recovery, and incidentally improvement in stocks, on the purging process of low commodity prices and curtailed production. While admitting that the depression is painful and slow, they contend that it is only a question of time until it works the cure. Eventually low commodity prices, reduction of production and surpluses and reduction of retail prices to wholesale levels will stimulate buying.

Although prospects of a fall revival were stressed in the recent marking-up of stocks, bulls failed to make capital yesterday of the United States Steel Corporation's statement pointing to an early upturn in business. Dominated by the professional element at present, the market lived up to its traditional contrariness and a mild rally in United States, American Can and a few other leaders was the only response of the market around the opening. With a larger public following, the market likely would have made a better showing on a prediction of improvement carrying the weight of the composite judgment of Steel Corporation's financial heads.

The new management of Continental Oil seems to be charging everything against income, including the office cat. For the six months ended June 30, Continental reports total income of $13,594,000. Then it proceeds to make the following charges against said income: Franchise taxes, $793,000; intangible development costs, $2,577,000; depletion, $2,295,000; and minority interest, $20,000; a total of $10,952,000, leaving a balance of $2,643,000. These charges are equal to approximately 80 per cent of total income.

The earnings of a number of lines of industry look worse than current business really justifies, according to the president of one large corporation. "Our consumers," said he, "are very cautious and are not keeping normal stocks of goods on their shelves. Some sell almost as much as last year, but do not make normal replacements. The result is greatly reduced inventories and this, of course, means smaller earnings for the producer. But in time, merchants and others will get back to normal and this will mean enlarged purchases and better earnings for the manufacturer."

NEW YORK CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, July 31.—(AP.)—The Curb market steadied today after the vigorous selling that unsettled prices in the late dealings on Wednesday. Opening quotations showed extremely small variations, and the market thereafter was subject to small movements in both directions, with trading dull.

A few of the utilities yielded a point or more in the minor declines of the forenoon, but pressure was only mild and the more active stocks displayed good recuperative powers when the selling relaxed. American Gas and Electric yielded fractionally and then recovered briskly on a rally that carried it several points net higher. Electric Bond and Share turned over in large volume within a nominal price range. Specialties were dull and somewhat heavy.

Following is the list of transactions on the New York Curb Exchange giving all stocks and bonds traded (00 omitted in sales column of stock list; 000 omitted in sales column of bond lists):

GRAIN MARKET

CHICAGO, July 31.—(AP.)—Both corn and wheat prices took an early upward swing today. An unofficial estimate put the present condition of the corn crop at 69.6 per cent, the lowest since 1911, and the prospective yield this season at 307,000,000 bushels less than the government July 1 forecast. Wheat values were influenced by corn strength, by comparative firmness of the Liverpool market and by assertions that export business yesterday was much larger than had been acknowledged. Opening at ¼@1¼c advance, corn later scored additional gains. Wheat started unchanged to 1c higher and afterward rose all around.

Narrow Losses Recorded In Early Trading Here; Colonial Trust Recedes

Prices were slightly lower in the early dealings on the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange today and there was but little change in the volume of business. Fluctuations in the usually active issues were confined to fractions, as has been the case during most of the week.

Lone Star Gas slipped back a little further following its moderate decline yesterday. A block of Lone Star preferred came out at 106, off a full point from the last previous sale, recorded about two weeks ago. The other fuels were quiet and narrow.

Industrial issues were neglected and only nominal bids and offers were chalked up in this division. Rustless Iron was the only stock showing a gain on the opening, starting the day at a small fractional advance over last night's final.

A 10-share lot of Colonial Trust was handled at 317, a drop of 13 points from its last previous sale, made on July 16.

BETTER FEELING IN TOBACCO

Better feeling regarding the tobacco shares prevails just now. For some weeks, this group practically has been neglected, and the fact that the leaders did not share proportionately in the advances recorded in other features was quite a disappointment. Cigaret sales are holding up well, and the larger companies naturally are likely to make favorable reports of earnings for the current year. No talk has been heard recently of another cigaret price advance. A rumor to that effect was responsible for considerable speculative buying in the tobaccos earlier this year.

To the Readers of The Sun-Telegraph:

Selling transportation is much the same as selling any other commodity . . . the customer must be satisfied if any future business from him is expected.

This is particularly true in selling Used Cars, as the money involved usually represents a considerable sum to the purchaser. Consequently it is our aim to make the customer fully acquainted with the car he selects in order to eliminate any misunderstanding.

We have estimated the potential mileage of a number of our Used Cars and listed them in today's Classified Used Car Ads. See them now.

DAILY TRUE STORY

Eden Cove

Luke Abbott was also efficient and ambitious. From office boy he had worked his way up to be office manager for Ellison, Inc., with splendid prospects of becoming secretary-treasurer when old Mr. Kellogg resigned, which he expected to do in another year.

Hetty had her desk near the big desk that Luke occupied, and while he didn't need the entire services of a stenographer he saw to it that Hetty did whatever work in that line that had to be done.

Abbott became interested in Hetty Baldwin about five minutes after her first arrival at the office to work, which was about a year before this.

Two days before he had engaged her, but it was a rainy day and her hat was down over her head and she wore a slicker and seemed to be just like "all the rest of them." The neatness and speed with which she took a letter from Abbott and typed it was what got her the position.

When she came to work two days later there was sunshine outside and fleecy clouds and a feeling of Spring in the air.

He had been watching her from the moment she entered. He saw Miss Stebbins assign her to a locker, saw her hang up her things, take a quick glance in the mirror and then, when Miss Stebbins directed her, start over in his direction.

In this five minutes Luke Abbott knew just where he wanted Hettie Baldwin—quite near to him—near to him always he felt sure. At least, he believed that he had, because never before had he been so attracted and so instantaneously interested in a girl.

He really had not intended to put here there. He had planned to put her down by the door and move the prim Miss Stebbins over to the desk beside him.

Rule of Firm

Hetty Baldwin was always cheerful, but never gabby or presumptuous, and she certainly turned out her work with such neatness and dispatch that the much-abused word "efficient" certainly fitted her.

Luke Abbott was a cheerful young man, however, and he didn't propose to lose his head instanter—he wanted to find out more about Hetty Baldwin.

Also he remembered the oft-repeated axiom of Mr. Thomas Ellison, who was fully nine-tenths of the Ellison, Inc., house of advertising. Mr. Ellison's pet axiom was:

"Be pleasant but never intimate with young women employes. Sentiment of that nature undermines business efficiency."

Oh, yes, Luke remembered it and he had never violated it. But then he had never met any young lady like Hetty Baldwin up to this time.

Luke wasn't intimate with Hetty for a very long time, but he was certainly pleasant with her.

However, he couldn't see where it would undermine his business efficiency in the least if he took her out to dinner and theater. This would be strictly after office hours and really none of Mr. Ellison's business.

Hetty Baldwin told Luke Abbott that she would very much enjoy going to dinner with him and then to the theater. Luke got into his dinner clothes after being perfectly tonsored and went up to the West Side apartment, where Hetty lived with her married sister.

As Hetty took him in the married sister came out and was introduced.

"I have no apology to make, Mr. Abbott," said the married sister. "I came out to see what sort of a young man Hetty is going out with."

Hetty was in her room at this moment getting ready with those last feminine touches so much like a ritual.

Luke smiled at Mrs. Wilford. "What is the report?" he asked.

She blushed a little and then laughed. "You'll do," she said, and then, more seriously, "Hetty and I are all left of the family, and I feel that I'm watching over Hetty, only goodness knows she is wiser and cleverer than I'll ever be. Hetty is a nice girl."

"Which is why I asked her out," Luke said.

They had a most enjoyable evening.

Hetty Praised

And after that for a long, long while they had many enjoyable evenings.

It is doubtful if any of the office force knew that their office manager and Hetty Baldwin were going about together a great deal.

Even old man Ellison himself didn't suspect it. Probably he wouldn't have minded, Luke thought, so long as this friendship took on no visible signs in the office.

But later Luke thought that perhaps Ellison did have a hunch that his ambitious young office manager had added other ambitions to his dreams of the future—ambitions in which Hetty Baldwin figured largely and grandly and beautifully as Mrs. Luke Abbott.

"Miss Baldwin. We needed some changes for those Western prospects and she made such rattling good suggestions that I had her use them," Abbott explained.

"Clever, clever. It's a relief to find one who can do a little thinking for the house of Ellison," he said.

One day Mr. Ellison sent for Hetty to come into his office.

She went promptly, as would any employe.

Luke wondered what the devil and all the old man wanted of Hetty. When she came out she seemed quite happy.

"What's up, dear?" Luke whispered to her.

They had reached the "dear" stage.

"Just office business. Some woman is coming on from the West who has the placing of the Golphort advertising. Mr. Ellison asked my advice."

Luke beamed.

"That's the girl, dear—that's mighty good," he said.

Luke didn't call on Hetty that night—it wasn't his night. They had been busy during the day and he hadn't had a chance to ask her for details of what Mr. Ellison wanted of her in connection with the Golphort advertising woman.

When one o'clock came next day Luke said, "Hop out to your lunch, honey—lots of work ahead for this afternoon."

"Can't. I've got to go out at two—"

Mr. Ellison came along just then.

"Er — Miss Baldwin, don't forget our two o'clock appointment," he said.

Through With Girls

"No sir," she replied.

Luke arranged some papers on his desk that had already been perfectly arranged and said nothing, but he was doing a lot of thinking.

"We're going to take the Golphort advertising woman to luncheon, Luke. We'll land that advertising, see if we don't," Hetty said, considerably later, as she was getting ready to go out.

Some of the girls looked astonished when Hetty and Mr. Ellison went out together.

Neither Hetty nor Mr. Ellison came back to the office that day. That night when Luke got to his rooms there was a telegram from Hetty, which read:

That didn't make Luke break out into three cheers, nor did it make him go about tearing his hair.

Next day Hetty was radiant. The Golphort woman came into the office and the deal went through. Luke congratulated her.

A few days later Mr. Ellison said to Luke, "That is a clever girl—that Miss Baldwin. Got a lot of business sense. I believe she did as much as I did to land our Golphort woman. I'm going to move her over as my personal secretary."

Luke Abbott wanted to say, "Like ——— you are," but Luke had both feet on the ground and wasn't rattle-brained, so he only said, "Yes, sir. Shall I engage a new girl? Is your secretary being—er—released?"

"She's getting married. Get a new girl," Ellison said.

Hetty knew what Mr. Ellison was saying. When he had gone Hetty said, "Isn't it wonderful?"

"For everybody except me," Luke answered and he didn't keep his engagement to call on her that night.

Instead of that he made plans for a vacation. He wouldn't waste time on girls—he was through. What he wanted was a camp—a place for vacations and also for week-ends. The advertisement of a sale of lots on a beautiful lake attracted him. The next day he bought two lots which, according to the map, were on Eden Cove, or at the tip of the cove, comprising the inside two lots of the four that made up this point of land.

Takes Vacation

He caught only a brief sight of Hetty next day for she had moved over to Mr. Ellison's private offices.

Weeks passed. Now and then Luke and Hetty would meet. Luke always managed to grin at her and say, "Getting along pretty swell, what?"

Finally the time came for Luke's vacation. He was to have a full month this year. Already he had bought a portable house and sent it up to Eden Cove on the lake. He had driven up Sunday and found the place ideal if only he could have bought the whole point. If he had known he would have bought four lots then; now it was too late.

He moved in on the fourth day when his furnishings came.

Sunday morning Luke caught some fish and was cooking them when someone looked into his kitchen and cried: "Luke!"

It was Hetty.

"What are you doing here?" he asked.

"Hunting for my two lots—I'll bet you've gone and built on them—"

"Between us we own the point. I suppose I'll have to sell mine to Ellison, what?"

"Don't be silly, Luke dear."

"Then suppose we move my—our house in the middle of the four lots and get married tomorrow. We can't live in Eden Cove in these days without being married. It was just the great god Luck that brought us together, darling," Luke said.

"Yes indeedy, darling," Hetty agreed. She never told him that she bought the lots only when her brother-in-law, who happened to be the man who sold Luke his, told her all about it!

Ethical Code for the Man on the Edge of the Gutter

"We want an esprit de corps which will give every whitewing a pride in his work . . . we must elevate him in the public mind."—Sanitation Commissioner Charles S. Hand, of New York.

When you see a lone street sweeper
Cheer him on to something deeper,
    Something that will boost his sagging spirit de corps—
Tip your hat with gesture swanky,
Cry a "Bravo!" wave your hanky
    Elevate him from the doldrums of his chore.
Compliment him on neatness
Of the boulevard and sweetness
    Of the ozone, thanks to him, that you enjoy—
Introduce yourself and mutter
Something nice about the gutter,
    And, departing, shout a ringing "Attaboy!"

And about the only way to be sure a candidate will obey the will of the people is to elect somebody else.

Outrageous Threat of Pittsburgh Coal Company

The Pittsburgh Coal Company may be "within the law," as it says (although others hold a different opinion), in its plan to remove the last supporting pillars from its mines under Mt. Lebanon unless the owners of the surface land buy the underlying coal; but, whether lawful or not, the proposed course is almost incredibly selfish and despicable. Shylock demanding his pound of flesh!

Most of the coal, it seems, has been taken from under the surface land in question and there remain only a few columns of coal that were left to support the mine roof. The company, now preparing to abandon the operations, asks the owners of the land over the mines, mostly residential property, to purchase these pillars of coal at from 50 to 75 cents a ton. The company admits that if the pillars are removed the land above may sag, throwing houses out of plumb, and subjecting the residents to no end of annoyance, if not to serious danger.

Could anything be more contemptible? For the sake of the comparatively few dollars that can be realized from the sale of these pillars of coal this immensely rich company, with total assets of $171,573,321, professes to be ready to jeopardize the comfort, if not the safety, of the people occupying the homes above its mines.

This is the same Pittsburgh Coal Company that broke its contract with the United Mine Workers, the same company that subsidized the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce and endeavored to give the appearance of disinterested service to its own selfish machinations. It is the same company that employed the coal and iron police who beat John Borkowski to death.

When will the Pittsburgh Coal Company learn that this is the twentieth century, that business is not done in that way any more, that up-to-date corporations prize good-will and strive to make friends? The Pittsburgh Coal Company seems intent only on making enemies.

7 Per Cent on Your Money

With a Possibility of 10 Per Cent, on Hearst Publications Preferred Stock.

Those interested in profitable investment should know that the Hearst Consolidated Publications, Inc., offers 7 per cent, cumulative, preferred stock, in Mr. Hearst's publishing business, which is the biggest in the world,

In addition to 7 per cent return on their investment, the holders of preferred stock will share equally with the common stockholders, up to an additional 3 per cent after payment of $1.75 on the common stock,

Such an investment today makes possible, above the assured 7 per cent, an additional earning of 3 per cent, raising the total income to 10 per cent,

The important fact is that the properties from which this preferred stock draws the first dividend have, during the last four years, earned more than three times 7 per cent on the total issue,

The properties on which the stock is issued include the New York Evening Journal, the Chicago Evening American, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, Pitt Building Company, Detroit Times, San Francisco Examiner, Oakland Post-Enquirer, San Francisco Call-Bulletin, Los Angeles Examiner, Los Angeles Evening Herald, Seattle Post-Intelligencer, American Weekly, American Newsprint Company,

Application will be made to list the stock on the New York Curb, the Chicago Stock Exchange, the San Francisco Stock Exchange and the Los Angeles Stock Exchange,

The stock now offered, based on properties highly profitable, may be purchased at any of the offices of the National City Company throughout the country, the Bank of Italy, the Crocker First National Bank of San Francisco, the Anglo and London Paris Bank of San Francisco, Continental and Illinois Bank and Trust Company of Chicago and the Bank of America of California, as well as the cashier's office of any Hearst newspaper or corporation in the United States,

Of a total issue of 2,000,000 shares now offered, 400,000 shares are reserved for officers and employes of the Hearst organization. An important part of Mr. Hearst's plan in offering this stock issue is to promote "employe stock ownership," which has been found so desirable in modern business methods,

Under the arrangement, Mr. Hearst, personally, will not draw a cent of dividends from the properties involved until 7 per cent has been paid on all the preferred stock,

This issue of stock, having as security the greatest publishing business in the United States, earning sufficient to pay the dividends more than three times over, affords an opportunity to invest small or large amounts at a 7 per cent return on the money, plus the possibility of an additional return of 3 per cent, which would make net earnings 10 per cent,

Those wishing to purchase this stock should not delay, as the readers of the various newspapers involved represent a great buying power,

The profits on these publications have increased steadily, from $10,000,806 in 1926 to $12,854,627 last year, when dividend requirements were earned 3.60 times,

The purchase of this preferred stock by those desiring a safe investment, and a good return on their money, is recommended to our readers,

1. Freckled,
2. Gray at 30,
3. A vegetarian,
4. Abstained from alcoholic drinks,
5. Drank water with sugar,
6. Addicted to spraying himself with essence of black currants and attar of roses,

Of course, a scholar must make an unbiased report—but it doesn't seem quite right after four and a half centuries, to bring up the attar of roses thing.

"Bugs" Baer Says:

One for Ripley

Have you ever seen a million people in a lump?

Is it possible to see a million people at one swipe?

"Bugs" Baer

We saw them last Sunday at Coney Island from the roof of the Half Moon Hotel. They were on the beach and in the water. It was possible to look down and say, "There are a million people."

The New York subways alone took over a million to Coney Island. The view from the Half Moon takes in the island at a sweep from Sea Gate to Brighton. In addition to that, you could see the Rockaways and far beyond.

So in case we happened to be running for postmaster or alderman, we could say two million. The beach below the hotel was dotted like a picnic plate in ant time. In perspective the crowds jammed together until the ocean front for miles was a bright sunburned pink.

The capes, indentations and straight beaches seemed to be flesh-colored ribbon running out to sea and then waving back like a pink serpent. It was difficult to realize that the solid chunk of flesh-colored fringe was human beings trying to keep cool during a heat wave that would have melted the devil's horns.

But there they were and there they stayed. They bathed in the bay and slept on the sands at night. It is a curious sensation to be able to say that you have looked down upon a million human beings in one multitude.

How do they enjoy themselves in such a congestion? How far out do they swim? Well, they seem to use very little of the ocean. They got out about ankle deep and scamper back to the basket lunch.

A few intrepid citizens paddle out to the ropes and hang on until exhausted. But the great majority seem perfectly content to allow Gertie Ederle to grab the medals for channel touring.

Coney Island is the safety valve of New York City. If it were not for the beaches on Sunday the population would go mad and start throwing buildings at each other.

It is the only place in the world where you can claim to have seen a million people in one week-end huddle. The largest crowd we had seen until that time was at a football game in England. The Dempsey-Carpentier fight attracted 90,000. Unfortunately for Georges, it attracted him too.

Tops for our famous world series and football games are around the same number. An amateur baseball game in Cleveland once claimed over a hundred thousand and that was correct. The game was played in a natural ampitheater formed by hills.

But we know of no other place than Coney Island where you can actually tabulate a million people in one look and know that you are seeing that many.

FARADAY'S MIND

By Archibald Henderson

Perhaps the greatest forerunner of contemporary physics was Michael Faraday, one of the supremely gifted and most imaginatively fertile experimenters in the history of science. Einstein, the greatest imaginative thinker in science in our era, is now working to show, theoretically, the interrelations of gravitation, electricity and magnetism. He is endeavoring to establish unshakable theoretical foundations for scientific syntheses long ago divined by Faraday.

One of the rich mines for future investigators is the diary of Faraday, embodying the description of more than sixteen thousand experiments and his ruminations and theories excited by these experiments. How fully he anticipated the ideas of Einstein is represented in the passages given below.

Einstein's first crucial test was the influence of the electro-magnetic field of the sun in causing the deviation of a light-ray. We find that Faraday had actually shown a definite connection between magnetism and light. Thus he says:

A piece of heavy glass was experimented with. It gave no effect when the same magnetic poles or the contrary poles were on opposite sides (as respects the course of the polarized ray)—nor when the same poles were on the same side either with the constant or intermitting current. But when contrary magnetic poles were on the same side, there was an effect produced by the polarized ray, and thus magnetic force and light were proved to have relation to each other. This fact will most likely prove exceedingly fertile and of great value in the investigation of conditions of natural force.

The mutual relation of electricity, magnetism and motion may be represented by three lines at right angles to each other, any one of which may represent any one of three points, and the other two lines the other points.

Then if electricity be determined in one line, and motion in another, magnetism will be developed in the third; or if electricity be determined in one line and magnetism in another, motion will occur in the third; or, if magnetism be determined first, the motion will produce electricity or electricity motion; or, if motion be the first point determined, magnetism will evolve electricity, or electricity magnetism.

Gravity—Surely this force must be capable of an experimental relation to electricity, magnetism and the other forces, so as to bind it up with them in reciprocal action and equivalent effect.

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

"I think you write a wonderful column," says she, "and I'm so grateful to you for it."

You needn't be, lady. I don't write this column. Life writes it. I'm just a sort of receiving and broadcasting station for a million other folks' wave lengths and static. You shouldn't be grateful to me. But no one but myself and God know what infinite reason I have to be grateful to you. For there isn't a second of the day that I'm not getting something from somebody. And if I worked for an eternity, I never could repay the debt I owe.

In a way, all jobs are a gift. A chance to get in on the Big Game. But I doubt if any other worker gets quite as much out of his job—or owes as much out of his job—as a columnist. Friendliness and understanding—how you've given it to me all these years, my dears! And comfort and encouragement when I thought I couldn't go on for another day—

Criticism, to. And many a good bawling out. That's perhaps an even more valuable gift. For I do write the most foolish things at times! And I suspect it's good for my soul to be told frequently that I'm a pain in the neck.

"Pooh!" some cynic will say, "people write you letters like that on the chance of seeing their name in print. Just looking for publicity—that's all."

Guess again, stranger! Never a day but some unsigned letter comes to this desk—some tired woman, some busy man, taking time off to wish me well, telling me to go on. Never a day but a hand reaches out in the dark and grips me when I'm stumbling.

Call that "looking for publicity?" Then you're a pretty poor judge of livestock, bo! No, man, it's a gift—the greatest gift on earth.

And how can I pay for that gift? I can't.

The debt I owe you—always it goes on, mounting and mounting. Every laugh and every tear and every dream you share with me adds to that debt. And—in a way—that's true of all of us.

All that we have is somebody's gift to us.

The streets we walk on—the cities we live in—the tools we use—the clothes we wear—

The books we read—the songs we hear—the pictures we see—

Yes, even more than this—the standards we live by, and the heroic goals to which we aspire—they are all gifts. They are all stained with the sweat of other men—and quick with their tears and hopes.

Everything in the man-made world is the gift of other men now living or long dead. They have left us a very great gift and a very great debt—

And there is only one way in which we can pay that debt. We can only pay for our GETTING by GIVING.

If there's Beauty in your life or Honor or Courage or Wisdom or Tenderness or Wit or anything fine or serviceable—PASS IT ON. Pass it on to others as it was passed on to you.

Worst Story I Have Heard Today

By WILL ROGERS,

There was a business man took charge of a penwiper factory that wasn't doing so well financially. He found out that the trouble with the factory was that the money was all being spent keeping records and graphs and efficiency charts and all that. Half of the help was checkers that sat around with stop-watches clocking the others. They hadn't any room to keep the spare penwipers in any more, because all the warehouses was full of files of trick records. So the new manager wired the efficiency bureau in New York that was handling the business:

Next day he got a long telegram and part of what it said was: "Sending forty experts to copy records you burn. Also ten psychologists to give mental tests to help you are firing. We must have records to find out how these boys failed to make success at your factory. Will send bill to you."

And he wired back: "You're fired, clockers and experts are fired, records are burned. We will now start making penwipers."

History

Lost within a wood at night,
I have glimpsed the stars' calm light
So serene and clear, it seemed
Woodland mazes were but dreamed;
Yet the earthward glance once more
Found ways darker than before.

History lets its glories shine
On these days of yours and mine
With the splendor of a star,
Passionless and very far;
But on paths where men must tread
Little of its light is shed.
Groping through the new ways we go
And the upward climb is slow.

Yet we find all history
Came through men like these we see;
Men who sometimes stumbled where
Now all seems so plain and fair.
Bad men made great nations wane,
Wise men lifted them again,
And in future as in past
All time's changes, vague and vast,
Will be shaped for history
Still by men like these we see.

THE SCIENCE OF LIFE

By H. G. WELLS

In Collaboration With

Prof. Julian Huxley and George P. Wells.

AGE, RETROGRESSION AND REJUVENATION

The experiments of Steinach and others on gland-graf and the exploiting of them by a certain section of the d press have made rejuvenation a subject of general intere

But all to rarely has the public discussion of the matter treated it as more than a stunt, a nine-days' wonder, a subject of music hall jokes, or, even if it has got beyond this stage, done more than debate the bona fides of the experimentators and the genuiness of the facts. It may serve a useful purpose to discuss the question on the broadcast biological scale; against this background the results on man and higher animals will show up in their right proportions.

H. G. Wells

First of all, we must make quite clear what we mean by age and youth. Are we to define them in terms of time, or as physiological conditions? When we say that one animal is younger than another, do we mean that it has lived fewer years, days or minutes, or that it is not so far along the road to senile breakdown and natural death?

Only one answer is possible: age must be measured physiologically, not by time. Even among human beings in whom the life-cycle has a relatively fixed framework, that is obvious enough. Which of us does not know men and women who at 60 are younger in every quality both of body and mind than other people are at 50?

Men and women, we say, and at the bottom of our hearts we firmly believe, are as old as they feel. The clear skin and eye, the wrinkles and stiff joints, these are the things that count; the birth certificate is a mere formality in comparison with these physiological truths.

Then there are the half-abnormal cases of precocious senility; a man of 50 is overtaken by the sudden onset of those symptoms of real senility which in the bulk of humanity are postponed until 20 or 30 years later.

And there are definite diseases of the function of ageing. The most spectacular, and luckily one of the rarest, is that called progeria, or anticipated senility.

An apparently normal baby is born. At two it already has a careworn expression. Like the precocious infant in the Bab Ballads, it is "an old dotard at five," or at least is losing hair and showing other signs of age.

By 12 the child is bald and looks like a miniature old man; and it generally dies of old age before "coming of age" in the ordinary acceptance of that term.

When we consider the generality of organisms our contentio becomes even more obvious. Since they have no temperature-regulating machinery, their activities go up and down with the outer temperature, and their rate of growing old is no exception.

Most animals and plants only thrive over some part of the temperature range between five and 40 degrees centigrade; between these limits the rate of ageing is increased by temperature about two and a half times for each ris of 10 degrees centigrade—a rat of increase which holds for mos other functions, too, such a breathing, walking or digestion.

Some of the most accurate experiments have been done on the fruit fly of Drosophila. The total span of life at 30 degrees centigrade is 21 days; at 15 degrees centigrade it is 124 days. After a female fly has laid her first few eggs one could, by keeping the young mother at 15 degrees and her offspring at 30 degrees, readily insure that she should be younger than her own great-great-grandchildren.

The same is true of cold-blooded vertebrates.

By age, then, we mean physiological age, measurable in terms of the organism's own state, not time-age, measured by any outer timekeeper, and by rejuvenation we mean a return to a more youthful physiological state.

In general, it is found that young animals grow faster, move faster, react with more alacrity, and that, therefore, their oxygen consumption, which is readily and accurately measurable, is more rapid.

It appears probable also that the viscosity of protoplasm increases with age—it becomes thicker, less liquid, as it grows older. Old tissues are thus more solid and more sluggish.

Further, while young animals are less resistant than old animals to markedly unfavorable conditions, they are better able to overcome and adapt themselves to slightly unfavorable conditions.

It is as if a starving ship's crew ate one mate, one deckhand from each watch, and one engineer, so as still to be a working unit if their circumstances improved.

So the whole Planarian can continue to shrink without marked change in shape or in behavior, until it is reduced to less than one-hundredth of its original bulk, to a size even below that at which it hatched from the egg. Such diminished animals still work and can be made to grow again at any moment by supplying them with food.

Abroad With A New Yorker

By O. O. McIntyre

DOORN.—This is the sleepy Holland village that became a conspicuous first page date-line when Kaiser Wilhelm suddenly gave up kaisering to chop wood and grow pretty flowers. It sprawls about a small triangular park with a proud, ancient elm in its center. Circling the elm is a wooden bench.

Drowsing on the bench were village loafers gazing at passing motorists with that bland air of Dutch detachment so frequently mistaken for dumbness. Far off floated the dolorous zing, zoom, sing of a blacksmith anvil. Bluebottle flies buzzed in the gutters of the cobbled street. Life had the scum of stagnation.

Yet Doorn was charged with something electric. The inhabitants have that tranquility of those who live on the edge of a crater. Every stranger is eyed as though secretly suspected of an important mission. Mysterious cars with goggled strangers whisk in and out from Germany. Doorn is always "expecting something."

In a brash moment I sent a note to the Kaiser's secretary asking for an audience with the royal exile. I had no credentials, as the trip here was a last moment whim. I could only refer them to their copy of "Who's Who in America." I did not expect a reply. It was a wild chance, impulsively taken.

The courier returned, however, with a courteous reply. The Kaiser Wilhelm and Kaizerin, as Holland knows them, had motored to a neighboring village to spend the day. This was later verified by a cafe waiter who had seen them pass. "He koom here for ein glass of bier sometimes," he added.

The reply invited members of the party to see the Kaiser's rosarium, a large garden adjoining his forested privacy. The rosarium is a triumph of floral culture with a background of linden trees. We passed the big tree with the white bench where the Kaiser has been seen in movie news reels.

After completing the rosarium, he presented it as his grateful gift to the village of Doorn for furnishing him his Holland refuge. He walks there daily with his little black dog. At 81 his step is firm. It is whispered that often in early hours with binoculars he gazes from a tower window toward the Fatherland. And sighs.

Huize Doorn, the estate of the ex-war lord, is a three-minute walk from the mid-town square—a square with a cafe, seamstress parlor, drug store, tinsmith, bank and brick Lutheran church. Op the most hated man in the the Kaiser lives apparently afraid. There are no high or embattled towers. Only a gile wire netting surround acres. He walks to the v alone. Children adore him they tell of a peaceful do growls savagely only at the ser's car.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

You like to tell of the extraordinary things you have done

If opportunities to recount these experiences don't come naturally you make an opening for a recital of them.

You like to impress others with your business acumen, your success in an athletic way, what you have done that has been commended in outside circles.

The fact that you have carried some line to success and others have found it praiseworthy is not so unusual.

Every man of action who has won success must necessarily have done some things better than the majority of men.

Those who have arrived and are still going ahead toward greater things have very little use for the man who is satisfied with what he has done.

They are not interested in the past—they want to look to th future.

What is to come is more inviting than what has transpired.

If you want to be well received you must have constructive ide r the future as well as the present.

Banish regrets, most men have them, and with hope in the to come and confidence in yourself blaze a trail upward.
